Spurn not the Poor Man. BY JOHN PARKER.

Spurn not the poor man, spurn him not, Though horny be his hands; Nor gold nor silver has he got, Nor houses, nor nor lands.

His coat may of the coarsest be, Made out of hoddin gray, And thine be of the best broadcloth,

Yes, his exterior may be rude, And no attractions show; And his connections be among The lowest of the low;

Full many a mine of priceless worth Is hid within the breast Of many a poor neglected one,

Chapter on Misses.

The dear little Misses we meet with in life, What hopes and what fears they awaken, And when a man's taking a Miss for a Wife,

Deceived by a Miss-Information, I wrote, The cause of her anger demanding, Miss-Direction prevented her getting the note,

But when she no longer would yield to Miss-Doubt, Not led by Miss-Representation, She had with Miss-Like a most serious fall out,

Having been Miss-Used, I now kept a strict watch, Though I still lived in fear of Miss-Carriage, And I found, when too late, an unlucky Miss-Match

Interfered with the joys of my marriage, Miss-Rule in my dwelling put everything wrong, Miss-Management here took her station,

A Funny Thing.

Our friends P and S—one evening met at the house of an acquaintance, some young ladies, for whom both young gentlemen entertained tender feelings.

It may well be imagined that the moments flew rapidly in their silent interchange of mutual affection. But the rest wondering at the unusual silence of the gentlemen, one of them noiselessly slipped out and suddenly returned with a light—there sat our friends P and S,

JUVENILE PRECOCITY.—A mother admonishing her son, (a lad of about seven years of age) told him he should never defer till to-morrow what he could do to-day. The little urchin replied, "then, mother, let's eat the remainder of the plum pudding to-night."

From the American Union. THE DEAD SHOT. A Story of Pioneer Life. BY LUCY LINWOOD.

The crisp Autumnal air had begun to color the foliage of the forests, and the green leaves were but sparsely scattered upon the boughs of the trees.

It was in the year 1810, before any settlement of consequence had been made in Ohio, that a family went from New York State, to reside upon a branch of the Great Miami; it consisted of the parents and two children, a son and daughter—the eldest fifteen, the other numbering less than half a score of years of age.

The region was a romantic vale, and far down to the southward, the River flowed by in majestic silence. The spot had been well chosen by Roger for Agricultural purposes, but the new-comers had been there scarcely a week, ere they found that the neighborhood was often visited by wild beasts—for several sheep had been destroyed in the night and the howl of the wolf had been repeatedly heard at a distance, in the lonely evenings.

Mr. Holland had but one child—a son, some twenty years of age, who had been brought up literally 'in the woods,' but a braver heart or a kinder disposition than that of young Wallace, could not be found in the State.

But his arm was a practised one, he had met the wily red man in hostility, and conquered him—he had grappled with the fiery wolf and the huge bear of that region, and destroyed them—he had been accustomed to danger and peril, and toil, from his infancy—and he was well acquainted with the turmoils and troubles of a life in the West.

There was daily something he could do for old Mr. Grey, some advice he could give, some handy work he could perform, some help he could render to the novice in the woods, which he deemed would be acceptable to her father; and at almost any time, for weeks, you might have found Wallace at Mr. Greys' settlement.

On a bright afternoon, it had been their custom oftentimes to wander away together in the woods, or to the margin of the Picturesque, and in the towering forests—by the rim of the gentle stream—abroad upon the hillsides—she constantly found some new feature, some brighter spot in nature than she had hitherto seen, to reward her search, and gratify her fondness for the sublime or beautiful, until at last, familiar with the neighborhood, she could saunter away alone, or in company only with her little brother—though she had been cautioned never to leave the cabin out of sight, in her ramblings.

But autumn came. Eight months had elapsed since Roger Grey came to reside in the spot where he had now located himself, and as the day was fine, Fanny ventured forth rather later in the afternoon than was her wont, and with her brother clinging upon her arm, she trotted away toward a small hill, some quarter of a mile distant, a favorite haunt of hers, latterly, and quite within the bound of her parent's restrictions—for from its summit, which she frequently climbed, she could always see the smoke which curled from the chimney of her father's hut. With a light step and merry heart, she hastened to the wood close by, and in a few minutes the children were out of sight.

Scarcely had they disappeared when Wallace made his appearance, ride in hand, before the entrance to Grey's dwelling.

Not now, please you? Why not? Nothing. Where is Miss Fanny? 'She has just gone flower hunting.'

