

LINES.

BY GEORGE D. PRENTICE. Sweet moon, I love thee, yet I grieve To gaze on thy pale orb to-night; It tells me of that last dear eve I passed with her, my soul's delight.

Hill, vale and wood and stream were dyed In the pale glory of thy beams, As forth we wandered side by side, Once more to tell love's burning dreams.

My fond arm was her living zone, My hand within her hand was pressed, And love was in each earnest tone, And rapture in each heaving breast.

And many a high and fervent vow Was breathed from her full heart and mine, While thy calm light was on her brow Like pure religion's seal and sign.

We knew, alas! that we must part, We knew we must be severed long, Yet joy was in each throbbing heart, For love was deep, and faith was strong.

A thousand memories of the past Were busy in each glowing breast, And hope upon the future cast Her rainbow hues-and we were blest.

I craved a boon-oh! in that boon There was a wild, delirious bliss-Ah! didst thou ever gaze, sweet moon, Upon a more impassioned kiss?

The parting scene-one moment brief Her dim and fading form I viewed-'Twas gone-and there I stood in grief Amid life's awful solitude.

Tell me, sweet moon, for thou canst tell If passion still unchanged is hers-Do thoughts of me her heart still swell Among her many worshippers?

Say, does she sometimes wander now At eve beneath thy gentle flame, To raise to heaven her angel-brow, And breathe her absent lover's name!

Oh, when her gentle lids are wet, I pray thee, mark each falling gem, And tell me if my image yet Is pictured tremblingly in them!

Ay, tell me, does her bosom thrill As wildly as of yore for me-Does her young heart adore me still, Or is that young heart changed like thee?

Oh let thy beams, that softest shine, If still my love to her is dear, Bear to her gentle heart from mine A sigh, a blessing, and a tear.

TIS WELL TO HAVE A MERRY HEART.

'Tis well to have a merry heart, However short we stay: There's wisdom in a merry heart, Whate'er the world may say! Philosophy may lift its head, And find out many a flaw, But give me that philosophy That's happy with a straw!

If life but brings us happiness-It brings us, we are told, What's hard to buy, though rich ones try With all their heaps of gold! Then laugh away-let others say Whate'er they will of mirth; Who laughs the most may truly say He's got the wealth of earth.

There's beauty in a merry laugh, A moral beauty too-It shows the heart an honest heart, That's paid each man his due; And lent a share of what's to spare, Despite of wisdom's fears, And made the cheek less sorrow speak, The eye weep fewer tears.

The sun may shroud itself in cloud, The tempest wrath begin; It finds a spark to cheer the dark, Its sunlight is within! Then laugh away, let others say Whate'er they will of mirth; Who laughs the most may truly boast He's got the wealth of earth!
