

abandoned in their retreat. Upon some one's expressing a doubt whether such a use of the public stores and wagons, for the benefit of the enemy, would be allowed by the Department, Taylor cut the difficulty short, at once, by saying, "Then I will pay the bill"—and to provide for the contingency, he directed a separate account to be kept of all that was expended for the purpose.

The Reform Club has invited Lord Palmerston to a grand banquet in honor of his recent "acquittal."

The medical Times says the largest fee on record is that received by Mons. Felix. He operated for fistula in ano upon Louis XIV.; his fee was £6,000.

The celebrated Dr. Buckland, the eminent geologist, Dean of Westminster, and private friend of Sir Robert Peel, is, it is reported, bereft of his reason, and in close confinement in a lunatic asylum near Oxford.

Madame Pasta, now sixty years of age, has consented to sing at a concert in London, on the 10th instant, given in aid of the Italian exiles. The "event" is exciting a great sensation in metropolitan musical circles.

Mr. Gibson, of Rome, now in England, has received an order for a colossal group in marble, of figures of her Majesty, supported on either side by justice and clemency. The figure of the Queen will be ten feet in height, and the side figures eight feet. This group will occupy a place in the houses of Parliament.

Lady Castlereagh, daughter of the Earl of Roden, Grand-master of the Orangemen, and wife of the son of the Marquis of Londonderry, has joined the Roman Catholic Church. Another lady, hardly less conspicuous, Mrs. Wilberforce, sister-in-law to the Bishop of Oxford, has also become a convert to the same communion.

The export trade of England is largely on the increase the present year.

Fussell, the chartist, has been pardoned by her Majesty.

A vessel has sailed from the Clyde for San Francisco. A part of her cargo consists of coal and iron houses. The latter are now unsalable, unless the last fire has produced a new demand.

There are now five kirks and five general assemblies of Presbyterians in Scotland. They have the same doctrine, discipline and worship, and yet are at sword's points.

The French Navy, at the present moment, contains only 145 vessels.

Small frock coats, of ladies' cloth, short skirts, long waists, and blue colors, are now worn by fashionable gentlemen in Paris. The dress coats are short and narrow skirted, and long in the waist.—White hats, with large brims, are also in vogue.

Another miraculous image of the Virgin has been discovered at Fossombrone, in Italy. The Madonna rolls her eyes like a wax doll, and performs very wonderful cures.

The London Dispatch says the United States is the last place of resort for all European rogues.

The London Illustrated News has an engraving of Sir Robert Peel on horseback, as he appeared at the time of the accident.

England is pressing her claims on Portugal for indemnity, as well as the United States. It would be rather funny to see Lisbon bombarded by a combined American and English squadron.

Elihu Burritt has proceeded to Frankfort on the Maine, where the Peace Congress is to assemble. While we conclude, from experience and history, that a general alliance for peace is not very probable, yet it is a pleasant thing that there are philanthropists who will advocate a good cause, even if they never hope to succeed.

The Cuban Prisoners.

The final release of the prisoners, citizens of this country, arrested by the Spanish authorities of Cuba for participation in the invasion of that Island under General Lopez, is fully confirmed. Commander M'Keever, of the frigate Congress, has contributed much to the restoration of these misguided men to their country and friends and deserves the highest credit for his exertions. A friend and correspondent, attached to the same gallant frigate, gives the following interesting account of these captives, now restored to liberty, in a letter just received from him, dated at Havana on the 11th of July.

"Commodore M'Keever has just received a communication from the Captain-General, to say that the Cuban prisoners arrested on account of alleged participation in the invasion of Lopez, will this day be delivered to him. They are 42 in number. Just as I had finished the foregoing sentence, I was summoned on deck to receive these Contoy prisoners. Some have been sent on board.

"They are real Sir John Falstaff's own. They were mustered on the quarter deck. Such odds and ends of humanity I have rarely seen grouped together. All doubt of their being a part and parcel of the original expedition fitted out against Cuba is at an end. They boldly avow it. I have conversed with one among the most intelligent of them, and if they had confessed as much to their captors as they have to us, the preservation of their lives should be regarded as an act of great humanity.