JUVENILE PRECOCITY.—A mother admonishing her son, (a lad of about seven years of age) told him he should never defer till to-morrow what he could do to-day. The little urchin replied, "then, mother, let's eat the remainder of the plum pudding to-night."

'Not much,' continued the youth. I passed there yesterday evening, and at the east side of the hill, you remember, there is a narrow cleft between the two rocks which form the bluff.

'Yes, I recollect—a sort of cave.' 'So it seems, though I never knew it before.' 'Well, what of the cleft, Wallace?' 'Nothing sir, particular. That is, you see I've been through these grounds, a good many years, and I know a panther when I see him?'

'A what?' exclaimed Grey, starting to his feet. 'A panther, sir. I can tell him, even though I see nothing but his tail.' 'Well, Wallace?' continued Grey anxiously.

'Well, then; coming home last evening, I saw a panther's tail—the pointed end of it—projecting from the crevice of that cleft, and I've come to caution Miss Fanny to stay at home this afternoon while I go and get a shot at him if I can—quiet Belch!' continued Wallace, turning to the fine prairie dog that had accompanied his master along—but whose quick ear had detected a noise in the distance, which neither Roger Grey or Wallace had caught.

'Down! I say—Belch,' continued Wallace, as the prairie dog again set forth a sharp growl. 'My God!—what is that?' exclaimed Roger Grey, an instant afterwards, turning deadly pale, and springing to the doorway. But Wallace had heard it too—and without uttering a syllable, he dashed nimbly towards the forest followed by Belcher close at his heels.

'Help—father! Wallace, help!' screamed the girl at the top of her lungs, and 'sister Fanny, help,' yelled the boy as he clung in desperate fright to her dress—for, as they approached the favorite spot on which the gentle girl had delighted to rest, there emerged from the crevice of the rock, a huge animal of the panther species, which nimbly mounted the little hill-side, within thirty yards of the wanderers, and crouching upon its belly, lay prepared to spring from the ascent upon the defenceless children!

The monster lashed the sod with his tail, and growled fiercely, as it gazed upon the horror-struck girl, who dared not turn to flee, well knowing that such a course would be fatal; and in her mad despair, she could only shriek for succor, which she had no thought however was near her. But there was a quick rustling in the undergrowth behind her, though she heard it not, and an instant after, old Belcher passed them in hot haste.

'Down Fanny—down!' shouted the brave Wallace, who had come up at the same moment, and saw her peril, but could not fire to advantage. Belcher mounted up the side of the bluff, sprung upon the bear, but in a moment, was disabled by the fierce clutch of the now enraged and disappointed panther, who for an instant stood over the prostrate dog, in triumph.

'Down!' shouted the young marksman again, and Fanny Grey, exhausted with the fright and excitement sank upon the ground. A sharp ring echoed through the forest, and the savage beast reeled forward and plunged head long to the bluff, pierced through the brain by a bullet from young Holland's unerring rifle!

The father heard the report—he sprang wildly to the spot—and in another moment, pressed her frantically to his heart. They were safe—unharm'd! Three years subsequently to this adventure, I chanced to be traveling down the Ohio river. On its brink, there stood a neat little dwelling, a humble spot, tenanted by a youthful couple, who had been but recently married, and from their lips I gathered the above facts. The occupants of that pretty dwelling were Wallace and Fanny—now Mr. and Mrs. HOLLAND!

At Montreal, as a telegraphic despatch says, the Government presented the draft of a new tariff on Saturday, but met with much opposition. Probably a higher scale will be adopted for agricultural products and manufactures. The chief argument of the opposition was the high duties in the United States. The Ministerial scheme was to impose ten per cent, upon almost every article but groceries; grains to change in present rates on manufactures, and 21 per cent, on raw materials. The Seigniorial tenure is also proposed to be abolished.

It Won't Do. It is curious how many thousand things there are which it won't do to upon this cozy planet of ours, whercon we eat, sleep and get our dinners. For instance— It won't do to plunge into a law suit, relying wholly upon the justice of your cause, and not equipped before hand with a brimming purse.

It won't do, when snow drifts are piled up mountain high, and sleighs are eternally upsetting, as this winter, to ride out with a beautiful, lively, and fascinating girl, and not expect to get smashed with her.

