The Carlisle Merald. VOL. 71. NO. 43. THE Valley Spirit sees fit to account for the defeat of its party, and to justify the revolutionary proceeding of the return judges of the district in this manner: "The action of the return judges in Carlisle on Tuesday of last week, has put this matter in a shape that makes this investigation possible. They certified to the number of votes that each candidate received, but owing to the fact of the grossest frauds having been perpetrated, they refused to certify to the election of they refused to cortify to the closer Mr. Weakley, and referred the matter to the Senate. Before that tribunal the Newberry, Fairfield, Lancaster, and istounding evidence—increasing every lay—of the corrupt means used by Mr. Weakley to secure his election, can be laid. A full explanation can be made as to why he, who was a stranger to our people, managed to receive so many more votes than the Radical candidate for Auditor General. Mr. Weakley will five days from the date thereof, and to ave a splendid opportunity to prove United States for the district of South inworse boasted popularity in the dis-triet and to show, if he can, that it was based on gömething else than govern-ment stamps.
