From the Louisville Journal. sabbath in the Wilderness.

BY MAX GREENE.

Here, in a strange and desert land, I've passed this Sabbath day, From home, and all that knew me once, Three thousand miles away.

By far Atlantic's flashing streams, In boyhood, I have played; In manhood now, I wander 'neath The Rocky Mountains, shade.

I've lain within this cedar grove, And watched the brilliant glow That rests upon yon upland rim, And in the vale below.

I've lain beneath the cedar bongh, And watched a strange bright bird And looked into the marbled sky, Until my soul was stirred.

With memories of long-gone years, And hopes of coming time ; And then, my passionate heart was poured In rivers of sweet rhyme.

Thus, in a wild and desert land, I've passed this Sabbath day, From home, and all who knew me once, Three thou sand miles away.

REMARKS

Of Mr. Smith, of Cambria, in the House of Representatives, April 21st 1856, on the Fill entitled "An Act to provide for the payment of certain. Claims against the Commonwealth."

MR. SPEAKER :- This is a bill in which the honor of the Commonwealth is at stake. It is a matter in which all her citizens are concerned. Let us then act in such manner, as to give character to this body and credit to the Commonwealth, by passing an appropriation to pay off these old debts, and not act in an ungrateful manner towards citizens holding honest claims against her.

The objection urged against the payment of these claims, that some of them are fraudulent, is an unfair objection. This objection is more unjust than the most unjust among the claims. These claims are honest, but admitting that in the first place some of them may have been dishonest, the State by her own act has made them honest, and made herself responsible for their payment.

To protect the Commonwealth from the pay ment of fraudulent claims, by an act of the Legislature, providing for the ordinary expenses of the Government, the repairs of the Public Works and other general and special oppropriations, approved the 9th day of May, member to the deplorable condition of things the carrying out of these principles would [From the New Orleans Delta.] bring about. They oppose the payment of It will be perceived from

When deliberate mother country and her struggling. the people of this Commonwealth have upon forward, but chivalrous offspring in Central all occasions, in the most emphatic manner peprecated the principle of repudiating our foreign debts, will this House by its action repudiate the payment of the honest debts due her own citizens, a repudiation of which would or abroad. He is now in the maturity of his sink the Commonwealth into eternal infamy? | powers, being at out forty-nine or fifty years

I hope not. I have no disposition, Mr. Speaker, to prolong this discussion. I wish to press it to varied observations of men, manners and vote, and will only say further, that the vote upon this section will show who are actuated by a spirit of State pride and Justice-who have the welfare of our citizens, and the future honor of our State at heart, and it will show who would stigmatize her with eternal disgrace, and inflict upon thousands of her poor and honest citizens a wrong of the darkest and most damning character. The passage of this section will be the most righteous act of the session. The act will be applauded, aud will send a thrill of joy throughout the Commonwealth, while its defeat will be mortifying and disgraceful, and will fall with a crushing force upon thousands of poor and bonest hearts.

The Padre was at one time a lawyer practising in Granada, we believe, and enjoyed very great prestige as an accomplished jurist and skilful speaker, being almost as effective in courts as in chambers, in pleading as in advice. He became connected with some political movements which agitated Central America periodically, and had to choose between exile and death as or his ambition, or whatever it may be called. Accordingly, he had to leave Central America, and was refused the privilege of returning in the character of a lawyer, or a soldier, or a t, and re-appear in his native country under 1854, Commissioners were appointed to examine, allow, and certify to such claims, as in their judgment were found to be correct, and justly due from the Commonwealth to the respective claimants.

To enable these Commissioners to arrive at just and equitable conclusions, or decisions; they were invested with full power to send for persons and papers, and to administer oaths. These gentlemen at once entered upon the discharge of their duties, holding sessions at all the prominent points along the Main Line of our Public Improvements, and after examining all the claims presented to them, and certifying to such of them as they found to be correct, made their report as far back as the fall of 1854.

The appointment of this tribunal was hailed with delight throughout the Commonwealth, as it was supposed that all the old debts would, through its agency be brought to light and those which were found to be correct and certified to by these Commissioners would be promptly paid. Certainly there is a binding obligation on the part of the Commonwealth to pay all debts these Commissioners pronounced to be correct, for the tribunal was that of the State alone, and the creditors had no voice in its erection, but were compelled to go before it, and by its decisions were bound to abide.

Now how has this great Commonwealth maintained her part of the contract? By leaving thousands of dollars of the claims passed by her own tribunal to remain unpaid.

These creditors have time after time appealed to the disbursing officers of the State for the pittance due them, but the chilling answer has invariably been. "THERE IS NO APPROPRIATION." How unjust-how disreputable! With over one million of dollars in the Treasury, as shown by the report of the State Treasurer, and boasted of as an evidence of our prosperity. Pennsylvama permits her poor laborers to remain unpaid. Men who have toiled for her day and night, through summer's heat and winter's cold, whose claims are certified to by the State's own tribunal as being just, and to whom the amount, sn all as it is, would be a god-send, cannot get a single cent.

That a great, populous, and wealthy State should so treat her own citizens, is most disgraceful, and that in consequence of such treatment much pecuniary embarrassment; yea, physical suffering has resulted is most certain. In consequence of this treatment, many of the employees of the State, who by rigid frugality, had secured a few acres of land upon which to place their families, in consequence of the non payment of these claims, have had their little all sold from them. and have been thrown upon the world homeless and penniless. I know many now who to save their property from sale, and to procure the means to purchase the necessaries of life, would sacrifice their claims at one half their day. value, but these claims cannot now be sold, for there being no appropriation, and no cerspeculators will not advance money on them at any shave that can be proposed. Now, is it not disgraceful that the poor laborers of the State should be reduced to such rn extremity. I have stated nothing but the truth, and could state much more without telling all the truth. done these poor claimants, will be speedily the reords on

In answer to an inquiry, Marshal Donaldon said that his demands must be complied with. Every man against whom a process of whad been issued, should be surrendered; ill the munitions of war in Lawrence must be delivered up, and that the citizens of Lawrence should pledge themselves implicitly to obey the present cuactments in Kansas under oath. Flour Falling.

The staff of life, which has so long been at starvation prices, has at last taken a fall, and we hope a fall forever. A leading staple and a leading necessity, it rules the rates of kindred grains, and makes the living of the laboring masses high. This compels a corresponding merease, enters into the cost of all kinds of manufactured produce, and the consumer, whoever he be, has to foot the bill .--It is not so much the high price of bread which works the injury as the fluctuations of that price. Wages cannot rise and fall with the varying tides of trade, and many a man is made a pauper, and manufacturer ruined, adapting means to the evil.

The New York Herald says: Who could have believed last December that flour in April, from common to good New York State flour, would be quoted in this city at a fraction under six dollars a barrel? Yet this thing has come to pass, and the probabilities are that flour, breadstuffs, and provisions of all kinds will continue to come down for the balels and traitors, and that they should know his demands when he came. sidering the prospect of a long war in Europe and of still upward prices for bread-stuffs, put in an immense 'readth of land for the fore be an average one per acre, the aggreincredible amount; but should it be a harvest like that of last year, bread and meat will be cheap and plentiful beyond all anticipations.
