

FOREIGN NEWS.

ARRIVAL OF THE NIAGARA.

HALIFAX, Jan. 24. The steamer Niagara, Capt. Ryrie, arrived this morning at 2 o'clock, bringing about eighty passengers, and a full freight of French and other goods, and advices two weeks later from all parts of Europe.

Parliament meets, for despatch of business, on the 1st of February, when it is expected that some important change in the monetary system will be laid before the legislature.

President Taylor's message, which reached England by the Hibernia, has been extensively published and largely commented upon by the English press. The general expression of public sentiment is very favorable.

An Aid-de-Camp of Gen. Baraguay de Hilliers has just reached Paris with important despatches—the nature of which has, in part, transpired. It would seem that there is little likelihood of an understanding being come to between the Cardinal General and the government of the Cardinals, owing to the manifest jealousy of French influence, entertained by the latter, while the Cardinals are for placing the Pope under the protection of a mixed garrison of Austrians and Italians.

The Breslau Gazette, of the 6th, says that the public mind in Vienna is much taken up with reports of a coup d'etat—reports which are even current in military circles. The day named for putting it into effect, was the 6th or 7th instant. The military measures are really formidable.

The French Funds continue to rise.—The five per cents have reached 93 1/2.

The reply of the Austrian Cabinet to a note from Prussia, on the subject of the Erfurt Assembly, is as follows: The Austrian Cabinet is sorry to find that its former communications, instead of producing the desired effect upon Prussia, have elicited replies which, though evasive, are full of signification. In its former remonstrances, the Austrian Cabinet fully stated its view of the question, and of the step which Prussia was taking.

Since these remonstrances were unheeded, Austria will not condescend to wage a war of words with the Prussian Cabinet, but, reserving all her objections, protests, and rights till a further opportunity, she wishes it to be understood that her silence is not to be construed into an acquiescence with the Prussian project, nor with a dereliction of her rights.

Gen. Count Urina, who commanded the imperialists when they were defeated at Raab by the Hungarians, has committed suicide at Verona.

The typhus fever was raging fearfully at Verona, on the 20th ult. No less than thirty medical men had been seized with it from visiting their patients.

Prussia. BERLIN, Jan. 7.—It is understood that the ministerial crisis was over, and that on this day the Chambers would receive a Royal message, proposing the oath to be taken to the Constitution, and accepting the same, with some slight amendments.

Turkey—The Hungarian and Polish Refugees. The correspondent of the London Times, under date of Dec. 19th says: A courier has arrived here from St. Petersburg, with the Emperor's answer to the last communication made to his Imperial Highness, by the Sublime Porte, with regard to the question of the Polish and Hungarian Refugees.

In a former letter I told you that the Turkish ministers were willing to consent to the expulsion of the Poles who had been concerned in the late Hungarian insurrection, but that they objected to the expulsion of the Polish Refugees who were resident in Turkey previously to that event, and who were provided with French and other passports.

The Czar has agreed to the terms proposed by the Porte, and Dembinski and the other Poles who served in Hungary are to be expelled. Their countrymen resident in Turkey, who were not concerned in that insurrection are to remain unmolested. If, however, any one, without reference to the country under whose protection he may be, shall, whilst resident in the Ottoman Empire, be guilty of any act hostile to the government of the Empire Nicholas, he shall, at the demand of the Russian Envoy, be expelled from the Sultan's dominions.

Kossuth and the Hungarian refugees are to be confined in a fortified tower in the interior. They are not to be close prisoners; but their place of residence will be under the constant surveillance of the Turkish authorities.

The correspondent of the Morning Herald, however, writing on the same day asserts that the Emperor of Russia has refused to accept the Sultan's guaranty for the conduct of the Poles, and that the matter is as far from being settled as ever.

The French President.

Mr. De Girardin, editor of La Presse, the leading conservative journal of Paris, sums up the doings of President Napoleon's government in this wise: "Acts of severity, and not one reform. Faults, and not an amelioration. Expenses, and not one economy. Words, and not one act. The year is concluded with credits voted to the amount of one thousand six hundred and seventy five millions, and by an excess of expenditure over the receipts of two hundred and ninety millions francs."

La Republique, a democratic journal of influence, is hardly less severe. It says: "It is now a year since the President of the Republic has exercised his functions. What acts deserving the approbation and praise of impartial history have marked the first year of his power? Amongst them none are more remarkable than the prosecutions directed against the republican press. Now, these prosecutions amount to 804, and the condemnations pronounced inflict fines to the amount of 418,300 francs (exclusive of costs and the additional war tax of one tenth) and 213 years' imprisonment. We conceive that the elect of the 10th december should disdain popularity!"

Democracy and its Opponents. We find the following eloquent passage in the Massachusetts Democratic State Address: "Democrats of this day, as did the founders of our Commonwealth, recognize man, mind, soul as the great element of the State. Lands, property, wealth, are but the marble of the quarry that gives form to the statue; but it is man, thinking, acting, reasoning, living man, that gives life and force to what else would be a cold and senseless mass."

"Democracy therefore recognizes mind as that which gives character to the State. Whiggism—not professedly, but practically, exalts wealth above man; and consequently directs the energies of the state to the accumulation and care of wealth as the first necessity of civil organizations. Whiggism is therefore of a class: It cannot be general. It is clanish. It runs into affinities, and the combination is aristocracy: an aristocracy without an impulse or generosity. Ever doing violence to the principles of equality of all men in the state, whiggism never strikes deeper into the popular sympathies than its adjuncts of wealth and extorted privilege give it the instruments and force to strike. Not so with democracy, which inscribes upon its banner, in letters of light, the great law of Christian order—"Do unto others as you would they should do unto you!" Consequently democracy does not, like whiggism, rest its foundations upon the high tops and in the lowest valleys of society but upon the broad table land of the middle classes and middle interests. The democratic party therefore naturally embraces the great classes of men that constitute the physical, the intellectual, the moral force of the state; the producers of wealth; the yeomanry who till the soil, mechanics, manufacturers, operatives, traders, whose labor sustains the state and who are mutually dependent upon each other.

"The whig party resting upon PRIVILEGE rather than upon EQUALITY, naturally embraces the class of accumulators, whose capital stands them in place of labor, who sustain their power and position through the aid of wealth, and who when an emergency presses, have facility in legerdemain that enables them to become even more democratic than democrats themselves. Under the tone which this class of accumulators gives to public sentiment the passion of wealth has affected the State, and perverted some of its purest fountains of opinion."

Progress of Reform. A gentleman now living in London, in a letter addressed to a friend in Washington received by the last steamer says: "I am old enough to have witnessed the burning of the Bastille. I have also witnessed occurrences in my own country in the year 1779, and (what I may not have told you when I last saw you, for fear you might have thought me one of a nation of barbarians) I recollect the time when people used to be burnt in London by judicial sentence! True as I am now writing to you, on the 18th of March, 1789, my fifteenth birth day, I saw a person walk up to the stake alive, faggots put round him, and burnt; and for what? For coining, or, as it was called in the law phrase of the day, 'petty treason.' No wonder you Yankees disclaim us for your progenitors. But let me add, as a salve for my country, that in the following session of Parliament 1790, this punishment was abolished, so that I probably saw the last victim of our then humane code. Hardly any body of the present day will believe me when I tell them this. Our own Lord Chief Justice Denman, when told of it some three or four months ago, would not believe it till he had satisfied himself of the fact from the official record. And less you, too, should be pricking up your ears, let me assure you it is a plain, unvarnished, veritable tale."

New Orleans papers state that about 100 Hungarians and Poles have arrived in that city, with their families, from Havre.
