

Political Squibs.

The New York Tribune (Scott organ) says that the "Poor are too stupid to know their rights, or too cowardly to assert them."

To which the New York Commercial (Whig) replies:—"We had supposed that the circulation of the Tribune tended to enlighten the poor, but on its own showing it has expended much industry, talent and capital to little profit."

The Wilmington (N. C.) Journal contains the following:

"The Commercial of this morning says frankly and plainly that it cannot support Scott, but that the election of Pierce and King would rebound more to the honor and advantage of the country than would the election of their opponents. The Commercial is a Whig paper, and we believe that in this matter it expresses the views of a very considerable and highly intelligent portion of its party in this State, who cannot swallow the Seward pill, sugar-coated though it may be, by the addition of Mr. Graham to the ticket. Praise from a Democratic source might be regarded with suspicion, and we forbear; Mr. Loring, however, has our thanks for the independence of his course."

The Boston Transcript, one of the most respectable Whig papers in that city, says of General Pierce, as follows:

"He is a gentleman of noble and cordial address, and would make a most competent and patriotic President. It is useless, as well as impolite, for the Whig press to sneer at him as a weak candidate." He will rally the entire strength of the Democracy, and will prove a most formidable candidate."

We heard of a new political party the other day. A party of gentlemen were discussing politics at the bar of the St. Charles, when one declared his sentiments thus: "Gentlemen, you may talk as you please about Democracy, whiggism, free soil and secession; I'm a State Rights Log Cabin man, with the latch string pulled in!" That man spoke the real sentiments of about four fifths of the Whig politicians.

The Louisville Journal, after trying to make its readers believe that the nomination of Gen. Scott has been received with a perfect whirlwind of popularity by the entire Whig party, gives the following, which is rather contradictory:

"Our friends tell us of here and there a Whig who is said to declare that he will not vote for Gen. Scott—that he will rather vote for Pierce. We are well aware, that on account of the supineness of the Whigs during the last three years in the local elections, there is an impression in the minds of some, that the Democrats are henceforth to be the dominant party. Unquestionably some few Whigs who are under this impression, and who have a holy horror of minorities, have been preparing to avail themselves, and intend to avail themselves, of the occasion of Gen. Scott's nomination to get themselves into the Democratic party."

Long John Wentworth is on a visit to his relations in Concord, N. H. He says Illinois will scratch closely on 30,000 majority for Frank Pierce. Good.

The New York Mirror says: It will be the Mirror's proud prerogative during the coming contest to vindicate the standard-bearers of both parties from the foul calumnies of reckless politicians. In other words, without mingling in the dusty arena of the strife, we mean to insist on "fair play and no gouging."

Giddings, the Ohio abolitionist, has come out against both the Democratic and Whig platforms, denouncing them as only worthy to be trampled under foot. Giddings not only spits upon the Whig platform, but upon the candidate too.

The New York Mirror, whig, in noticing the letters of the Democratic nominees, accepting the nominations, says: "They are both open, manly expressions, every way worthy the chosen leaders of a powerful and intelligent party. The writers of such letters will have to be beaten by other weapons than lies and vulgarity."

The Boston Courier (whig) says: "An American flag, hoisted on the Old State House as the signal of Gen. Scott's nomination, caught the eye in its ascent, and ruptured the union—two women which did not fail to excite the comments of the spectators."

The glowing biographies of Gen. Scott state that he did all that Military talent could accomplish in the Florida war. This is a mistake, Gen. Scott positively refused to prosecute that war, and would not march his men over fifteen miles per day, and had at length to be dismissed from that command, while Gen. Gaines, who was ordered to take his place, effectually discharged the duty.—Balt. Argus.

John S. McCalmont, Esq., is announced in the Clarion Democrat as a candidate for Congress. He is a gentleman of good qualifications for the office of Representative.

The Brownsville Free Press says that "a small red worm," or weevil, has made its appearance among the wheat in that vicinity, that is doing much damage.

