EBENSBURG.

WEDNESDAY MORNING FEB. 4.

NON. HENRY D. FOSTER.

MASS MEETING.

By referring to another column, the proceedings of a Mass Meeting, which assembled at the Court House in this place on last Saturday, will be seen, the "FROSTY SONS OF THUNDER," convened in the majesty of their mighty strength, untrammelled by fear of punishment, or hope of reward, conscious of the rectitude of their action, and acknowledging no dictation from any quarter, have spoken, as we always knew they would speak, in relation to the course pursued by our Representatives in refusing to attend the caucus for the nomination of U. S. Senator. They have indignantly lured back to the foul and contaminated source whence they emanated, the blackguard insinuations and scandalous denunciations of filthy political bugsters. They have stamped the seal of honest indignation upon the course pursued by that vile hypocrite, hypocritically mean, and notoriously corrupt camp-follower, who has for years, been sticking to the rag end of our party, like a leech trying to suck the life blood from its existence—he who larks under a name which would have caused him to have been suspended to a piece of hemp had he lived during the Revolution. We, of course, refer to W. B. Rankin—the self-constituted judge who arraigned, tried for high treason and condemned to perpetual banishment; men who were great and respected in the democratic Party. Before he had the impudence to raise his dishonored head from the infamy which clustered around his ancestors; and whose very names will be a beacon blaze to guide the democracy of Western Pennsylvania on to glorious victory long after both Rankin and his infamy are forgotten. We can say with Junius, that had we been personally his enemy we could pity and forgive him—an object so disgusting is certainly beneath honest indignation and far below the level of honorable contempt. But he did not speak as W. B. Rankin. He sent forth his anathemas as President of the Keystone Club. We are indeed sorry that necessity compelled us to dignify him with a notice, and we ask pardon of our readers for disgracing our paper with the insertion of his name. He has written a letter to the Pennsylvania reflecting on Gen. Foster, but as he speaks there merely as the corrupt Rankin we will pass that over with silent contempt. The Democracy of Cambria at his own request, have also taken the liberty of showing Adjutant General George Washington Bowman (who if he has not a name that would hang him, has a character among the hardy sons of the Mountain, who helped to fight our Mexican battles that certainly would) "the material of which they are made." We trust the proceedings of that meeting will prove satisfactory to the "General." George—you're entirely too well known to the honest yeomanry of little Cambria. When they wish any instructions in political jugglery they will give you a call. It is a pleasant duty to turn from the dark and clouded picture of corruption to the sun shine of honest and high minded principles—from the Thugs of Hindostan to free generous and honorable Americans—from such men as Rankin, Bowman and their satellites to Gen. Foster and that spartan band of noble campers, who formed a Chinese wall to break the inroads of Executive influence on the one hand, and direct bribing on the other—the impregnation of their honest constituency, above guile and beyond suspicion—brave and fearless, with enough mind to know their rights and enough nerve to proclaim them—battling always for the right and submitting to nothing that is wrong. The action of these men has received the unqualified and unanimous approval of the democracy of Cambria with their 1350 majority. The slanders against the noble, the generous, the high souled Foster can have no resting place in Cambria. Here he is known, admired for his ability esteemed for his integrity, honored for his virtue and loved for his generosity. He was our first choice for U. S. Senator and he is now our choice for Governor. Had he been fairly beaten before, we would have submitted, and if he fairly beaten now we will submit. Our indefatigable honest iron nerved Representative G. Nelson Smith.

That men of firm and noble soul, When faction's demons can't control, Nor tyrant's darkling brows Can swerve him from his just intent. He still dear as he always has been to the people of Cambria Paid plums and hired renegades may attempt to bark themselves into notice by growling at him, but the people of Cambria know him and await their time to add new honors to his name.

Honor to the next refulgent star in Western Penna. n. s. H. D. Foster and eternal honor to the men who were guided by the light of that star!

In James Buchanan, the Democracy of Cambria have declared their confidence to be unimpaired. As the President elect is aware we have been no summer friends. Whether basking in the sun shine of prosperity or surrounded by the winds of adversity, Cambria has been always true to him. We believe he was guilty of an indiscretion in writing the celebrated letter to Mr. Mott, but no man is perfect. We look forward to his administration with hope and can assure him that Cambria will always sustain him when in the right and she is certain he will do no wrong.

CAMBRIA WHEELING INTO LINE!!!

THE SLANDERERS REDUCED!!!

SMITH & CRESSWELL SUSTAINED!!!

