The Volunteer in a notice of Freder ick Douglass, raises a question which an examination of this kind would demonwe were inclined to allow to adjust itself. It says:

"What did the speaker refer to Where had he been snubbed in Carlisle Where had he been snubbed in Carlisle: Upon inquiry, we learned that he had stopped at the "Bentz House," a most excellent hotel kept by our Republican friend, Mr. Geo. Z. Bentz. Mr. Bentz yery properly gave Douglass a good roon in his house, but when supper was an nounced he just as properly informed his sable guest that he could not eat at the public table with his white boarders. une public table with his white bearders. Douglass, it was evident from his dejected look, had not expected this kind of treatment. The "Bentz House" has a Republican for its landloid, and nearly all if not all the horizontal way. all if not all the boarders are also Repub an it not all the boarders are also Republicans, and it was not much wonder then that Douglass felt disappointed. He said little, however, and consented to take his meals in his room by himself. With all their preferance With all their professions, then, we have in this circumstance positive evidence that the radicals are just as leath to re cognize negro-equality as the Democrats are. Put them to the test and they squirm like cels in the process of being skinned, when they are asked to take a we don't blame them; human nature is human nature; but we desire the "colored troops who fought bravely," to note the facts here mentioned.

This question is coming, and may as well be met. Mr. Bentz, of himself, of the great metropolis. had no disposition to refuse to allow Mr. Douglass to come to the dining room. He put it on the ground that there was so much prejudice here on the subject, that he could not do it without pecunifully differ. If Mr. Douglass had gone into the dining room, it is quite possible than to have gone anywhere else on such the matter. We don't believe seriously, blame Mr. Bentz for avoiding it.

GOOD IMITATORS.

It seems strange after all the trouble the Democracy have had in New York city, that any of their local politicinns throughout the country should see fit to imitate the performances of those big thieves in a direct way. It seems, lowever, that not even the trouble the ring there got into, is sufficient to deter the others from doing exactly the same thing.

THE old adage "it's an ill wind that blows nobody good," never was more emphatically exemplified than in the ase of Messry, Herring, Farrel & Shornan, the manufacturers of the celebrated Herring safes. The great fire at Chicago brought to them nearly one hundred and fifty of the most valuable udorsements that can be given to a necessful invention, and since that ime the New York firm, at 251 Broadway, have been scartely able to supply the demand. What the business man requires is perfect security for his transoortable property, and the Herring safes. appear to have reached in their various evere tests the very climax of this perfection.
