Correspondence of the Democrat & Sentinel.

PHILADELPHIA, April 5, 1855. Our politicians of all parties have of late been very busy in preparing for the election in May next, when a City Treasurer, City Commissioner, Councilmen and various Ward officers are to be elected. The contest will probably be somewhat animated. The regular Whig City Convention has made its nominations for City officers. Durring its deliberations a series of resolutions, strongly denunciatory of Know-Nothingiam were introduced, but having been laid on the table twenty-two delegates withdrew, and expressed an intention of making separate nominations. The Democratic City Convention was held a few days since. Before it was thoroughly organized objection was made to the admission of certain delegates, on the ground that they belonged to the Know-Nothing or American party. A committee of investigation was appointed who reported that they should not be admitted unless they would declare under oath their innocence of the charge, The accused offered to swear they had always voted the Democratic ticket, but as they declined taking the oath prescribed by the Committee, they were not allowed to participate in the proceedings of the Convention.

The Old Pine Street Church is about to be extensively repaired. This edifice was erected in 1760, and is interesting from revolutionary associations. During the occupancy of this city by the British troops in the War of Independence, it was used by them at one time as a stable and at another as a hospital It has had as pastors some of the most distinguished divines which the country has produced, one of whom was Dr. Duffield, one of the Chaplains of the Revolutionary Congress, Dr. Ely, and Dr. Alexander, afterwards of Princeton.

A woman up town was burned to death recently in a shocking manner. No one was in the house with her but two or three small children, and it is supposed that she was sleeping before the fire, when by some mischance her clothes became ignited. When she was scarce awakened, she rushed to escape, but in her fright, apparently mistook the door leading to the cellar, for that leading to the street. About the time her husband come home and seeing some evidences of a conflugration, broke open the door, and although his wife was then still alive he was unable to extinguish the flames in time to save her.

Lager bier has become one of the test established institutions of our city. Numberless saloons have been established, all of which appear to be doing a good business. The love of lager not only each ins the souls of our German population, but the citizens generally, and it is with very many of our American citizens a favorite beverage. In a num er of rooms it is venwith sometimes a little good, a good deal different, and much bad music, a species of combined enjoyment appropriately styled Lager Bier Opera.

By a despatch from Nova Scotia, it appears that the Legislature of that Province, has just granted a charter to facilitate the construction of a trans-Atlantic Telegraph Line, uniting Nova Scotia and Ireland. It is said that the capital has been subscribed, and the parties are confident of having the line in practical operation by the fall of 1858. It is a grand project, and may succeed, but it will probably require years of experimenting and great expense, before a reliable line can be established over so great an evpanse of Many of our Firemen, even those who belong to accepting Companies, refuse to serve under the present Ordinance; and in the event of a serious fire, searcely more than one third of our recent fire organization would be engaged in subduing it.

One of our newspapers in an editorial calling public attention to a beautiful painting of a bull attacked by four dogs, which is being gratuitously exhibited at the store of one of our merchants, gravely cautions visitors against taking their dogs with them, as on a recent occasion one of the animals who happened to behold it, immediately flew to the assistance of his canine friends upon the canvass, and was only prevented from doing serious injury by being caught by his master. The painter who represented a cabbage so naturally that after it became a few months old it obtained the odor of sour krout, must have been greatly infeffor to the artist of this new work.

One of our enterprising manufacturing firms, which has two establishments in the city a mile or two apart, has recently made arrangements for the erection of a magnetic telegraphic line between them, as a means of communication for the numerous messages which are constantly passing between them. It is probably the first private telegraph erected in the country.

The large and valuable lot opposite the Girard House, in Chestnut street, upon which Welch's Circus and the Chinese Museum were burned down nearly a year ago continues to be covered with an unsightly mass of ruins, and no arrangements have yet been made to erect new buildings upon. It is owned by a man of wealth residing in New Jersey, but he seems disposed for the present to indulge in the "Dog in the Manger" policy, and neither build upon it himself nor sell the lot so as to allow anybody else to do so. In the very heart and centre of the most fashionable portion of the city, it is a great eye-sore in its

Within the last few days a number of signs have been blown down from the tops and fronts of houses, and in several instances have inflicted serious if not fatal wounds upon persons passing at the time. In the town of Progress, in New Jersey, a few miles up the river, a glass factory has also been blown down, and some seven or eight persons killed, and twelve or fifteen serious-

The Board of Controllers of our Public Schools

Quite a large portion of the decendants of former casionally that the prim old dress of the society is met with, and were William Penn to return to his beloved "city of brotherly love"he would find but a small portion of its inhabitants true to the creed and practices he was so much attached to.

A very athletic colored woman was arrested here a few days since on a charge of the commis-sion of a burglary in New Jersey, (where she was sent for trial,) while disguised in male apparel. During the past winter it was a common thing for male robbers in this city to disguise themselves is females, but she seems to have preferred exhibiting her genius in that line in the garb they vere so anxious to conceal.

