

PORTRY. I OWE NO MAN A DOLLAR.

BY CHARLES P. SHIRAS.

Oh, do not envy, my own dear wife! The wealth of our next-door neighbour, But bid me still to be stout of heart, And cheerfully follow my labour. You must know, the last of those little debts That have been our lingering sorrow. Is paid this night! So we'll both go forth, With happier hearts to-morrow. Oh, the debtor is but a shame-faced dog, With the creditor's name on his collar; While I'm a king and you are a queen , For we owe no man a dollar!

Our neighbour you saw in his coach to day, With his wife and his flaunting daughter, While we sat down at our coverless board, To a crust and a cup of water. I saw that the tear-drop stood in your eye, Though you tried your best to conceal it-I knew that the contrast reached your heart, And you could n ot help but fee! it; But knowing now that our scanty fare Has freed my neck from the collar, You'll join my laugh, and help me shont, That we owe no man a dollar!

This neighbour, whose show has dazzled your cyes. In fact, is a wretched debtor ; I pity him oft from my very heart, And I wish that his lot were better. Why, the man is the weariest slave alive, For his dashing wife and daughter Will live in style, though ruin should come-So he goes like a lamb to the slaughter; But he feels it the tighter every day, That terrible debtor's collar! Oh, what would he give could he say with us, That he owed no man a dollar!

You seem amazed, but I'll tell you more; Within two hours I met him Sneaking away with a frightened air, As if a fiend had beset him;

Yet he fled from a very worthy man, Whom I met with the greatest pleasure-Whom I called by name, and forced to stop, Though he said he was not at leisure. He held my last note! so I held him fast, Till he freed my neck from the collar: Then I shook his hand as I proudly said,