It is said that large numbers of Whigs, opposed to Scott, have stopped their subscriptions to the Boston Atlas, the only Whig paper in Boston that has Scott's name at its head.

Mr. Clay leaves three sons, no daughters. But one of his sons, Thomas, was with him when he died. He is the eldest and a farmer, residing in Lexington, and near Ashland. He is about fifty years old. James B. Clay, Mr. Clay's second son, and the late Charge to Portugal, is a farmer, engaged in heavy business near St. Louis. He is about 35. John, the youngest son, is about 30 years old, and resides at Ashland with his mother. See that we are happy to learn, in somewhat better health than during the winter and spring months. Mr. Clay has had twelve children, but three of the number survive him. We are happy to know that he has left a competency for his family. The disposal of those of his household effects which were presented to him by his many friends is left with Mrs. Clay.

Hon. James Campbell is the member of the Democratic National Committee from this State.

Meagher in Ireland.

The following account of Irish enthusiasm, in the green isle itself, on hearing the escape of Meagher, is from an Irish paper:

"The men of Mullinahone and its neighborhood decided at once to light bonfires on the hills. Corriquoeliter was, for obvious reasons, chosen as the fittest place for rendezvous, and long before sunset as merry a band as need be had assembled on the summit of that peak, and when they were told that young Meagher had made his escape, their looks testified how they felt. Some pointed to the exact spot—a mossy cushion under the shadow of a huge grey rock—where he dined one day. Others spoke of the speech he made standing on Fionn ma Couil's table, though since called Meagher's rock.

We had music too—the mellow bugle, the merry violin, and the lively fife, added a new charm to the scene. And now the sun had stolen away from us, the moon rose, and the stars began to twinkle in the clear blue sky. The match was now applied to the pile, and as the flames ascended, some one cried out cheer for Meagher, and may God speed him!" and then arose a cheer that, if anything could, would have shaken the old "corrig" to its centre. A fire was soon described on the hill of Ballingary, and in a short time the country all around looked like another firmament studded with bright luminaries. I must not neglect to mention that many of the sunny-eyed girls of Tipperary were with us, to whose ardent, kindly patriotism, the young tribune himself has borne immortal testimony, and need I say that the joy of their hearts at his escape was seen beaming in their eyes."

Affecting Incident. On the night Meloy was murdered, Keast had promised his boys a cocoa nut. The poor little fellows, in all the glee of childhood, waited until a late hour, but he came not. Early the next morning they left their boarding house, and went to the house in which they formerly lived; for a long time they pounded at the door but receiving no answer, they got in through the window. They found their father's working coat, and the cocoa nut in the pocket. On taking it out, they discovered blood upon the coat. The first impression was that the father had been hurt, and the boys left the house hand in hand wandering through the streets in search of him. It was a long time before any person could muster sufficient courage to impart the dreadful affair to them. When, however, they did hear it, and fairly understood the whole circumstance, there was a wall of woe and anguish that was most heart-rending—a display of excessive grief and sorrow such as can only be appreciated by those who know the depths of the pure fountains from whence a child's love for its parent springs.

The lads are aged respectively seven and nine years, are intelligent little fellows, and we are pleased to learn that they have been provided for by some benevolent gentlemen. The mother, it is said, died at the State Lunatic Asylum last week.—Hollidaysburg Standard.

Storm on Lake Erie.

CLEVELAND, O., July 1. Lake Erie was more turbulent yesterday than she has been for many years, in consequence of which much damage has been done and we have no doubt many lives were lost.

The Caspian, which was laying at the new pier of the C. C. and C. railroad broke from her moorings and was thrown around against the adjacent piles, breaking her in two just forward of the wheel-house. A number of passengers were on board at the time who barely escaped before the accident occurred. Nothing on board was saved except a number of trunks and some furniture that floated ashore. She is a perfect wreck and we understand she was not insured. The Queen City was lying at the other side of the pier, but having steam up when the gale commenced, she started for the river without damage, except the breaking of a wheel.