The Historical Society of Pennsylvania have reently issued an Address recommending the establishment of a new National Holiday, on the 17th of September, the day upon which the Constitution of the United States was finally ratified. The suggestion is a good one, and should be generarly adopted. The National Constitution is the great link which binds our seperate sovereignties ogether, and thus constitute as a powerful nation, and this fact should be thoroughly and fully impressed upon the public mind.

Experiments are now being tried with the new street sweeping machines, of which there are several varieties. In one of them the apparatus consists of a series of revolving brooms, which revolve with the wheels of the vehicle, with which they are connected. By being arranged diagonally, they sweep the dirt into a straight line at the side, and thus they clean up a space of about four feet in width with each trip through the street, the horses travelling in an ordinary walk. A street of twenty-five feet in width, and one mile long, would be swept by it in from two to three nours, with the assistance of one man and one or two horses; and it is preceded by a sprinkling machine to prevent it kicking up too much dust. It appears to operate pretty well, where the surface of the ground is even, but the old "fogies" are inclined to think it no very great improvement on the old plan after all.

One of our physicians recently visited a family where a lady and her son, who was about fifteen months old, were both ill. He wrote a prescription for each, and the apothecary negligently reversed the the endorsement, so that the mother took the medicine intended for the child, and the child that intended for the mother. The latter the medicine thus erroneously administered, and goods cheap. ded in enormous quantities nightly in conjunction the apothecary was arrested; but a postmorten ment of Dry Goods, Hard Ware, a very unpleasant but deserved predicment. By the America, we have later news from Eu rope. Before Sebastopol there had been some hard fighting, but without any decided results. The sallies of the Russians are repulsed; and those of the Allies share the same fate. Louis Napoleon and wife are to visit Queen Victoria on the 16th of April, and he is expected to start for the Crimea oon after. Meanwhile, there is a faint hope of peace from the deliberations of the Vienna Conerence. The first and second points abolishing the Protectorate of Russia over the Moldavian provinces, and placing them under joint guardianship of the five Powers, and securing the freedom of the navigation of the Danube, appear to have been pretty well agreed upon. The third point refers to " the attachment of the Ottoman Empire to the European Balance of Power," and on this question the Allies have receeded from their requirement of the demolition of the fortress of Sebastopel. The exact nature of their proposition is not known, but it has been referred by the Russian Envoy to St. Petersburg, and further proceedings are suspended until he obtains an answer

Mason's and Dixon's Line.

What was the origin and purpose of it? We pear it frequently spoken of as connected with slavery, and as originally relating to that subject. Nothing can be further from the truth-at the time that line was established slavery existed on both sides of it. A brief account of its origin may be of some interest. As early as the year 1682 a dispute arose between William Penn and Lord Baltimore, respecting the construction of their respective grants, of what now form the States of Pennsylvania, Delaware and Maryland. Lord Baltimore claimed to and included the 40th degree of north latitude; and William Penn mildly yet firmly resisted the claim. The debatable land was one degree of 69 English miles on the south of Pennsylvania, and extended west as far as the State itself. The matter was finally brought into the Court of Chancery in Englan1, and after tedious delays, on the 15th day of May, 1757, Lord Chancellor Hardwick made a decree, awarding costs against Lord Baltimore, and directing that Commissioners should be appointed to mark the boundaries between the parties. The comissioners appointed met at New Castle on the 15th day of November, 1775, and not being able to agree, separated. After a further litigation and delay, the whole matter was settled by the mutual agreement between the surviving heirs of the original applicants. In the year 1761 Mr. Charles Mason, of the Royal Observatory, was sent to Pennsylvania, with all the needful astronomical instruments to measure a degree of latitude. That duty he performed, and a report of The Board of Controllers of our Public Schools his-proceedings was made to the Royal Secretary has adopted a resolution recommending the Directors to set apart an hour in each week for in- and Jeremiah Dixon were appointed to run the struction in the science of music. > In Altoons, March 29th, after a short illness, JOHN LALLY, in the 22d year of his age. He died after a short and painful illness which he bore with resignation. The deceased was a son of Thomas D. Lilly, one of the oldest settlers, and most respected citizens, of Washington township. in this county. He was a young man of correct and industrious habits, and bade fair to become a useful member of society. May he rest in peace. At the residence of Mr. Fry, in Chest township, on the 29th ult., Thomas Priestly, aged about 65 years. The deceased was one of the pioneers of the northern section of this county, and by his liberality, energy and industry, contributed not a little towards rendering it the most prosperous and flourishing pertion of her territory. We are informed by those who knew him well, that amid all the trials and vicissitudes of his varied life, he was ever distinguished for his uniform goodness of heart, his sterling, honest, and constant aim to promote the prosperity of the community in which he resided; so that it might with truth be said of him that he was