On Saturday, January 31st, 1857, the Democracy of Cambria county, met in mass convention in the Court House in the borough of Ebensburg, at 2 P. M. The convention was called to order by the chairman of the county committee. On motion of Gen. White, Michael Hasson, Esq., was unanimously chosen President. He stated in bold, vigorous and eloquent language the purpose for which the Convention had been called together.

The organization of the Convention was then completed by the unanimous selection of the following named gentlemen as Vice Presidents and Secretaries.

- Richard Morgan, Blacklick. William J. Williams, Cambria. James Kirkpatrick, Carroll. John H. Douglass, Clearfield. Hon. H. Kinkaid, Edward Glass, Andrew Lewis, Peter Collins, Col. Wm. K. Piper, Alex'r Kilgore, Johnstown, A. Durbin, John M'Coy, Summerhill, John Mills, Summitville, Thos. H. Porter, Washington. A. F. Cantwell.

SECRETARIES. Peter McGough, R. J. Lloyd, H. C. Devine, and John A. Blair.

On motion of John S. Rhey, Esq., the Chair appointed as the committee on Resolutions to express the sense of the convention. John S. Rhey, R. L. Johnson, John Fenlon, M. M. Adams, Richard White, James Burk, and James Myers.

Pending the absence of the committee, the convention was addressed by M. D. Magolan, Esq., and Gen. Jos. McDonald, in speeches characterized by enthusiastic eloquence.

The committee then returned and reported the following Preamble and Resolutions, which on motion of John S. Rhey, were unanimously and enthusiastically adopted as the expression of the feeling of the Democracy of Cambria county.

The Democratic Party of Cambria county in Mass Meeting assembled, claim the same right to a candid expression of their honest convictions, that is accorded to Democrats elsewhere and everywhere. They have witnessed "more in sorrow than in anger," a systematic attack on Gen. Henry D. Foster and his friends, which if persisted in, must lead to the most disastrous consequence; fully impressed with this belief they have come together to protect against this vindictive plenary, and to stay if possible this madness of action, which would sacrifice the trust and purest Democracy of Western Pennsylvania.

Gen. Foster has for many years been a favorite with the Democracy of our county—There is no man outside of her borders for whom her people have so great an affection; the purity of his political principles; his eminent legal attainments; the frankness of his manners; his generosity of heart; his amiability of temper; have endeared him to our people.

He was our choice for United States Senator; yet tho' we considered him pre-eminently qualified for that distinction, we knew the people of other portions of Pennsylvania had also their favorites, and if Gen. Foster had been defeated in a caucus fairly held, in the absence of all undue influences, we should feel called upon to denounce all who refused to sanction the action of that caucus. But that caucus at which John W. Forney was nominated for United States Senator, was not fairly held and undue influences were brought to bear upon its deliberations. The chief dispenser of power and patronage in the United States, signified his preference, and the caucus had only to record that preference, and not the will of their constituents. A caucus so constituted, so held, and so influenced, whoever might compose it, could not represent the people, and as the people are the source of all power, their Representatives were perfectly justifiable in refusing to participate in its proceedings or support its nominations. Therefore Resolved, That the Democracy of Cambria repose unimpaired confidence in the ability and integrity of James Buchanan. That we look forward with confident pride to his administration of the affairs of the general Government; believing that he will fearlessly sustain the honor of his country, as he has heretofore done, both at home and abroad, and that as the President of the Republic, he will more than realize the most sanguine expectations of his friends.

Resolved, That we hereby sustain and endorse the course of our Representative George N. Smith, and our Senator John Cresswell Jr., in their refusal to attend the caucus, to nominate a candidate for United States Senator, and we assign the following reason for our full and entire approval of their conduct, viz: That the personal solicitation and influence of the President elect were unfortunately and as we think unwisely brought to bear, in favor of the nomination of a special and particular candidate, thus rendering the contest altogether one sided and unequal! that such solicitations and influences interfered with and prevented a free and independent expression of opinion, on the part of the democratic members of the Legislature, and especially compromised the claims of the friends of Henry D. Foster.