"What a comment is this upon the adventurous dare devil character of the Anglo-American. What blessings do these men surrender for the promise of a shadow and at the risk of a halter! Could you but see them now, as I do, walking about our deck—such a grotesque, I may say picturesque party—you would suppose them to be anything but Americans. They seem rather from Andalusia, or some province of old Spain. And these are the men whose acts of folly is causing Great Britain and France to increase their naval strength in these waters, and English statesmen to fume and fret in Parliament! Truly we are a great nation.

"Commodore M'Keever has had a parting interview with the Captain-General to-day. There are some ten remaining prisoners in his hands, the officers and crews of the two vessels which were captured. They are to be released at once, and I suppose put on board their vessels. The prisoners, a list of whom I herewith send you, who came on board to-day have been transferred to the sloop of war Albany, to be taken to Baracoa in a few days. I am writing to you in detached hours, as events transpire around me. We sail with to-morrow's dawn, and shall sweep out through the Florida passage into the broad Atlantic, on our way to Brazil."

Great Flood in the Susquehanna River.

Innumerable Destruction of Property—Suffering among the Farmers.

Correspondence of the Pennsylvania. TOWANDA, July 20, 1850.

The public have scarcely ceased sympathizing with the sufferers by the immense fire which lately occurred in your city, ere they are startled by a calamity equally as destructive, which visited this section of the State; and, in fact, almost along the entire Susquehanna. Fire and flood, seem to be doing its worst, arresting the career of most persons' industry, and spreading in many a peaceful home, the first experience of penury. We live in strange times. Calamities admonish us of the uncertainty of earthly stores; and a withering pestilence stalks through the land, striking the old, feeble, the beautiful and young, the rich and poor, teaching us that life is evanescent; and in its brightest aspect merely a dream, whose waking is either for a blissful eternity, or a never ending punishment.

But, the Flood! Great rains have been falling in the country immediately around the Susquehanna and Chemung rivers, swelling the creeks and rivulets; and consequently, an immense body of water into the Susquehanna. On Thursday, the rain, in this region, poured down in torrents; indeed, the "coldest inhabitant" never knew the rain to be so extensive. By Friday noon, the water in the river was very high, and during the day, we began to receive accounts of the destruction of crops, lumber ready for the market, bridges, saw mills, &c. Fields, that a few days ago were rich in the promises of an abundant harvest, were swept away. On the creeks, the destruction is the greatest; and the suffering among our farmers, must be immense. The labor of the entire summer has been lost to some of our farmers, and those poor men, who depended entirely on their crops. Again, an industrious woodsman, who struggled to collect together his all in lumber, ready piled on the bank of the river, saw it swept away by the remorseless wave, unable to secure a penny of its value.

The principal loss is in the crops, and it is a fair estimate to set that down in this county alone, at $60,000. Rumor says that four bridges have been swept away, also a number of valuable saw mills, and a Woolen factory. I have not the least doubt, that the loss will estimate at $300,000. It has created great distress, and in the confusion which prevails, it is impossible to arrive at a full account of the damage done. Hastily, VERITAS.

Lynch Law—High-handed Measure.

FREDERICKSBURG, Va., July 23.—A terrible outrage took place in Culpepper, in this State, on Wednesday last. A mob of two hundred men, including justices of the peace, members of churches, and others, proceeded to the jail, resisted the sheriff, and carried off William Grayson, a free negro. They dragged him to the woods, where they hung him dead. The cause of this high-handed measure is this—Grayson has twice been convicted of murdering David W. Miller, a white man, but each time he appealed, and the General Court granted new trials, on the ground that the testimony hardly justified suspicion—much less guilt. The mob allowed Grayson one minute to confess. He firmly avowed his innocence of the murder. The mob then placed a fence rail across between two trees, and strung him up. This outrage has created intense excitement. The papers entreat the Governor to arrest every man concerned in it.
