State. In subsequent numbers we gave the entire history of the transactions, as our readers very well know. If the Patriot calls that rather remarkable compilation of figures and reports that was intended to make the people of the State believe that Governor Geary had received this money, and kept it in his pocket, "the history of the affair," then we were certainly dereliet in duty. We did not publish that, nor did we intend. Peffer, of Carlisle, was nominated. The warrants drawn on twenty-eight horses. About three o'clock special account are not paid out of any in the morning, when nearly ready to appropriation, but out of a fund raised start for Baraboo, the canvas-men and the issue of stocks and bonds. The subjoined warrants contained in Section us tariffs, through which our industrial I, and drawn on account of the Count Iouse and Armories, can be charged under at least six different heads. The usual mode of procedure with certain accounts, is to draw a sufficient number of warrants to exhaust the appropriations torch, and in a short space of time ninein a few days, and then to draw on "special account," as occasion requires. During the years 1869, 1870, and part of 871, in which, according to the "Ring's" wn acknowledgment, the sum of about their hoofs so badly burned that blood $8,223,979.89 was expended on the new Court House, the legislative appropriation for this purpose amounted to only $1,400,000. From 1858 to 1868 the Legislature appropriated the sum of $4,500,-000 for building the Court House, and in 1871 a further appropriation was made of $750,000. It will thus be readly understood that the assertion of Mr. Robert Roosevelt, the Democratic representative of the Fourth Congressional District, that the new Court House had already cost $12,000,000, is rather under than over the mark. The building is still incomplete. In the neighboring County of Kings there was built, between the fall of 1861 and 1865, when work and materials were at their highest, a Court House which of draught horses. The main tent, concovers within one-sixth of the area taining the menagerie, escaped destrucoccupied by that of New York. The structure is of marble, brick, and iron, and the internal furnishing is in most respects equal to and in many superior that of the New York Court House. The original cost of the building in Brooklyn was $551,758.28, and its cost for three men who were injured at Swede up to the present time $745,601.54. The cost up to the present time of the unfinished New York Court House would, therefore, be sufficient to build and maintain, during six years, sixteen such Court Houses as that of Brooklyn. The warrants which we now present re arranged under three separate sections. The first includes payments made to certain favored firms on account that the National debt should be paid of work and materials furnished, or said to have been furnished, to the County Buildings and Offices, and to the Armories of the National Guard. We shall direct attention to such of these totals as are obviously and grossly fraudulent. Under the second section will be found the list of warrants paid for Stationery, Printing, and the total paid for Advertising. How closely lead-> with these transactions will be fully explained. SEC. III, contains the list of warrants drawn on account of a quarter's rept of Armories and Drill-rooms on April 29, 1871. These payments will illustrate how false is the Ring plea that the 'new regime' inaugurated a more economical system than that which prevailed under the old Board of Supervisors. It will be seen from this statement that every fraudulent lease made under the spices of the old Board has been adopted by the men now at the head of which were carefully transcribed from the Controller's books. As these have been, "almost without exception, fully verified by a comparison with the accounts now in possession of the Supervisors, the perfect correctness of the enire list is beyond any question. Its accuracy has never been disputed even by those it most directly inculpates, and since the production of the accounts for the action of the joint-committee of Aldermen and Supervisors, it stands sub-

It is in opposition to the plain letter of issue excursion tickets during the "fair" law, as well as to the most obvious dic tates of common sense, and no time need be wasted in answering it. The attempt made to cast the main portion of the odium attaching to the ssue of these warrants upon the old Board of Supervisors, has been equally insuccessful. Many of the obligations which they represent were contracted after the old Board has ceased to exist, at the end of 1869. In regard to many that were contracted before that time, if has been shown that they were approved by the interim Board of Audit, which came between the abolition of the old and the opening of the new regime, and which was composed of Tweed, Connolly, and Hall. In a letter of August 19, addressed by John Foley to Mayor Hall; it is stated that, at a single sitting, the Board audited and allowed claims against the county to the amount of $6,812,541.

The following details of county ex penditures leave untouched a large imount of other payments of a fraudulent character. TABLEAUX .- According to announcement previously made, the tableaux for prosperous condition, and are perfecting the benefit of the Sabbath School con nected with St. John's Episcopal church took place in Rheem's Hall, on Friday evening last. The hall was filled with a large and brilliant audience, long before the hour named for the commencemen of the entertainment.

The tableaux were gotten up in a ichness of style seldom surpassed, while the music was all that could be desired, being furnished by Widner's Orchestra We have been informed that the Sabbath School realized a very handsome sum. Much credit is due to the parties interested, for the success which attended their efforts in getting up a creditable evening's entertainment. We hear mother one spoken of to come off in a

THE LECTURE SEASON.—A few weeks since, we noticed the fact that our citizens were to be entertained with a course of six lectures, similar to those enjoyed last winter a year. Messrs. Bosler, Ore and Blair, the committee, informs us that they have secured the celebrated Quintette Club of Boston, for a single evening's entertainment, during the course. This is said to be one of the most popular concert troupes in the United States. We will here state that this Troupe is engaged for nearly every night during the coming Winter, and receive $250 per night.

They also inform us, that if a sufficient number of course tickets are sold to citizens of Mechanicsburg, Shippens burg and Newville, extra trains will be run on the Cumberland Valley at excursion rates, thus affording the people of our neighboring towns an opportunity of enjoying the concert and course of lectures at but a comparatively small