Resolved, That we deny the right of Mr. Buchanan, thus officially to interfere in the settlement of so delicate and important a question; and by indicating as he did in his letter to Henry S. Mott, the President of the board of Canal Commissioners the man of his choice, however worthy he may be, secure his nomination to the entire exclusion of all other candidates; that the law has wisely and properly conferred on the members of the Legislature the unreserved right of electing members of the United States Senate; and that any interference with a full and free exercise of that right is an invasion of perfect Legislative independence to which the Democracy of Cambria will never submit; and that we hereby endorse and approve the following doctrine as announced by Mr. Buchanan in his letter to the Democratic members of the Pennsylvania Legislature, dated 31st of March 1845, which is as follows "Jealousy of Federal interference and Federal influence in State elections, has ever been, and I trust ever may be a prevailing sentiment throughout the Democratic party; and if in the new official position which I now hold, I were to pass sentence against these Democratic members who voted for another Democrat instead of the caucus nominee, I might justly be asked, who made me a ruler or a judge in this matter?"

Resolved, That the eight protesting members of the Legislature who despised prospect of place, power and preferment where it interfered with their duty to their constituents, are deserving of the warmest thanks, and their names shall be held in grateful remembrance when the parasites of power shall be forgotten.

Resolved, That the bitter and vindictive assaults made upon our Representative George N. Smith, and our Senator John Cresswell Jr., by the "Keystone Club," "The Bedford Gazette" and the "National Hickory Club of Hollidaysburg," meet with our unqualified indignation and contempt; and that under the peculiar circumstances by which Messrs. Cresswell and Smith were surrounded, they faithfully and honestly carried out the well known and often expressed wishes of their Cambria county constituents.

Resolved, That the Democracy of Cambria look with scorn upon the cowardly attempts of the Pennsylvania newspaper to injure Gen. Foster and his friends. We consider the course of that paper to be unwise and impolitic, and we refuse to acknowledge it as the Dictator of the party.

Resolved, That we are no sunshine friends of Gen. Foster, and while we know the purity of his principles, and the integrity of his character, to be above suspicion, we shall sustain him against every attack, whether from open or concealed foes; whether made by defunct clubs or seditious politicians; by the purchases of the living, or the slanders of the dead. We endorse his course in manfully refusing to attend the caucus to nominate a candidate for U. S. Senator, because before it met, the decree had already officially gone forth that he should be sacrificed.

Resolved, That the conduct of those friends of Mr. Forney, who, after voting for him in caucus, deserted him and elected Simon Cameron, deserves the execration of honest men of all parties; and clearly proves that those who can be allured from the interest of the people, by the smiles of power, are not proof against the charms of "filthy lucre."

Resolved, That as an additional proof of the regard and esteem in which we hold Henry D. Foster, we hereby request our delegates, to the Democratic State convention, Henry A. Boggs, to nominate and vote for Henry D. Foster as our first choice for Governor; and that in the event of his nomination, the people of Cambria county will endorse him by a majority of more than two thousand votes.

Resolved, That the election of Simon Cameron to the United States Senate is a foul blot upon the fair fame of our gallant State, and so far from throwing the Democratic columns into confusion will only react in a tremendous majority at our next general election.

Resolved, That inasmuch as the eyes of General George W. Bowman and "the rest of mankind" are upon us, we trust they will see by the foregoing resolutions that we are true to ourselves, true to our Representatives, true to our friends and true to the interests of the ever living cause of Democracy.

Resolved, That we admire the manly spirit of independence, which has characterized the Democratic press of Cambria county, in sustaining our people and the Representatives against the calumnies of place seekers under the incoming administration.

Resolved, That the Democrats of Cambria county do not recognize in the Bedford Gazette any right to interrogate them as to the past, nor advise them as to the future; inasmuch as the same paper on a former occasion sold out their interests and their candidate for the patronage of the Portage Rail Road.

After the adoption of the Resolutions, R. L. Johnston Esq., addressed the meeting in his usual happy and graceful style, John S. Rley Esq., being called upon, made an able speech.

It was then moved and unanimously agreed to, that all newspapers in the State, supporting Democratic principles, be respectfully requested to publish the proceedings and Resolutions of this convention.

The convention then adjourned with three cheers for Henry D. Foster, three for Cresswell, three for Smith, three for Hill, Fausold, Calhoun, Nicholson and Backus, and three more for Smith, three for the Democracy of Washington township, and three for the good old cause, that is above all Presidents, and all other servants of the people—that of Democracy.

MICHAEL HASSON, Pres. Peter McGough, R. L. Johnston, H. C. Devine and J. A. Blair, Secretaries.

OLD WASHINGTON IN THE FIELD!

