

POETRY.

BENJAMIN FRANKLIN.

The following beautiful Ode, composed by Mrs. F. S. Shillars, was sung at the Printer's Banquet...

MOTHER OF ARTS! thy children come, A new fraternal faith to plight, As brethren round the hearth of home...

All sorrows borne, or ill endured, Forgotten be in present joy; Relax the nerve to toil insured...

Here, as we mingle souls to night, One thought preeminent must press, One topic to impart delight...

It prompts a blessing on the past, That reared our art to its estate; It bids us hopeful glances cast...

It brightly beams as doth that star The sailor seeks to point his course, Unchanging ever 'mid the war...

Mother of Arts! we tribute bring Of honor to thy mighty son, Whose praises every land doth sing...

CHILDREN.

BY FINLEY JOHNSON.

I love to hear the joyous laugh of children in their glee, When joys which in their bosoms dwell send forth their melody...

They bring before me visions bright of child-hood's happy home, When nought but joys and blessings my heart had ever known...

And when my heart grows sick and sad, and overflows with grief, The sight of children at their play will give me quick relief...

There is no greater pleasure now that life to me can bring, Than hear them warble forth their joys, like young birds in the spring...

For did not He, who made us all by his almighty hand, Give to the world from his own mouth this high and just command...

And when I hear from childhood's lips the heartfelt, fervent prayer, My heart with them ascends to heav'n to seek for comfort there...

It is easy in the world to live after the world's opinions; it is easy in solitude to live after our own. But the great man is he who, in the midst of the crowd, keeps with perfect sweetness the independence of his character.

RETRIBUTIONS OF HISTORY.

BY PROFESSOR JOHN FROST.

No city in the world has witnessed more signally the retributions of history than Rome. The vicissitudes of fortune of which she has been the theatre afford many moral lessons...
