

POBTRY.

Fraternity.

What though the crowds who shout the word Pervert the meaning it should bear, And feel their hearts with hatred stirred, Even while their plaudits load the air; Yet shall not we, thou mighty THOUGHT, Despair thy triumph yet to see, Nor doubt the good that shall be wrought In thy great name, FRATERNITY.

By prophets told, by psalmists sung, Preached on the mount by lips sublime, The theme of every sage's tongue For twice a thousand years of time; What happy progress hast thou made? What bliss to man has flowed from thee? What war and bloodshed hast thou stayed? What peace affirmed? FRATERNITY.

Alas, the years have failed to teach The obvious lesson to mankind; A myriad preachers failed to preach Conviction to the deaf and blind. Still do we rush to furious war, Still to the slaver bend the knee, And still, most Christian as we are, Forget thy name, FRATERNITY.

And shall we, crammed with mutual hates, Despise our neighbor for a flaw? And sneer because he promulgates Before he understands thy law? No! let us hail the word of might, Breathed by a nation of the free; Thy recognition is a light-Thy name a faith, FRATERNITY.

The preacher may belie his creed, But still the truth preserves its flame; The sage may do a foolish deed, Yet wisdom shares not in his shame. Be scorning hushed-be cavil dumb-Whatever evils men may see, We'll look for blessings yet to come In thy great name, FRATERNITY.

Thoughts on Falsehood.

On the page that is immortal, We the brilliant promise see: "Ye shall know the TRUTH, my people, And its might shall make you free!"

For the TRUTH, then, let us battle, Whatsoever fate betide! Long the boast that we are FREEMEN, We have made and published wide.

He who has the Truth, and keeps it, Keeps what not to him belongs, But performs a selfish action, That his fellow mortal wrongs.

He who seeks the Truth, and trembles At the dangers he must brave. Is not fit to be a Freeman: He, at best, is but a slave.

He who hears the Truth, and places Its high prompting under ban, Loud may boast of all that's manly, But can never be a MAN.

Friend, this simple lay who readest, Be not thou like either them-But to Truth give utmost freedom, And the tide it raises, stem.

Bold in speech, and bold in action, Be forever!-Time will test, Of the free-souled and the slavish, Which fulfils life's mission best.

Be thou like the noble Ancient-Scorn the threat that bids thee fear; Speak!-no matter what betide thee; Let them strike, but make them hear!

Be thou like the first Apostles --Be thou like heroic Paul; If a free thought seek expression, Speak it boldly!-Speak it all!

Face thine enemies -accusers, Scorn the prison, rack, or rod! And, if thou hast Truth to utter, Speak! and leave the rest to God!

American Aristocracy.

Of all the notable things on earth, The queerest one is pride of birth Among our "fierce democracie!" A bridge across a hundred years, Without a prop to save it from sneers, Not even a couple of rotton peers; A thing for langhtor, fleers and jeers, Is American aristocracy!

English and Irish, French and Spanish, German, Italian, Dutch and Danish. Crossing their veins until they vanish In one conglomeration! So subtile a range of blood, indeed, No heraldry Harvey will ever succeed

AGRICULTURAL.

Late Crops.

As the corn and small grain crops are frequently injured or greatly reduced in ally provide, it is always well for the farmer to have at his command the most ample means of substituting, when necessary, such late crops as may afford the best possible substitute for them when destroved by blight, drought or any other

When corn has been cut off by worms at a period too late to admit of replanting, the soil should be planted in potatoes, or turnips, both which will do well when 'got in late.' The potatoe is frequently planted in the New England States as late as the fourth of July; and when the ground has been properly prepared, if the season be tolerably favorable, there is but little danger of a failure, although the crop is generally less perfect, and of much less weight than when planted in May or June. If grass-land be broken up towards the close of the latter month, when the grass is near its maturity, the furrow-slice laid fairly over, and carefully rolled, potatoes, planted in the usual manner, with a handin each hill, will almost always succeed, and produce, if not so abundantly as earlier planted potatoes, at least as fair, if not a fairer crop. Planted in corn-lands, at the last hoeing, potatoes require neither weeding nor cultivation of any kind. The soil being generally mellow rich, and in good tilth, the germination is rapid, and the subsequent developement of the tops and roots far more vigorous than in situafriends generally will at once attend .-

To Destroy Cockroaches.

Maine Cultivator.

If your correspondent will try the following simple plan, I will warrant them that every beetle cockroach will shortly morning, beside a traveller who was in disappear and that the kitchen will not again be infested. Add a tea-spoonful of powdered arsenick to a table-spoonful of mashed boiled potatoes, rub and mix them well together, and then crumble about a third of it every night at bedtime about the kitchen hearth; it will be eaten up or nearly so, by the following morning. The creature is very fond of potatoes, and devouring them greedily crawls again into its hole and perishes. I had occasion to have some alteration made in the kitchen stove some six months after I pursued this plan, and found hundreds of wings and dried mummies of defunct cockroaches. they waste in mrking bread?
