Feelings on a Battle Field. The Crimes correspondent of the New York Sun, in writing from Balaklava, gives, from the experience of a wounded Frenchman, an inion with regard to that which is felt by the soldier in time of conflict, which is some-

. Before the battle begins, it is usual to feel no little tremor, and many checks which are known to be in communication with stout hearts blanch visibly. As the conflict becomes imminent, courage returns, and with the first low of blood, an enthusiasm is raised which constantly increases, and very seldom flags in the least until the last shot is fired. The effeet of seeing a comrade shot down is generally to excite an unappossable thirst for vengeance against the for, though in the end one gets used to it When wounded less than mortally, it is not usual far the soldier to be immediately aware of the fact, unless some bones are broken A sabre may be run through any fleshy part of the bedy, and even a bullet and confine him." ledged in a dangerous proximity to the vitals, and he for sometime be totally unconscious of even a scratch. The papers of Maryland are making some startling exposures of the frauds practiced in that State under the present lottery system, and demand its complete revision by the Le-gislature, or its entire abrogation. The Bul-timore Republican, to illustrate the practice, cites the scheme of Wednesday, the 5th inst., which contained 67,525 tickets at $2 50 each, making $168,817. The prizes in the scheme with the 15 per cent. off, which the contractors always claim, amount to $109,059, leaving a clear profit to the contractors on this one scheme, of $58,764. This scheme draws about 156 times a year, making for the contractors (provided the tickets are all sold) a profit on the year's business of the enormous sum of nine million one hundred and sixtyseven thousand one hundred and eighty-four dollars. Add to this enormous sum the stamp tax of ten cents on each ticket, which the contractors insist they have a right to impose upon the dealers, and you have as additional profits $105,331, making a grand total of $9,272,515. This calculation is made only on one class of schemes -" The Small Fry, -which draws one bundred and fifty-six times a year; but inasmuch as the various schemes draw upwar t of six hundred times in the year it is not to be wondered at that the He was completely cowed. working of the system appears startling and almost fabulous.

DEATH BED SCENE OF AARON BURR -A statement having recently been made that Col. Aaron Burr died an unbeliever in the Christian religion, the Rev. Dr. Vanpelt, a venerable Episcopal clergyman, of New York, in reply to a letter from S. C. Reid, Jr., states that he was frequently with him at a hotel on Staten Island during his protracted illness, and at the moment of his death. The time spent with him was chiefly employed in religious conversations, concluding with prayer. Being asked as to his views of the Holy Scriptures, Col. B. responded. "They were the most perfect system of truth the world had ever seen." Two hours before his death, the Rev. Mr. Vanpelt informed him that he could not survive much longer. He replied, "I am aware of it." Mr Vaupelt thus describes his last moments :- " With his usual cordial concurrence and manifest desire, we kneeled in prayer before the throne of heavenly grace turned in his bed, and put himself in an humble devotional posture, and seemed deeply lengaged in the religious service, thanking me, as usual, for the prayer made for him. Calm and composed, I recommend him to the mercy of God and to the world of his grace, ing last, C. H. HEYER, Esq., aged 34 years and with a last farewell. At about two o'clock, 15 days. P. M., without a groan or struggle, he breathed his last. His death was easy and gentle as a taper in the socket, and as a summer's wave that dies upon the shore. Thus died Col. Aaron Burr."

MR. BUCHANAN .- The following is an extract of a letter from Mr. Buchanan, dated London, November 16th: -

Anecdote of General Jackson At the south-west, the people delight to spin yarns of Gen. Jackson; of his daring love of justice, and the prompt way of administering "that article," when he found it necessary. I was on the Mississippi last summer, when I heard the following story, which, having never seen in print, I send to you for the benefit of your readers:

The General, then Judge Jackson, was holding court -long time ago -in a shantee at a little village in Tennessee, and dispensing justice, in large and small doses, as seemed to him to be required in the cases brought before him. One day, during court, a great bulking fellow, acmed with pistols and bowie-knife, took it upon hims if to parade before the open door of the Shantee Court House and d-n the Judge, Jury, and all there assembled, in good set terms

