A Prairie Incident.

At a place called Yellow Creek, about half way between Salt Lake and the junetion of the Oregon and California reads, we were the unwilling witnesses to an Indian massacre. On the evening previous, we had crossed the creek and en camped about a mile and a baif beyond. Near the creek some Snake Indians thir. 78 BE cat scribers have just received from Refore durb I had and a road but in pair Ebensburg, a large and splended assertment of stables are also large and convenient. Before dark I had endeavored but in vain. to trade with the chief for a pony, but "no swap" was the word, though all the while some one of the party kept exhibiting the good qualities and speed of the different animals. The young squaws excelled their lords in the horsemanship or horse

One young creature assumed every attitude of the best circus rider. She would pick her whip from the ground under full speed; check her poney in his mad career as if he had been shot; wheel him at full speed by an inclination of her bodythrow the lasso successfully at whatever object she pleased. She rode like the men, yet
