Agricultural.

Education of Farmers.

It is a curious inquiry why the knowledge of agriculture progresses so slowly; and why it has attained so little in this country. It is a fact which we are all willing to concede, that our productions are little more than one-half of what they should be, and far less than what they are elsewhere; and yet we seem to be content to bide our time, and be satisfied with results, when accident or chance shall produce them, or when place. we shall be jostled from the "old way" by the coming generation.

More than seven hundred years before the Christian era, Isaiah prophetically speaks of a to sell low, and keep none but good articles, he threshing machine, "behold I will make thee a hopes to receive the patronage of a discriminating new sharp threshing instrument having teeth." And yet this intimation, pointing out almost the very structure of the machine now in so common use, was not realized until the nineteenth century; and then received with a doubting cantion that well nigh dampened the experiment. The merchant has carried his enterprise into every nook and corner of the world-and I had almost written, unknown world; the learned have exerted their talents to the development, and practical application of scientific principles, which has given to their class an enviable place in the estimation of mankind; the mechanic, availing himself of these developments of science, has given them form and shape to an extent which entitles them to the admiration of the world; whilst the farmer stands to gaze with mingled feelings of doubt and astonishment that all the other pur suits of life whirl so rapidly past him.

What is the remedy for this admitted evil ?-We mewer-the education of farmers' sons through the medium of an agricultural school .-We mean a school to educate boys in the art and | wines and liquors. science of farming; and unless the farmers of our State will sealously embrace this idea, and avail themselves of it, there is no hope that their condition can be otherwise improved but by the lapse of time, and happening or accidental circumstances.

There is no one of the colleges of this country adapted to instruct a farmer; on the contrary their system is calculated to educate young men to a state of entire unfitness for any such occupation. A boy graduated at one of our literary transact the business of the firm. institutions, has already spent that part of his life which alone can be profitably employed to learn the art of farming : and science without | Wm. P. Orbison, art is still worse than art without science. There are peculiar reasons why farmers should take up this subject and make it their own. It is a fact | with regard to the system upon which literary R. M. Lemon, institutions are at present based, that their pecu- | Geo. R. M'Farlane, niary resources are never adequate to their necessities; however economical they may be .-Thadeus Banks. The consequence of this is that education is made to cost more than they, who rely upon the products of a farm, are able to pay. Besides, if this | Hamsburg, Pa. expense should have been undergone, the farmer has in all probability driven his son from all taste or desire to pursue the calling for which his maturor judgment intended him. And if the boy should return to the farm, it is to exhibit to his disappointed father and brothers how little he knows of the business of his future life. In an Agricultural School the pupils are laborers on the farm as well as in their study; their bodies are educated to the art, and their minds to | WOULD again inform the public that they have the science of farming; whilst their hands are employed in the work of the farm, their minds are employed in the pursuit of the knowledge of which they are prepared to dispose of at reasonable the reasons for what they do; there is hereby an prices. Their stock consists, in part, of men and intermingling of theoretical science and practical boys wearing apparel, manufactured from Cloths, art, which is but to be continued through their whole future lives. The institution thus becomes, in a measure, self-sustaining; and the price of olucation may be reduced to a mere trifle. -Fred-

Treatment of Milk Cows.

U in treating of cattle I have not already consumed too much time, I should like to say a word as to the bad treatment Milk cows are but too! frequently subjected to in almost every place: a treatment as unwise as it is cruel. If it were confined to cities, where the poor animals are drugged with still slops and other unnatural food, by milkmen, so called, to excite the cows to yield undue quantities of what they call milk. I would not think it necessary to refer to it here; but the cruel and improper treatment of cows is not confined to cities alone-go where you will you are sure to be shocked at the scenes of suffering and neglect these patient animals are made to endure whether on commons, farms, stable or yards. If driven out after milking, or brought home to be milked, they never fail of being run, whipped or cudgelled by some unfeeling boy, who seems to think it part of his duty to deal them as many blows as he can while within his promptly attended to. reach. Then but too often follow the blows of the milker, should the poor animal wince under the pressure on teats, lacerated perhaps by thorns, or made sore from other causes. No wonder that this treatment, with scantiness of food and sometimes of water, reduces the cow to the wretched condition in which they are but too often found in every quarter. Set a farm hand to clean the cow stable daily, to curry and brush the cows, and he will be apt to think you a fool, or that you mean to degrade him-if he comply, it will be with reluctance, and it is quite likely he will take more out of their hides, or put more into them, than you bargained for. Ask the same the toll gate, and Dr. Howe at the old office on the worthy to groom your horse, and he will not fail to do it cheerfully. Why this prejudice, this folly? Does not the cow stand in a more interesting relation to us than the horse? He works for us and carries us, to be sure, but then do we partake of his flesh and blood while living, in the shape of milk, butter and cheese? and do we slaughter him for beef when we suppose him fail- Saloon, and are ready, at all times, to accommodate ing in strength? No. Well, then, why is not all persons who wish to indulge in the luxury of a the same attention paid to the cleanliness and good plats of Fields' No. 1 Oysters. We will have them forwarded to us daily. We solicit a liberal health of the cows as is bestowed upon the horse? The same care that produces so fine a condition in one, could not fail of having the same effect upon the other-and I say that it is the height of folly, and positive injustice to ourselves, to withhold those attentions from the cow. She is a second wet nurse to us and our children, and if this nurse be in all-health, will not her milk, cream and butter be imbued with her condition? Would we be willing to eat of the flesh of some of those wretchedly poor animals if they were slaughter-ed? And why should we not feel the same re-his bar stocked with the best of Wines and Liquors. pugnance to use their milk? Let us be more careful in feeding those useful animals properly, of the stables. STORR'S CHEMICAL HARR INVIG-ORATOR.

MIIS delightful and popular article is the best preparation for the hair which long experience and scientific research has produced, either as an article for the toilet, or its beneficial effects in all the diseases to which the human hair is liable. It will impart to the roughest and coarsest hair the most beautiful appearance, entirely cleansing it from all impurities.

But while we assert that it is the best arvicle for the toilet of those who wish to retain the hair in all its youthf

LUXURIANCE AND BEAUTY. it must not be forgotton that in all diseases of the hair or scalp, such as the falling of the bair dand ruff, pimples, or sores on the scalp, &c., it is per-haps the article which has given decided satisfaction every instance where it has been used.

Its operation in case of baldness is peculiarly the Firm, who has been spending some months in active, so that, in numerous, where other remedies England and Germany, and who will continue to have been tried in vain, STORR'S CHEMICAL INkeep us supplied with Foreign Hardward bought | VIGORATOR has superseded the ornaments of art, by reinstating, in full plentitude, the permanent gifts and graces of nature. It is possessed of a character wholly differing from the Oils, Grease, Restoratives, &c., which are now so numerously foisted on the public, for baldness, gray hair, &c.

Storr's Invigorator has now been tested for years, and its efficacy has been proved by thousands. Every year its reputa tion and sales have increased, until more of it is consumed annually than of any other preparation for the bair ever offered to the American public. It is compounded on strictly actentific principles, and the proprietor will stake his reputation on its