"Sheriff," sung out the Julye in an awful tone, " arrest that man for contempt of Court

Out goes the Sheriff, but soon returned with word to the Judge that he had found it impossible to take the offender. Summon a posse, then," said the Judge,

"and bring him before me." The Sheriff put out again, but the task was too difficult; he could not, or dared not lay hands on the man, nor did any of the posse like the job any better than he did, as the fellow threatened to shoot the first "skunk" that came within ten feet of him.

At this, the Judge waxed wrathy, to have his authority put at defiance before all the good people of the vicinity, so he cried out from the Bench, (it was literally a bench,) "Mr. Sheriff, since you can't obey my orders, summon me, sir, yes, summon me !"
"You, Judge!" exclaimed the Sheriff,

"Yes, me, summon me! By the Eternal!

I'll see what I can do!" "Well, Judge, if you say so, though l don't like to do it, but if you will try, why I suppose I must summon vou " Very well," said Jackson, rising and walking to the door: "I adjourn this Court ten minutes."

The Ruffian was standing a short distance from the Shantee, in the centre of a crowd of people, blaspheming at a terrible rate and flourishing his weapons, vowing death and destruction to all and singular who should attempt to molest him. Judge Jackson walked very calmly into the centre of the group, with a pistol in his hand, and contropted him :-"Now," said the Judge, looking him straight in the eye, "surrender, you infernal villian, this instant! or, by the Eternal, I'll blow you through !" The man eyed the speaker for a moment, without speaking, and then let fall his weap- purchaser. ons, with these words: "There, Judge, it's no use, I give in," and he suffered himself to be led off by the Sheriff without opposition

A few days after the occurrence, the man was asked by one of his comrades why he knocked under to one man, when he had be-fore refused to allow himself to be taken by a IMMIGRATION TO THE TROPICS .- Some of whole company, and his reply showed the estimation in which the daring and determined spirit of Jackson was beld throughout the

Successfully Trea cd by INHALIATION OF MEDICATED VAPORS! BYJOHRSONSTEWARTROSE, II D. MELLOW of the Royal C llege of Physicians, and for years Senior Physician in the Lon-don Royal Infirmary for Diseases of the Lungs. In this age of progress, medical science has contributed her full share to the general we fare, and that which shines resplendent, the brightest jewel in her diadem, is her last and greatest gift,

Medicated Vapor Inhabition,

In the treatment of Consumption and kindred offections. The most steard notions, narrow-minded prejudice contemptable ignorance, and onbluen of quarkery, have one exacted in the treatment of Consumption. Blen of Skill and reputa-tion as physicians have prescribed nausons compounds to be taken into he stomach, to cure dis-cuse of the lungs, while the brazen-faced quack heid up his nostrum as the only star of hope for the consumptive—if only enough of it were swal lowed. The stomach, where no disease exists, being the ecceptacle of all this, is soon rendered unfit to perform its functions, and the health thus materially injured. All must see the absurdity, the positive injury of such a course; the discuse is n the lungs, not in the stomach; then why, in the name of common sense, do you not apply medicine drectly to the lungs? The advantage as Inhalatha in Consumption and Throat Discases is, medicines is the form of Vapor are applied directly to the lungs where the disease exists; the stomach is hus left free to an I in restoring health. by administering to it healthy, life-giving food. There is no case so hopeless that Inhabation will not reach! The means, too, are brought within the reach of all, the manner or administering the Vapors being so simple, that the invalid is never required toleave home, where the hand of friendsician's eller's.

The Inhilling method is soothing, safe and speedy, andconsists in the administration of medines in such a manner that they are conveyed into the lugs in the form of Vapor, and produce their action at the seat of the disease. Its practical success is destined to revolutionize the opinions of the nedical world, and establish the entire curability of Consumption.
