WEDNESDAY MORNINGMAR. 12.

JAMES BUCHANAN.

Subject to the Decision of the National Convention: Canal Commissioner:

GEORGE SCOTT. (OF COLUMBIA COUNTY.) Auditor General: JACOB FRY, JR., (OF MONTGOMERY COUNTY.) Surveyor General: TIMOTHY IVES,

> (OF POTTER COUNTY.) The late State Convention.

We this week, lay at full length before our readers, the proceedings of the late Demoeratic State Convention. We presume, that at this time, when the campaign for the Presidency is opening, one portion of the Party of the country, the Democracy, will be eagerly and closely examined, as that party have nothing to conceal, but desire that all their actions should be observed and scrutinized in the strongest light, we deem it our duty to put upon record everything that will assist the investigation, and are convinced that our readers will think with us, and peruse with unusual interest the proceedings referred to.

The Convention was full-every section of the State being fully represented, and we heard it frequently mentioned, that the Convention contained as much business talent and cloquence as any similar body that ever met in Harrisburg. The strength of the Party was there-the old and experienced, the young and ardent men, who had grown grey in the cause of Democracy, all were animated by one common feeling and determination to forget local jealousies, to sacrifice personal feelings and attachment, everything for the glorious cause. We think that more unanimity and harmony were rarely seen than was this time exhibited.

It will be observed that the Convention met fairly and boldly, all the issues which will be brought with the next contest-the position of the Pennsylvania Democracy upon them, is clearly, unequivocally defined, the great doctrine of popular sovereignty, as proclaimed in the Kansas Nebraska bill is recognized and vindicated in a manner that will cheer the hearts of all sincere Union men, and the selection of Col. Wright to preside over the deliberations of the Convention is a fact which will doubtless be significant to the southern portion of our confederacy. We commend the eloquent speeches of this gentleman upon taking the chair, and leaving it, to a careful perusal.

Graham's Magazine.

The March number of this excellent periodical makes its appearance with its usual punctuality. It contains much original and entertaining readit , matter, and its illustrations of the fashions, cannot fail to render it acceptable to the ladies. The articles under the head of Editors table, Monthly Summary, and Review of New Books are always readable, and the steel engravings in each number are executed in the best style. Portraits of the Governors.

The portraits of the Governors of Pennsylvania have been painted by J. R Lambden, a distinguished artist of Philadelphia, and are now to be seen in that city. There are thirteen in all, and the sketches of Governors Porter, Shunk, Bigler, Johnston and Pollock were all taken from life. The collection is said to be one of rare merit, and to reflect much honor upon the accomplished ar-the Legislature, denying the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court in the matter of the disputed Governorship, protesting against its action, and threatening to resist, with all the means in his department, any infringement upon his rights. The message was referred to a committee. The decision of the Court will probably be rendered today. The Democrats held a meeting on Satur-Barstow, M. d. Colland Bot.

Specimen of British Brag.

The London Daily Telegraph, in alluding to American affairs appears to think that John Bull could easily settle the fate of the American Union. In a leading article, in its columns, of the 20th of February last, the following extract is found, burg Post says: the tone of which is fashioned after that of the London Times. The braggadocio spirit which pervades it cannot but excite a smile, and the allusion to the means by which the United States are to be demolished shows that England relies much upon her black and white allfes in this country. This has been the end and aim of the abolition scheme which has been fomented by her, and agitated by the Fanatics of New England for years. But read the extract:

"We are afraid that there is but one woy to bayonet. The aggressive spirit of the people of the United States requires an humbling, and it is for us to perform the task. England's mission is to complete the great work commenced by her in 1834, when she literated her slaves. There are now over three million of human beings held in bondage in the United States; fellow creatures, who are prepared to go through fire and water, even to the very gates of death itself, to escape from their Republican taskmasters; mothers who destroy their children to save them from bondage; fathers who would risk the funeral pyre, like the martyrs of old, to save their little ones from the ruffian planter's lash! And in that Republican country men are burned in the public streets; children torn from the mother's besom, and sold to vice and bendage; and women with white

