

Singular Race of Human Beings.

There are now in London two very singular human beings, of a race which has hitherto been very little known to the civilized world. They thy had been dropped upon this earth from a- ered as a new engagement. They are a poor weak people-one of Natures freaks-and destined not to perpetuate their race. Few colonists have seen them, and although it is known that a few still linger in the two or three years ago, and have now become domesticated in an English family. The morning Chronicle, from which we take these particulars, describe these little Earthmen as a boy and a girl, the former fourteen and the latter sixteen years of age, and "complete little fairies" in appearance. They hav is three feet three and a half inches in height, and the girl a triffe taller. Their skin is of the brightest and most transparent bronze, and as smooth and polished as marble. In form the little creatures are perfect-their delicate limbs standing out in the apply the remedy :most graceful symetry, and every motion instinct with the untaught case of nature. The faces, though decidedly African in feature, are full of sweetness and good humor, with an expression of archness and intelligence.

They are named Martinis and Flora. In their savage state they fed on locusts, and ant-eggs and such small game as they could take. Till they were carried to England they had no ideas of God or of any supreme power. At present they have been taught some of the customs of civilized life, and are able to speak little airs. and-the first of Earthmen-to play little airs on a biano.

Few sights are more interesting to a thinking person than that of the last of a race of human beings on the point of being blotted out from the face of the earth. The individuals in question seem to constitute one of the most anomalous forms of our species that have ever yet been brought to the notice of the naturalist or the ethnologists. It is to be hoped that further light will be thrown on their history by scientific researches.-Boston Courier