It won't do for a man when a horse kicks him, to kick back in return. It won't do to crack jokes on old maids in the presence of unmarried ladies, who have passed the age of forty. It won't do to imagine a Legislature, fed at the public crib, will sit but six weeks when one-half of the members have not the capacity to earn a decent living at home. It won't do for a man to bump his head against a stone post, unless he conscientiously believes that his head is the hardest. It won't do when a mosquito bites your face in the night, to beat your own cranium in pieces with your fist, under an impression that you are killing the mosquito.

It won't do for a chap to imagine a girl is indifferent to him, because she studiously avoids him in company. It won't do for a man to fancy a lady is in love with him, because she treats him civilly, or that she has virtually engaged herself to him because she has always endured his company.

It won't do to be desperately enamored of a pretty face until you have seen it at the breakfast table. It won't do to be so devoted to a tender hearted wife, as to comply implicitly with her request when she asks you, "now tumble over the cradle and break your neck, my dear won't you?"

It won't do for a politician to imagine himself elected to the gubernatorial chair, while "the back counties remain to be heard from." It won't do to pop the question more than a dozen of times after the lady has said "No!" It won't do to extol the beauty of a lady's hair before you know that it did not once belong to another lady's head.

It won't do to talk of cabbage when tailors are standing by, nor of wooden nutmegs and white oak hams when there are any Connecticut Yankees about. It won't do to go barefoot in winter to get rid of trouble from corns. It won't do to take every man to do that you would like to, even if so to do would be to do a favor. It won't do!

Correct Speaking. We advise all young people to acquire in early life the habit of using good language, both in speaking and writing, and to abandon as early as possible the use of slang words and phrases. The longer they live the more difficult the acquisition of such language will be; and if the golden age of youth—the proper season for the acquisition of language—be passed, in its abuse, the unfortunate victim of neglected education is very probably doomed to talk slang for life. Money is not necessary to procure this education. Every man has it in his power. He has merely to use the language which he reads instead of the slang which he hears; to form his taste from the best speakers and writers of the country; to treasure up choice phrases in his memory, and habituate himself to their use—avoiding at the same time that pedantic precision and bombast which bespeak rather the weakness of the vain ambition than the polish of an educated mind. There is no man, however low in rank, who may not materially benefit his financial condition by following this advice, and cultivating at the same time such morals and manners as correspond in character with good words.

Fast.—The word 'fast' is as great a contradiction as we have in the language. The Delaware was fast, because the ice was immovable; and then the ice disappeared very fast, for the contrary reason—it was loose. But a man is said to staminate fast, when he is desired to remain stationary; people fast when they have nothing to eat, and eat fast when opportunity offers.

THE GREAT REMEDY OF NATURE.

AMERICAN OIL, procured from a well in the earth 135 feet below the surface of Sprains, Strains, Cuts, Bruises, Scalds, Burns, Tetters, Erysipelas, Swellings, Head, Croup, Whooping Cough, Inflammatory Sore Throat, Sore and Inflamed Eyes, Flatulence, Ulcers, Fever Sopes, and INFLAMMATORY RHEUMATISM which yields to its effects in a surprising manner. It has never yet failed when used according to directions. Read the following: MANCHESTER, Allegheny Co., Pa., November 18 1846.

This is to certify, that my wife, Margaret Ghrisot was cured of a Rheumatic Complaint of seven years standing, by which she was so lame as to be obliged to use crutches. In one week she was cured by using the American Oil, and could walk about as usual without her crutches. JONATHAN GHREST, The following is communicated by Wm. Nash, Mr. Jackson's agent for Stubenville, O. A gentleman near Stubenville, who had not been able to put either of his feet to the ground for twelve years in consequence of lameness, by the use of one bottle was enabled to walk two miles to a township election. It is like a true sovereign remedy for CONTRACTION OF THE MUSCLES AND TENDONS.

The following is communicated by Wm. Nash, Mr. Jackson's agent for Stubenville, O. A lady residing in Stubenville, the finger of whose hand was so contracted as to deprive her of the use of it for thirty-five years, was entirely cured by the use of one bottle of the Oil, so that she now has the perfect use of her hand fully equal to the other which had never been affected. It has also been found to be a safe and invincible agent in the speedy and certain cure of DEAFNESS, in all cases not organically incurable.

A lady residing in Allegheny city was effectually cured of obstinate deafness, of years continuance, by the use of less than one bottle of the Oil so that she said she heard better than she had ever done before. A gentleman well known in Pittsburg, was cured of deafness of nine years' standing by the use of a small quantity of the Oil. The names and residences of the lady and gentleman will be given to those who desire it, at the office of the advertiser. Its properties are highly developed in the certain and surprisingly speedy cure of all cases of CHOLIC, CRAMP, AND SPASMS.

