Col. Forney opposes the election of Gen. Hartranft, and donies that he favors that of Mr. Buckalew. As there are but the two candidates in the field, is it not pertinent to ask the Col. whose election he does favor?

HARTRANFT

is too light.

General Hartranft is, just now, the best abused and slandered man in the State, simply because he is the Republican nominee for Governor, and, therefore, obnexious to the system of warfare which the Democracy always employ against its political opponents. Without proof-aye, in the very face of positive testimony-the General is charged with complicity in the Evans fraud, and week after week the infamous calumny is repeated, as if the reiteration of a lie - could transmute it into a truth. 'T hese calumniators are either fools or knaves. for the sources of correct information are them if they have the intelascertain the truth. But such a course would not suit their purposes, as it would silence their trumpet of slander and expose them to the contempt of a just publie. Now, what are the facts in regard to this particular charge. After the excommittee of the two Houses of the Legislature was raised to inquire into it and report the facts, W. A. Wallace, the leader and manager of the Democratic party, was one of the Senate committee, and A. C. Noyes, a prominent candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor, and R. A. McConnell; were on the House Committee. After a laborious, searching and thorough examination of all the evidence, and after calling before them every man connected with the transaction, or supposed to be,

These conscious slanderers imagine the people can be imposed upon and cheated into their support by exciting their honest hearts hey seem to forget that they will be loisted and blown to atoms by the petard and dishonors the three hundred thoupeople detect the imposition and learn the falsity of the means taken to deceive

If any impression has been made on the people by this false charge, it will fade away before the light of truth, and be changed into indignation against the poraries with speculating, for his own debauched and dirty radicals who coined benefit, with the public funds. Now it for their own dishonest and corrupt mark how plain a tale will put this purposes, regardless of the wrong in slander down. GREELEY.

It must be, admitted, that Horace

Greeley has, heretofore, done much to adthe growth and strength of the Republican party. For many years he labored influentially and effectively to destroy slavery and its cognate evils, and neces sarily became one of the founders of the great party which was destined to destroy that accursed institution, and enlarge "the area of our national life. Perhaps, no oue man living contributed more largely to the accomplishment of these results than he. For such services was entitled to and did receive the omage of every true friend of human ity, and was recognized as the prophet of a botter and nobler era of development and progress.

Had he been content with this eminonco, and consistently pursued to their final and full consummation the grand ideas to which his former life cemed to be consecrated, he would have left behind him a name that would have gone down the ages, luminous with immortal fame, and hallowed with the enedictions of future generations. Time would have thrown the mantle of oblivion over the many frailties and fantastic isms that marred, for a time, the symmetry of his life, and exposed him to the scoffs and jeers of enemies and the pity honor and sustain him, both in private his support of a party pledged to a repudiation of the public debt and to free trade, and his summeless abandonment and denunciation of all laws framed for the protection of the lives and liberties of the colored race, for the enactment and enforcement of which he formerly, clamored so loudly, all prove how utterly he has abnegated his former solf and views, and how basely and absolutely he has prostituted his entire being to the greed of office, and the wild ambition of Henceforth, an impassable barrier is erected between them and him, which even old ties and ligence or honosty to seek them, and affections cannot surmount. Beyond it ys destruction and dishonor. To attempt to scale it would result in the death of self-respect, consistency, principle, and everything else dear to an honorable and loyal man. But even if it could be supposed that Horaco Greeposure of the Evans defalcation, a joint ley was not liable to these imputations, and that it, was possible, in the face of all convincing evidence, to believe that he is unchanged, and as true to Republi can principles ag in former years, how can any man, who cherishes those principles, aid him in the unholy alliance nto which he has entered, when such alliance must inevitably lead to the overthrow and destruction of those princi- the following misolilevous assertions:
