The official returns of the Election which we publish this week, prove that the people of Cambria nobly sustained themselves on last Tuesday. The whole union ticket is elected by an overwhelmning majority. Truly, this is a victory never to be forgotten. It proves that the hardy Mountaineers of Cambria, love the Constitution of their country, and loath and detest the foul spirit of religious bigotry; that they can think and act for themselves, and are not to be made the tools of designing knaves and demagogues. "The cast off slough of a polluted and shameless Press," shich circulated so freely through the county, a few days previous to the election, so far from answering the ends designed, had the effect of arousing the people to a settled, determined persevering resistance to the efforts of the midnight conspirators, to carry the election. Poor Sam if still living might well exclaim, "Save me from my friends." The result is a noble tribute to the good sense and patriotism of the people of Cambria, and we venture to prophecy, that it will be time before the banner of Religious Bigotry, le again unfurled in their midst.

The returns from Bedford and Fu ton show that Smith and Bernhard our candidates for Assembly, are elected by about 900 majority. The returns from every section of the State are most cheering, and we have received sufficient to show, that Pennsylvania is redeemed. Arnold Plumer is elected Canal Commissioner by a large majority, and we have secured a insjority in both branches of he legislature. Gen. Foster is elected in Westmoreland. The Democracy have carried their ticket by a large majority in Allegheny county. Poor Sam, he is dead, he is gone and his followers may well exclaim in the bitterness of their grief as they follow his hearse. "Parewell, a long farewell, to all our great-

Cambria County Fair

The first exhibition of the Cambria County agricultural Society was held on the farm of Shoemaker Esq., near Ebensburg on Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday, the 3rd, 4th and 5th, inst. During the first day, the weather was rather cloudy and unpleasant, and the attendance of people not very large, but nothing more could have been desired on the two succeeding days, when the sun shone out brightly, and the air was balmy and pleasant. . The people from all quarters of the county were consequently in attendance, and the turn out much larger than host been anticipated. The arrangements made for the exhibition were excellent, and the whole affair reflected much credit upon the Society for this their first effort, whilst it was also gratifying to witness the interet manifested in it by the farmers and others, in the commencement to its close.

The display of stock was not very large, but so far as it went was very creditable, and was pronounced by those who had been present at exhioitions in our adjoining counties, as fully equal to any there exhibited.

The exhibition of Poultry was good. A nur ber of Agricultural implements were on the ground, which attracted much attention, as well as sundry articles manufactured by the mechanics of this place.

The display of vegetables, and fruits was very large. Enormous pumpkins, cucumbers, beets, potatoes, egg plants &c. &., were there in abundance. The fruitfulness of the past season being a profuse and abundant, the tables were well tilled with the produce of the orchard, and garden. Finer apples could not be found, which peaches grapes, and "garden sauce" were well represented. The different specimens of butter, were moulded in various forms according to the taste. of the cont. ibutor, and attracted attention.

Specimens of Leend, thour, grain, corn &c. wer also to be seen. The display of preserves, bed quites, billikets embroidery, and needle work. sailat it reflects I much credit upon the industry of our "housewives," was much admired,

The exhibition of the society was altogether creditable one, and although the contributors were the example set by them will induce the farmers in other parts of the county to come forward at the next exhibition, and show what our little ounty can do, and that Cambria is not behind her neighbors agriculturally.

Mr. President:—It devolves on me as President of the Pennsylvania State Agricultural Society, to welcome your Excellency to its annual exhibition, and to present for your inspection the farm stock and implements, and the field and garden products on these grounds—the contributions of the farmers of Pennsylvania.

Pennsylvania.

The advancement of the tillers of the soil, has been with me a leading object throughout my agricultural career. If I could not have them take precedence of all others, I would not consent at least, that they should rank not consent at least, that they should rank below any class in the community. With this intent I appointed the Governor, Ex-Governors, and Judges of the Supreme Court of this Commonwealth, to participate in the enteresting duties of Judges at this exhibition. The same desire prompted me to go a step further, and invite your Excellency to come among us in a familiar way, to look at the specimens or husbandry and domestic prompted me to go a step further. manufactures, that I was sure could not fail to challenge your appreciation. Your re-sponding so kindly to the call made upon you.

Nothing could be more agreeable than the circumstances under which, for the Byst time, I visit this locality, which besides being the governmental centre, is the centre of the population and wealth of the great agricultural. State of Pennsylvania. My journey lither has been full of interest. I was particularly attracted, as I entered the valley, near the boundary of your State, traversed by lilver streams beautifully skirted by green foliage, with here and there the tints of early autumn, but yet more impressed as the broader valley of the Susquehanna opened upon us with fer-tile fields on either side, with the picturesque gap of the North Mountain, with the Blus Mountain in the distance, presenting a sketch, of almost unrivalled bollness and beauty.

And now, sir, what skall I say of the gracious manner in which it has been your pleasure to receive me in behalf of the Pennsylvania State Agricultural Society? I am deeply moved and deeply grateful.

It is gratifying to witness on any occasion gious tone of a powerful Commonwealth as this, where the younanry—engrossed during the year in their own pursuits, living upon their own acres, cultivating their own soil, superintending the interests of their own domain—honest, thoughtful, reflecting—but much seeluled by the nature of their noble. and independent vocation, have come together for a better purpose than to criticist and confor a better purpose than to criticish and con-demn the sentiments and opinious of others. Passion and prejudice are left behind to-day! Social spirit, just judgement, and kind emo-tion rule the hour! You have come to exam-ine and compare the productious, the stock and utensils of your neighbors, not to find fault with them but to improve your own, and I, by your invitation, have come among you

It is a remarkable fact, that in this country, where public law imposes no restraint of their practical importance, the matter of surprise is that societies like yours were not earlier established, and that they are not now more generally encouraged. Men engaged in the other great interests of commerce nanufactures are, from the nature of their pursuits, brought together in cities and com-munities, and independent of their chambers of commerce and corporate arrangements, have almost daily and hourly intercourse. There is with them a continual communication of thoughts and interchange of sentiments and opinions. Material facts are clicited and communicated with telegraphic rapidity. Are not bliese advantages most important to the two great national interests to which I have adverted? Could they thrive without them? Are they not, indeed, indispensible? What but this interchange of thought, rivalry, if you please, of genius and invention, has whitned every sea with your canvass! What but this, let me ask the distinguished gentle-man (turning to Hon. J. P. Kennedy) standman (turning to Hon. J. P. Kennedy) standing near me upon the platform, who recently presided over the navy Department, has made your ships as staunch and swift as any which plough the waves of the ocean? What but this has given a velocity to your spindles and a perfection to your fabries, which enable American manufactures to compete successfully with the civilized world? And yet, let it be remembered, your pursuit of agriculture is, the basis, the foundation, the only sure sup-port of both the others. Without it their shuttles would cease, and their ships would decay at their moorings. A very short crop throughout America for a single year would not only cripple all the others interests, but it would seriously affect the commerce of the world. The agriculturists literally feed and furnish the material of clothing to our busy millions at home, and hasten to supply the argent wants of suffering multitudes abroad, when the voice of humanity comes to you

The cultivator of the soil who does not re alize these things, lives unconscious of the liguity of his calling,

What agricultural societies have accom-plished cannot be computed, but I think it safe to say that in examinations and compari-sons instituted on such accasions as the pres-ent, in respect to the cultivation and gathers ing of crops, the wants of the farmer have been clearly disclosed, invention has been
