Important Decision in Regard to the Maine Liquor Law.

We stated some time since the decision of the Supreme Judicial Coart of Maine in regard to the scizure of liquors in transitu. There were several other points touched upon in the decision rendered, the most important of which were as follows. We find them in the Bath Times : othere is nothing in the act indicative of an intention of preventing intoxicating liquors being property, when possessed by a person for his own use, without any intention to sell.

The act cannot prevent the transport of liquor from one town or city to another, or through Mexican war, says : the, State, when there is no intention to make sale of the same.

The declared design of the law was the 'suppression of drinking houses and tipling shops,' much relish. Our respect for those to whom he and the law should receive a construction compatible with its design. The general language of the act must be restricted so as to accomplish the general intent and declared purpose thereof, and was only saved from an ignominious death of the provision in relation to the holding of by peace being declared at the time it was." property must be pronounced to be a piain violation of the provisions of the Constitution .--No positive enactment is found in the law, that MARYLAND .- The Baltimore Argus states that no person can acquire property in intoxicating Colonel A. G. Ege, of Carroll county, whig elec- sergeant. By order of liquors.

It would be absurdity to desire an article of more ; Colonel T. J. McKaig, candidate for Concommerce not property, and by the same law gress three years ago; Messrs. Brewer, Devecempowering agents to sell the article as the pro- man, and Semmes, of Allegany county, and othperty of cities and towns. acquiring property and protecting it ; but the Legislature may determine that articles injurious to the public health and morals, shall not consion for complaint that a provision of the Con- of sight, weakness of limbs, &c.

In his concluding paragraph, Judge Shepley we ask the attention of all directly interested authorized to introduce, by construction, such than of construction. It may be so. And if without encroaching upon the forbidden province of another department of the government, it cannot omit its duty to declare that provision, (that in relation to property in liquor) in wiola-

These Reprints have now been in successful operation in this country for twenty years, and their circulation is constantly on the increase notwithstanding the competition they encounter from American periodicals of a similar class and from numerous Eclectics and Magazines made up of selections from foreign periodicals. This fact shows clearly the high estimation in which they are held by the intelligent reading public, and affords a guarantee that they are established on a firm basis, and will be continued without

Although these works are distinguished the by political shades above indicated, yet but a small portion of their contents is devoted to political subjects. It is their literary character which gives them their chief value, and in that they stand confessedly far above all other journals of their class. Blackwood, still under the masterly guidance of Christopher North, maintains its ancient celebrity, and is, at this time, unusually at tractive, from the serial works of Bulwer andother literary notables, written for that maguzine, and first appearing in its columns both ia-Great Britain and in the United States. Such works as "The Caxtons" and "My New Novel," (both by Bulwer), "My Peninsular Medal," "The Green Hand," and other serials, of which numerous rival editions are issued by the leading publishers in this country, have to be reprinted by those publishers from the pages of Blackwood, after it has been issued by Mess. Scott & Co., so that subscribers to the Reprint of that Magazine may always rely on having the earliest reading of these fascinating tales.
