

POETRY.

Allegheny.

BY ELIZABETH G. BARRETT.

Green old hills! our country's glory, Proudly in the midst you stand, Linked with many a sweet old story—

Here the dusky hunters proudly Chased the deer in days gone by, Here the mountain echoes loudly

Green old hills of Allegheny, Oh! to climb your heights once more! Westward lie the mighty rivers,

Green old hills, our country's glory, We will proudly sing your praise, You shall be the theme of story,

The Church-yard Stile.

BY ELIZA COOK.

I left thee young and gay, Mary, When last the thorn was white; I went upon my way, Mary,

Oh! years may pass away, Mary, And sorrow lose its sting, For time is kind, they say, Mary,

Push.—Keep pushing, if you run against a snow bank or a rail fence, don't go back but push forward, or to one side, and go on.

HISTORY.—Whatever instruction is reaped from history may be reaped from a newspaper, which is the history of the world for one day.

"I am in favor of Jo King," exclaimed a political enthusiast, pushing his way through the crowd up to the ballot box.

"My daughter, why do you look at the moon so much?" enquired a mother of her daughter, a young lady just entering her sixteenth year.

"Why, ma, they say there's a man in it," was the innocent reply.

Mr. Dallas, it is said, goes to Charleston this winter, to argue a great insurance case pending there, for a Philadelphia insurance company.

Trees—Plant Trees.

Mr. Freas: I desire to call the attention of our farmers—particularly those residing in villages or close neighbors to the importance of planting trees as a means of promoting health.

Points of the Horse.

A point of great importance in the foreleg of a horse, is the proper setting on of the arm, which should be strong, muscular and long.

If sportsmen were to see the knee of a horse dissected, they would pay more attention to the form and substance of it than they generally do.

As to the size of a horse, it may be remarked that no very large animal has strength in proportion to its size.

We cut the following paragraph from the Scientific American. The subject is one worthy of attention.

The Genesee Farmer, speaking of American butter in England, says that by foreign accounts it is not so well packed or made as the Irish or Dutch.

John G. Whittier, the Quaker poet, in writing about the Irish emigrants among us, says:—

"For myself I feel a sympathy for the Irishman, I see him as the representative of a generous, warm hearted, cruelly oppressed people.

They are going to build a line of magnetic telegraph between Valparaiso and Santiago, in South America.

haunting him—a grave mound in a distant churchyard far beyond the 'wide waters,' has an eternal greenness in his memory—

Educate Yourself.

Knowledge is its own exceeding great reward. It is not the gift of a college, particularly. It is what the mind produces whenever it acts.

This doing, you will probably acquire more satisfactory and useful knowledge, and what is more, sounder character and firmer health—you will be more of a man than if you distress your parents to have knowledge put into your mouth with a pap-spoon.

GOOD SOCIETY.

It should be the aim of young men to go into good society. We do not mean the rich, the proud and fashionable, but the society of the wise, the intelligent and good.

A Funny Duel.

In St. Louis there is a great sausage maker, named Carl Ambruster, who was lately challenged to fight a duel by some bellicose individual.

I, Carl Ambruster, sausage maker in chief to the great Democratic faction of Missouri, do accept your challenge to mortal combat, on foot, or on horseback, in suits of mail, or in male shirts, under the following conditions to wit: the battle-field to be Ambruster's sausage factory, St. George district; distance two hundred feet weapons, two formidable Ambruster California sausages; obituary notices to be paid before battle; the combatants to repair after demise, in full haste to 'Adam's' where their remains shall be embalmed

Almost an Elopement.

Thursday afternoon, says the Boston Bee, when the cars were about starting New York, a gentleman, with a very pretty young girl of sixteen summers, entered the station rather hurriedly, and deposited his baggage on board and took checks for the same.

The Secretary of War, has been for the last few days on an official visit to New York, with a view to the inspection of the military posts and defences in the port, preparatory to his report to Congress at its first meeting in December.

They are going to build a line of magnetic telegraph between Valparaiso and Santiago, in South America.

You can't come it.

This phrase, and the gyration of the fingers round the nose, is older than most persons are aware. In works of Rabelais, book 2nd, chapter 19 is found the following:

Panurge suddenly lifted in the air his right hand, and put the thumb thereof into the nostril of the same side, holding his four fingers straight out, and closed orderly in a parallel line to the point of his nose, shutting the left eye wholly, and making the other wink with a profound depression of the eye-brows and eyelids.

PUNCTUALITY.—Method, as Mrs. Moore says, is the very hinge of business; and there is no business without punctuality. Punctuality is important because it subserves the peace and good temper of a family; the want of it not only infringes on necessary duty, but sometimes excludes it.
