

Triumphant Trial of the Ericsson Caloric Vessel—A New Era in Navigation—Steam Supplanted.

The New York Herald of the 7th gives an interesting account of the successful trial of the Ericsson caloric ship in the Bay of New York on the 4th inst., and indulges some interesting speculations upon the great revolution in navigation that must be the speedy result.

While a steamship of the same size of the Ericsson would consume on an average sixty to seventy tons of coal in the twenty-four hours, the latter would be fully supplied during the same time by six tons, thus effecting a saving in this article of nine-tenths, so that a voyage round the world can be made without stopping at any intermediate place for fuel.

The Caloric ship, which is named "Ericsson," after the distinguished inventor, will shorten the ocean and astonish the Old World with another startling monument of American genius and enterprise.

General Pierce and the Boston Authorities.

Mayor Seaver to-day read a letter before the Board of Aldermen from Gen. Pierce, in reply to an invitation to accept the hospitalities of the City of Boston, on his way to Washington.

A principle that will be cherished by all while an adequate love of a common country exists in the Republic. Whatever anxieties may yet be in store for him—whatever obstacles interpose in the way of duty, he has undying faith that he will never falter in devotion to that object.

Fashions, &c.

The fashionable season in New York has commenced unusually early this year. Receptions are full, and large balls have been called forth a magnificence of toilette never before equalled in this New World.

Being in a French modiste's the other morning, we were amazed at her prices, by the way, for these airy ball dresses, which in reality cost very little, and are only becoming to the young.

So money goes, and so money is made.—Wealth has lately been accumulated so fast that expense is not minded. Venice and Genoa, in their palmy days, will soon be cut out by the merchant princes of New York.

A Laughable Notice.

We are indebted to the Warrentown (N. C.) News for the following advertisement, which was posted up in a tavern in Newbern while the Legislature was in session at that place:

After reading it over he did not exactly like it, it didn't say anything about rowdies and blackguards; so to caution them particularly he added:

Wanted by J. MOORE cash in exchange for goods, or otherwise.

A Patriot's Prayer.

Many years ago, on a well-remembered occasion, when the Union was just undergoing one of those tests which threatened to rend it in twain, Daniel Webster closed one of the most soul-stirring speeches he ever delivered, with the following glorious sentiments:

"When my eyes for the last time shall be raised to behold the sun in Heaven, may they not gaze upon the broken fragments of a dishonored, but once glorious Union; upon States dismembered, discordant, belligerent; upon a land rent by civil feuds, and drenched, it may be, in paternal blood. Let their last feeble and lingering gaze rather behold the glorious ensign of the Republic, now known and honored throughout the earth, still full high advanced—no one stripe erased or polluted, not one star obscured, but streaming in all their original lustre, and bearing for its motto no such miserable interrogatory, as 'What is all this worth?' nor those of the words of delusion and folly, 'Liberty first, the Union afterwards,' but everywhere, spread all over in characters of living light, blazing on all its ample folds, as they float over the sea and over the land, and in every wind under the whole heavens, that other sentiment, dear to every true American heart, 'Liberty and Union, now and forever, one and inseparable.'"

The Leicester Mercury extracts the following anecdote from a lecture just delivered by a Mr. Potter, before the Working Men's Improvement Society, Loughborough:

"Many years ago several youths were bathing in the Soar near Cotes, were amusing themselves by jumping into the water from the parapet of the bridge. One of them was incited to repeated efforts by the companions shouting 'Well done, Lumley.' A merchant of the same name rode up on horseback at the time and hearing the cry, became much interested with the lad, took him with him and brought him up as a gentleman.

Thousands of parents who use Vermifuge composed of Castor oil, Calomel, &c., are not aware, that while they appear to benefit the patient, they are actually laying the foundations for a series of diseases, such as salivation, loss of sight, weakness of limbs, &c.

"Be not deceived," but ask for Hobnack's Worm Syrup and Liver Pills, and observe that each has the signature of the Proprietor, J. N. Hobnack, as none else are genuine.

On Tuesday afternoon Jan. 18, at 4 1/2 o'clock, at the Washington Hotel, McConnellsburg, Fulton Co. Pa. JOHN J. BONNETT, Esq., in the 23d year of his age, after an illness of but 5 days.