There the laws of God and of civilized man are despised, and fellow-beings are bound as brutes and sold as chattels. If, therefore, the United States Government deny, and is resolved to question, the right of Great Britain to her Central American possessions, we, the people of the British Empire, are resolved to strike off the shackles from the feet of her three million slaves. And there are those amongst us who will sanctify such a glorious cause; the people of England will deny themselves every luxury to assist their country in a contest, more sacred and more glorious than ever formed the watchword of the Crusaders of old, when combatting the infidel hosts of a Saladn. If we have not a Richard Cour de Lion, we have one name which will carry liberty to milhons, and the emancipation, by "force of arms," of the slaves of the American States will be connected to the end of all time with the rallying word of freedom-Victoria."

Court Proceedings.

We give below the proceedings of Court which has been in session last week, and this week. It will be seen that the business in the Quarter Sesons was small, and that very few civil-cases have been disposed of. Owing to the very deep snow on the ground, and almost impassable state of conquer, there was manifest a disposition to the reads, the attendance of people was much less than usual. NEW HAMPSHIRE ALL HAIL! GREAT DEMOCRATIC GAIN!!

The lightning brings a good report from the noble Democracy of the gallant Granite State. A gain of six thousand five hundred for Governor and a Democratic Senate! This will do at present, in the absence of anything better; but we believe the half has not yet been told. It is well known that the telegraph is particulary averse to heralding Democratic victories, hence we have a premonition that when the returns are all in it will be announced: "John L. Wells is Gover-nor-elect of New Hampshire." What a triumph settle this dispute, and that is, at the point of the such an announcement would be over the fag ends of all parties. Again we say all hail to the true hearted New Hampshire Democracy!

The Unfaithful Stewards, a Parable. 1. It came to pass, that in the seventy-ninth vear of the independence of America, and in the first year of the reign of James Pollock George Bowman and Thomas Power being both tetrarchs of the province.

2. That, the country lying along the top of the Allegheny Mountains, had waxed powerful and populous and strong. And there were among them, the poor and the rich.

themselves let us separate the poor from the rich, let us build them a fine house, of brick, of mortar, of stone, of wood and of iron, so that their days may be comfortable in the land which the lord hath given to us all.

4. And they also said let us choose three rulers to superintend the affairs of the poor, men in whom there is no guile, whose conduct shall be blameless before our eyes, and let there be no strife about their choice, whether they be Greeks or Romans. And the people all said yea.

5. And behold it came to pass, when these three men were chosen, they assembled together, one from his farm, another from his foundry, and another from his merchandize.

6 And being assembled together, they commenced among themselves, and said, let us invite all the artificers of wood of stone of brick and of mortar, in order that they may tell us for what price they would erect the building, and whosoever shall promise to build it the lowest, to bim shall it be given. March inst. For lo! we are but the agents of the people.

7. Thus spake they to the public, but they spake otherwise within themselves, and tarried there two days. 8. The elder arose and said let us get the man who will deal with us to build the house for the poor, and then we shall have plenty for our baskets and for our store. 9. And the younger arose and said, behold

I think likewise, it pleases me better to think as you do, as I shall the more likely become the greatest of my kindred and of my people. 10. But the other arose and said, six hun-

12. But the other answered and said, be it so, I leave the matter with you, my hands are unsullied by it. And he arose and departed in to the North country

13. But behold a certain Seribe who was sirnamed an "old taxpayer," having heard of the unhallowed conduct of those Stewards, wrote an epistle addressed to them and to the public, in order that whosoever was wronged in that epistle might receive justification.

14. And the multitude awaited the Stewards to justify their conduct and they did not. But two of them assembled together, and the persons indebted to the late firm, are respectfully notified to make payment to Dr. Gwinn at as younger arose and said, we cannot gainsay the doctrine contained in the epistle of the Scribe, but this we can do, I can get a Scribe who was brought up at the feet of Gamaliel, who will write for us, and acknowledge the truth contained in the epistle, and say that the artificers of this locality are unworthy of confidence, and he will slander them in such a genteel manner, that both they and the Scribe will cry out great is "Diana of the to call on the subscriber, and get their clothing