Pursuant to previous notice, the Buchanan and Breckinridge Club of Washington township met on Friday, January, 30th, at the School House, in the village of Hemlock. In the absence of the President, Jacob Burgoon was unanimously called to the chair. On motion, the Chair appointed Richard White, John Scott, John Mullin, Lewis Cassidy, Thomas Short, John O'Donnell and John B. Onslow, a committee to draft resolutions. After a brief absence, they returned and reported the following resolutions, which on motion, were read separately, and each resolution was unanimously adopted.

Resolved, That we have confidence in James Buchanan; and in the future, as in the past, will yield him our ardent support.

Resolved, That we deny in the broadest terms, the right of the President of the United States, to indicate or select an individual, to represent a sovereign State, in the Senate of the Union. The right to select one Senator implies the right to select both; and that right to select the Senators from one State, implies the right to select them from each of the States composing our confederacy, and thus unite the Legislative and Executive powers of the government in one and the same person; a result that is opposed to the sovereignty of the States, the independence of the people, the whole scheme of our government, and the principles on which it is founded.

Resolved, Inasmuch as undue influences were brought to bear upon the late caucus in Harrisburg, in relation to the nomination of a candidate for U. S. Senator, we are convinced that the eight Democratic members who declined to participate in its proceedings, were actuated by the sincerest devotion to principle, and by their action they sustained the right of the people to choose their own representatives.

Resolved, That the course of our Senator, Hon. John Cresswell, and our Representative George N. Smith, in abstaining from the caucus, and in voting for Henry D. Foster, merits our entire, absolute and hearty approbation.

Resolved, That we had back to the Keystone Club, and the Bedford Gazette, the unjust and disgraceful slanders which they have heaped upon our Representatives. Vindication from such sources, only goes to convince us still further of the integrity of our Representatives.

Resolved, That we regret the election of Simon Cameron as a misfortune to our State, and that those three friends of Mr. Forney's, who deserted him and elected Cameron ought to be held infamous, and unworthy the confidence of American citizens.

Resolved, That the delegation from Washington Township to the Mass Convention to be held in Ebensburg on to-morrow, January 31st, be instructed to vote in convention to sustain Henry D. Foster, John Cresswell, Jr., and George N. Smith, and to denounce the Keystone Club and George W. Bowman.

Resolved, Inasmuch as George W. Bowman has announced that "the country is looking to the Democracy of Cambria," and has invited them "to come out in township meetings and show what kind of stuff they are made of, what manner of men they are?" We think, seeing that his request has been complied with, that one good turn deserves another, and in order to gratify the laudable curiosity of him, the said George W. Bowman, we do affectionately invite him to publish the proceedings of this Township meeting in his Bedford Gazette.

After the unanimous adoption of these resolutions, the Club was addressed in an interesting manner by several gentlemen, and then adjourned to meet at the call of the President JACOB BURGOON, Pres. PETER M'GOUGH, Sec.

From the Greensburg Democrat.

George N. Smith and George W. Bowman. FROM the Bedford Gazette, we copy the following extracts from articles on the Senatorial election. It says in one article:

"G. Nelson Smith, one of the representatives from our own district, is among the traitors, and will, whilst he lives, carry a mark which will cause him to be despised and shunned by every honest democrat in the district, whose dearest interests he has trampled beneath his polluted feet."

In another article it adds:

"The traitors are Lebo, Wagoner, McNear, Cresswell, Calhoun, Foster, Fausold, Hill, G. N. SMITH, Nicholson, and Johns. The three first voted for Cameron direct; the others refused to go into caucus, and thus aided indirectly to do what they had 'not moral courage to do DIRECTLY.'"

"The three who voted for 'Cameron are more honorable men than the 'cowardly ingrates who courted issue, but had not the moral courage to do the deed.'"

We shall not attempt a reply to the insane ravings of General GEORGE WASHINGTON BOWMAN, but shall content ourselves with instituting a comparison between him and the man he so glibly pronounces "traitor" and "cowardly ingrate." Comparisons are odious, however, and nothing but the necessity of the case could justify us in drawing lines of comparison between Mr. SMITH and one so far below him in all the essentials of manhood.

Following the precedent set by the Gazette in publishing the names of LEMO and his accomplices before that of Gen. FOSTER and his friends, we shall speak first of the fit brother of the three traitors—BOWMAN—ere we come to him—who has so manfully and nobly stood up to rebuke tyranny and dictation.

