Know Nothings beginning to Know Something !

The Gettysburg Compiler, a paper always well posted, gives us the annexed gratifying notice of what is going on in Adams county :

"We are reliable informed that several democrots in this place, who had allowed themselves to be coaxed into joining Know Noselves to be coaxed into joining Know No-thingism, have "dissolved" all connection OFFICE on Clinton Street, in the Second Sto-ry of Good & Pershing's Store Room. with the order, denouncing it as a regular Whig swindle, to break down the Democratic party. The Whig leaders don't seem to like

NEW ORLEANS, September 13 .- Our city has been the scene of source terrible riots between the Americans and Irish, in which several lives were lost and many badly injured. There are many rumors and exaggerated reports in circulation in regard to the cause of t. From the best information I can obtain, I learn that the first outbreak occurred on Sunday evening, growing out of a political discussion between a party of Ame icans and Irish. A savage fight ensued, in which firearms and clubs were freely used. A number of the participants in the riot were badly wounded before it could be quelled by the police. On the following day one of the wounded died, and much excitement followed in consequence.

The excitement continued on the increase throughout Monday, and as soon as night set in the riot was renewed with still greater violence-cach party apparently prepared for it. The news spread rapidly through the city, and it was reported that several had been killed, but this report fortunately proved to be premature. Pistols and guns were fired into the crowds, and many of the rioters received serious injuries. The police again succeeded in making several arrests and restoring order.

The rioters again assembled on Tuesday evening, when the struggle was renewed with redoubled ferocity. Two of the rioters were killed on the ground, and quite a number were carried off, some of them shockingly | Post Office, wounded. The riotous fever continued to increase during Monday, when the Mayor ordered out the National Guard and the entire police force. This had the effect of intimidating the rioters, and up to the time of send- O county, Pa. Office East of the Allegheny ing this despatch, no further outbreak had taken place. The military, however, are still held under arms, to be ready in the event of a renewal of the disgraceful disturbances.

A Sanctum in Nebraska.

The Omaha Arrow is the name of a paper just started in Omaha, Nebraska. The editor thus describes his sanctum:

Last night we slept in our sanctum-the M. Riffle. starry-decked heavens for a ceiling, and our mother earth for a flooring. It was a glorious night, and we were tired from our day's exertions. Far away, on different portions of the prairie, glimmered the camp fires of our neighbors, the pawnees, Omahas, or that noble and too often unappreciated class of our people, known as pioneers or squatters. We gathered around our little camp-fire, talked of times in the past, of the pleasing present, and the glorious future which the march of civilization should open in the land whereon we sat The new moon was just sinking behind the western prairie roll, but slightly dis- the practice of Medicine and Surgery. pelling the darkness which crept over our loved and cherished Nebraska land. We thougt of distant friends and loxedones who, stretched upon beds of downy ease, little appreciated the unalloyed pleasure, the heaven-blessed comfort that dwelt with us in this far-off land. No busy hum of the bustling world served to distract our thoughts. Behind us was spread our buffalo robe, in an old Indian trail, which was to serve as our bed and bedding. The cool night wind swept in cooling breezes around us, deep laden with the perfume of a thousand hued and varied flowers. Far away upon our lea came the occasional long drawn howl of the prairie wolves. Talk of comfort! there was more of it in one hour of our sanctam camp life and of came life generally upon Nebraska soil, than in a whole life of fashionable, pampered world in the settlement; and, individually, we would not have exchanged our sanctum for any of those of our brethren of the press who boast of its neatness and beauty of artful adornments.