Several cases of the Cramp Cholice have been effectually cured by one dose of the Oil, in the short space of half an hour, when the parties have been agonized with pain. Its curative properties have been remarkably manifested in the radical cure of DISEASE OF THE SPINE. A lady, the wife of a planter in Kentucky, was cured effectually of one of the worst cases of diseased Spine, which had confined her to her bed for a considerable time, in which she could not turn herself. It is also a sure remedy and perfect cure for pains in the small of the back, and INFLAMMATION OF THE KIDNEYS.

Read the following: PITTSBURG, Dec. 18. 1847. This is to certify that I was afflicted with great pain in the small of my back and kidneys, which affected me so much that I could not stand upright. By rubbing externally, and using half a teaspoonful internally, night and morning, I was entirely cured. JOHN REED, near Warren Armstrong, a violent inflammation of the kidneys—the pain of which caused him to faint—was completely cured in three days, by the use of the American Oil. The qualities of this NATURE'S OWN REMEDY is extremely penetrating and anti-inflammatory, consequently is confidently recommended as a sovereign remedy wherever inflammation exists, either external or internal. Used immediately after a cut, bruise or wound, it will cure & prevent GANGRENE & MORTIFICATION. It has in addition, been found a salutary, pleasing and effective remedy for those very unpleasant and inconvenient diseases GRAVEL AND URINARY COMPLAINTS. Price 50 cents per bottle.

Caution.—Be on Your Guard. The surprising excellence and growing popularity of the American Oil, has induced some dishonest persons to palm upon the public miserable imitations of this truly valuable medicine, for the purpose of deceiving the unwary, and defrauding the Proprietor. In order to be sure of obtaining the genuine, observe the following four things: 1st See that the name of Wm. Jackson, 89 Liberty st., head of Wood st., is printed on the label of the wrapper of each bottle, to imitate which is felony. 2d That each bottle is inclosed in a pamphlet containing full directions for use; and also containing the name and full address of Wm. Jackson General Agent for the proprietors, likewise the name and address of the proprietors, D. Hall & Co., Kentucky. 3d Purchase only of the advertised Agents all of whom have a show bill, to which is printed the names of the proprietors and General Agents—thus: D. Hall & Co., Proprietors Kentucky. Wm. Jackson Pittsburg, Pa. General Agent for Western Pennsylvania, and part of Ohio and Western Virginia; and the printer's names—M'Millin & Snyrook, Pittsburg—printed at the bottom of said show bill. 4th Observe—the genuine American Oil is of a dark green color, without any sediment, and its specific gravity lighter than water. The counterfeits are mostly of a black color—some Seneca oil—others a mixture of common oil and one of various colors sometimes a close imitation of the genuine purporting to come from the Pittsburg & Allegheny Dispensary Co. None of these counterfeits possess either the virtue or the power of the true AMERICAN OIL.

Sold wholesale & retail by WM. JACKSON General and sole agent for the Proprietor in Western Pennsylvania Western Virginia and Northern Ohio; and by the following duly appointed agents in Cambria Co. Pa. Litzinger & Todd Ebensburg; A. Durbin & Co. Munster; G. L. Lloyd, Jefferson; Richard Doncaster, Summit; E. J. Fenshing, Johnstown; O'Neill & Rhey, Flano No. 4. Take Notice.—Litzinger & Todd has been appointed general and supplying agent for the American Oil in Cambria Co., Pa. THE GREAT PURGATIVE. Dr. Clickner's Sugar Coated Vegetable Extract Pills.—These celebrated Pills have obtained an enviable notoriety in the United States as a curative for giddiness, dyspepsia, sour stomach, headache, fevers, piles, costiveness, coughs, heartburn, liver complaint, scurvy, sore throat, inward weakness, palpitation of the heart, indigestion, and a variety of other diseases to which the flesh is heir, to, as a medicine for the million. In all seasons of the year, spring, summer, fall and winter, and under all circumstances, they can be taken with perfect safety and success. As a Vermifuge and general medicine for children they are unrivalled. Being coated with pure white sugar, children will easily take them, and their griping or nauseating effects are gentle but thorough in their operation. For adults by increasing the dose, they are equally beneficial. As an Ant-Bilious Pill they will be found without a superior; ask any one among the thousands who used them, and an unqualified approval will be the certain result.