Both these men have seen somewhat of military life, and we shall first make the comparison in that. The one is a broomstick soldier—a man of war in time of peace, and a man of peace in time of war. Mounted upon his prancing steed, amid the roar of blank cartridges, and the sharp, quick rattling of the drum, far away from "war's dark cloud" he has felt himself a hero, and wished for a chance to distinguish the name of Gen. GEORGE WASHINGTON BOWMAN. At last war does come, and Pennsylvania calls for troops, and General BOWMAN responds with alacrity to the call, (in a horn.) The life of a soldier no longer possesses charms for him, and he returns to private life. At last the war is over, and with the return of peace, there also returns to his heart a corresponding degree of courage. His heart warms with the recital of heroic deeds, and he pants again for the wild excitement of sham battle. His panting is not in vain, and we again behold him, decked in all the glittering paraphernalia of a commander of the Pennsylvania militia. This of Gen. BOWMAN. Now what of GEORGE N. SMITH?

Come with us to the State of Texas, at the time of the struggle with Mexico for her independence. Perhaps Gen. BOWMAN has heard of that struggle; perhaps he has heard of the massacre of Texan at Alamo, by the troops of Santa Anna—and also how that massacre was avenged at San Jacinto. If he has not, we shall endeavor to enlighten him. The forces of Gen. SANTA ANNA numbered 1800 men, while the TEXANS numbered only 700. Early in the morning, the contending armies drew near to give each other battle.—With the Texans, all their hopes lay in the result of that day. If they failed then, they were conquered beyond redemption. At length the enemy opened fire. The hail of Mexican bullets fell thick and fast, and the roar of Mexican cannon succeeded by the groans of the wounded and dying Texan.—Silently and slowly, but steadily and surely, that little band of brave men are creeping up to the broad columns of the flower of the Mexican army. Scarcely a word is spoken, and not a gun has yet been fired by the Texans. Reserving their fire until within a few yards of the enemy, they pour in a withering volley. With wild shouts of "Remember the Alamo," they rush upon them. They have no bayonets, and their guns are useless.—They are thrown away, and pistols take their place—are fired, and they too are useless.—Then they draw their bow-knives. They flash, and Mexicans fall before them. It is no child's play that. There are no blank cartridges to frighten old women and horses, but there are leaden messengers of death and long sharp lances on the one side, and flashing bow-knives against them on the other. It was a literal carving of their way through the dense masses of the enemy. The Mexicans fought bravely. Hundreds of them fell where first they stood, but the wild heroism of that little band could not be withstood.—With the victory of San Jacinto, the Alamo was avenged and Texas was made free.

One of these men was there in the thickest of that fight, but it was not Gen. BOWMAN.

In the war between Mexico and the United States, Texas sent her "Rangers," and the man who fought the Mexicans at San Jacinto with his bowie knife, fought them again on their own soil.

This is a short sketch of their respective military operations. We have not the space to pursue the comparison much further.

Both are editors of papers—both are democrats—the one years ago denounced a movement to nominate JAMES BUCHANAN for the Presidency, and side by side with SIMON CAMERON, did all in his power to sell out the western democracy, and sacrifice that good old mrd, FRANCIS R. SHERK to build up HENRY A. MCHLESBERG—the other voted for ANDREW JACKSON, and for twenty-eight years has stood by the democratic party.

The one is a man every inch of him, the other hasn't an inch of man about him; the one is in no wise proud or haughty, the other is arrogant and dictatorial; the one says "I would rather represent Cambria fairly and honorably in the Legislature than by any equivocation fill the most honorable position in the Federal Government;" the other, in anything but that spirit of christian charity which should animate the soul certainly of him who twice a year makes new professions of religion, calls him "traitor and cowardly ingrate." That "coward" is a hard word from Gen. BOWMAN to him who fought at San Jacinto.

Conferees Meeting.

The Representative conferees from Bedford, Cambria and Fulton, will meet in Bedford borough, on next Tuesday, Feb. 10th, for the purpose of selecting Representative Delegates from this district to the next Democratic State Convention. The conferees from this county P. BRACKIN, P. F. GIBBONS and J. C. NOON, are instructed to vote for Henry A. BOGGS as the Delegate from this county.

There is a vague rumor, that an effort will be made to deprive Cambria county of her right to a Delegate this year. We have only to say, that should the rumor prove to be true, there will be a good time generally, and Cambria may be put down as good for several chances.

Our readers we trust will pardon us for not furnishing them with our usual variety last week and this week. It was necessary for us to let the world see our position on the question, that more than all others interests our people just now. We never have known our people to be so thoroughly aroused as at this time, in relation to the unjust slanders which have been issued against our high minded Representatives; and our first duty was to vindicate them.