A large number of brigs and schooners came in flying but no material damage was done to any of them. One schooner in rounding into the river took the jib boom bowsprit off of another vessel of the same class which was lying at the dock by the lee-rope of the foresail.—The Pittsburgh railroad tracks were covered with sand for some rods, and an engine was thrown from the track, but sustained no injury. We learn that two piers were swept away at Ashtabula.

From Washington City.

WASHINGTON, July 1. It is understood in political circles that the President has determined to give the vacant Secretaryship of the Navy to Maryland, and Mr. Evans, a Whig member of the present Congress from the State, is mentioned.

Gen. Scott's letter gives dissatisfaction to several Southern Whigs, who think it does not endorse the compromise portion of the platform with sufficient distinctness. Messrs. Toombs, Stevens, and Clingman intend to attack Gen. Scott at the earliest opportunity.

A conspiracy in the French Army. The New York Times learns by a private letter that a serious conspiracy was recently discovered in the French Army. It was denounced by a Sergeant in the army, who had joined the conspirators, but became frightened at the extent and boldness of their plans. He states that in the regiment to which he belonged an association had been formed, among whose members were numbered some eighty or ninety non-commissioned officers, who had agreed, in the event of a popular outbreak, when ordered to fire upon the people, to aim their bullets at their own officers, and join the popular ranks. The informer was unable to say whether the organization of the conspirators extended beyond his own regiment. Their movements seemed to have been planned and prosecuted with great care and secrecy.

Sixty-nine Scott delegates voted against the resolution in the Whig platform endorsing the compromise.

The Famine in Germany.

The famine in the mountain districts of Southern Germany is yet unabated, and provisions scarce and prices exorbitant. A letter to the New York Express, dated Prague, June 3, says:

Families formerly in easy circumstances, are reduced to beggary and to severe sufferings from hunger. Bakers sell bread of rye and oat bran at high prices; people gather common grass along the public roads and highways, and moss in the woods, cook and eat it to appease their hunger and prevent starvation. Such are a few of the many glaring features of the great famine, not in the least exaggerated, but authenticated by the official reports of the local authorities to their respective Governments. Truly the wrath of God is upon us!

Call for a Union Convention in Georgia.

MACON, Ga., June 28. The Messenger of Wednesday publishes an official call for the re-assembling of the Union Convention at Milledgeville, Georgia, on the 15th of July, in pursuance of a resolution providing for such second meeting, passed by the late Union Convention.

The Savannah Evening News and Republican both hold the nomination of Scott, and call for the nomination of a third candidate by the Union party.

Torch-Light Funeral Procession.

PHILADELPHIA, July 2. A great torch-light funeral procession took place to-night on the reception of Henry Clay's remains at half past eight. The procession was grand and imposing and was composed of the military and firemen in citizen's dress, and the civic bodies. Three thousand torches were in the procession. The body was deposited at Independence Hall until to-morrow, and then goes to New York.

Western Theatricals are of rather a unique character. We clip from an Iowa paper the following notice of "the opening of the Red Barn":—"First night of the Dancing Goat, who goes through the intricacies of the cotillon like a fellow critter. The performance of the Goat will be followed by an exhibition of the mathematical attainments of the Dog Billy, a quadruped that reckons up figures like a piece of chalk and works problems in algebra with one leg tied behind him. Admission 12 1/2 cts. No corn taken at the door. P. S. The free list entirely excluded, except the press and ministers of the Gospel.

Complimentary.

The editor of the New York Tribune says that "the only material difference between the Democratic and Whig platform results from the fact that the former was drawn up by a politician—the latter by an ass." Greely is good Whig authority; perhaps a little prejudiced by his hatred of the Whig platform, which, in another place, he says was concocted by "inveterate owls" and tendered to the Whig party by "illustrious blockheads."
