Facts For Farmers.

It is a fact that all domestic animals can be proved in size and value. One hundred and fifty years ago the average weight of cat-tle at the Smithfield market, was not over 870 pounds, and that of sheep 28. Now the average weight of the former is over 800 pounds, and of the latter 80 pounds.

The a erage weight of cattle, properly ermed Beeves, in New York market, is about 700 pounds, sheep 50 pounds.

The average live weight of the heaviest drove of beeves of 100 in number ever brought to this market 2067 pounds, weighed from dry feeding, in Illinois last spring.

The mode of selling cattle in New York is at so much per pound for the estimated weight of meat contained in the four quarters. The estimation is made upon the live weight of cattle as follows. A drover in buying a lot of grass fed com-mon stock in Illinois, should never calculate to get an estimate of over one half here of the ive weight there. That is, if the drove average 12 cwt., they make 6 cwt., of meat each Medium beeves may be estimated as 54 or 55 pounds per cwt. Good beeves at 56 or 57 pounds. Extra good, large and 58 to 62 pounds per cwt.

In the Boston market the weight is general, that is, the ands. Extra good, large and fat, from ly estimated upon five quarters, that is, the product of meat, fat and skin. There the cattle are generally weighed, and the product estimated upon an average of 94 lbs. per cwt In New York not one bullock in ten thousand goes upon the scales to determine his price to the butcher. It is a fact that the cattle of a large breed or variety are the most profitable for the grazier who feeds for beef. It is doubtful whether that will hold good with poultry. Dorking fowls are medium size, and a much esteemed variety. They have five toes.

Timber should be cut while the tree is in its most rapid season of growth, and near the close of the growing season, when the terminal bend of each limb is fully formed. Saw logs cut in winter always decay on the outside more or less if left over, while summer cut logs keep sound for years. Hickory cut in winter, soon suffers "powder post." If cut in August it will keep forever.

Posts should always be set top end down.

They will last twice as long Put six inches of broken stone in the bottom of the hole

Locust trees make most valuable timber and grow quick and easy from the seed, if it is scalded with boiling water, or still better, lye, and then planted as one would beets or onious, and the plants are about as sure to live as those vegetables when transplanted.
Salt applied at the rate of four quarts to a ton of hay, will aid materially in its preserva-tion, and make it more nutricious and wholesome for stock, and is just about the amount usually fed by a good farmer to an ox while eating that quantity of hay

Fasten the courses to the boards by nailing thin strips of lath, and also upon the eaves. sides and all exposed edges. The whole is now covered by the "composition," which we believe is just such as caulkers use, that is, boiling pitch. It saturates the paper and sticks the sheets altogether and to the boards. As fast as one man puts on pitch enough another must cover it with clean gravel, dried by heating in a very bot sup or an iron pan by heating in a very hot sun, or an iron pan over the fire. Make a complete gravel surface in the hot pitch and your roof will be very light and durable.

Renovating Orchards.

MESSRS. EDITORS.—Can you or any of your contributers give me any information as to the best mode of renovating an old orchard? I have not found any directions in any book to which I have access. H. Lee, Mass.

If in sod, plow, harrow, and tear the plowed turf to fragments by re-harrowing-plowing shallow near the trees, and deeper more remotely. Apply a good coating of stable manure, with a hundred or two bushels of leached ashes, or fifty bushels of unleached ashes or lime per acre—harrow these all into the soil, and plow under as deeply as the roots will allow. Thin out the heads by removing all dead, decaying and badly stunted crooked branches, avoiding if possible the lopping of very large limbs; and if re-topping is necessary follow the directions in 10th number, current volume of the Country Gentleman. This treatment will impart new vigor to old trees, the crops will increase and the fruit rendered the crops will increase and the fruit rendered much larger and greatly superior in quality.

Where the soil is naturally rich, the application of ashes and lime without manure, will be sufficient, provided the thorough mode of pulverizing the soil be adopted as above described. It will not pay to plant any crop if the trees shade most of the ground. In old orchards the roots extend over the whole surface and the roots extend the roots therefore the manuring and cultivation should be broadcast. - Country Gentleman.

Trees From Seed.

A few years ago we made a large collection of the seeds of shade and ornamental trees both deciduous and evergreen, and planted with much care, but did not get a seed to vegitate. This season we have found out what was the matter; we planted too deep. It is well known that in the pine regions of Georgia this has been a great must year, and we now find every-where where the winged seeds have met the surface of the soil, they have thrown out root, Davis.
and begun the form of a tree. They had no Apri but what nature gave them, and dame store is a tolerable horticulturist

We invariably plant tree seed; just soil mough to preserve the moisture is all that is seessary.

An ornamental tree grown from seed, may made anything the cultivator wisher it. A fruit tree grown by seed is most likely to be healthy, and may prove a sure and valuable variety. It has been a question of time with most of us; we could not wait for tree seeds to ealthy, and may prove a sure and valuable ariety. It has been a question of time with cost of us; we could not wait for tree seeds to arm trees. A pine seed will make boards in relve years

Apple seeds will make fruit trees in five the will sell lower than ever before offered in this orm trees. A pine seed will make boards in ears. Grapes in eight and ten years. Peaches pla and plums in ten years. The China tree seed will make a good shade tree in four years. A man may have a for the shade from seed if he will. Even the shade profit. Plant trees reader, and you will be astonished at the work reader, and you will be astonished at the work remined to sell low, and keep none but good articles, he hopes to receive the patronage of a discriminating public.
