Tehuantepsc.

It seems that Mexico is afraid to let the Americans go on with the railroad across this isthmus, for political reasons. The Spanish paper at New Orleans, La Union, encourages able language :--

We will now conclude with a few remarks in relation to Tehuantepec. To allow the Americans to introduce themselves into that part of the country-ostensibly to construct a railroad, would be the height of folly, on the part of Mexico; and by so doing, she would place herself between two fires; and the Mexican who should give his vote to cede any portion of that peninsula to the Americans, would be a traitor to his country, and merits death upon the scaffold. We have seen the surveying party at Minetitlan menancing the Mexican authorities, whilst in the performance of their duty, and we have no doubt but that when a host of laborers should be collected there, under KINKELIN ON SELF PRESERVATION. pretence to construct the road, they, under the direction of their chief, would immediately take danger."
