Choice Poctry. CLOE TO CLARA.

A Saratoga Letter.

BY JOHN G. SAXE. DEAR CLARA: I wish you were here; With everything charming, my dear-Beaux, badinage, music and mirth! Such rows of magnificent trees Overhanging such beautiful walks, Where lovers may stroll, if they please,

And indulge in the sweetest of talks.

We go every morning, like geese, To drink at the favorite spring : Six tumblers of water apiece Is simply the regular thing; For such ts its wonderful virtue, Though rather unpleasant at first, No quantity ever can hurt you.

Unless you should happen to burst! And then what a gossiping sight! What talk about William and Harry; How Julia was spending the night, And why Miss Morton should marry! Dear Clara, I've happened to see Full many a tea-table slaughter, But, really, scandal with tea.

Is nothing to scandal with water ! Apropos of the spring-have you heard The quiz of a gentleman here On a pompous M. C., who averred That the name was remarkably queer! The Spring-to keep from failing-With wood is encompassed about, And derives from its permanent railing

The title of "Congress," no doubt ! 'Tis pleasant to guess at the reason-The genuine motive which brings Such all sorts of folks in the season, To stop a few days at the springs. Some come to dispose of the waters, (The sensible eld-fashioned elves.) Some come to dispose of their daughters,

And some to dispose of-themselves! Some come to exhibit their faces To new and admiring beholders; Some come to exhibit their graces, And some to exhibit their shoulders: Some come to make people stare

At the elegant dresses they've got ; Some to show what a lady may wear, -And, perhaps, what a lady should not! Some come to squander their treasure, And some their funds to improve,

And some for mere love of pleasure; And some for the pleasure of love ; And some to escape from the old, And some to see what is new; But most-it is plain to be told-Come here-because other folks do!

And that, I suppose, is the reason, Why I am enjoying, to-day, What's called "the height of the season," In rather the loftiest way. God-bye-for now I must stop-To Charley's command I resign-I'm his for the regular "hop," But ever most tenderly thine.

Ninety-nine extra sized angle worms locomoting at high pressure speed about a garden walk of a showery afternoon, and being perpetually turned back when they get to the edge, and compelled to cross each other's trail in innumerable directions, would, if the ground were soft and their every footstep plainly visible, draw on the garden walk afore said, a tolerally accurate map of the city of Boston. HAWKESVILLE, KY., Sept 2, 1857 MESSRS EDITORS:-The following amusing incident occurred in this town a few weeks since. It will apply to other localities as well as this: at visuant aidmost undient A short time since it became necessary to adopt measures to procure the services of minister for the African church in this place. Accrdingly a committee was appointed to wait upon 'Brudder Pearce' who was generally acknowledged to be the most suitable personage to fill that high and honorab le station, and solicit him to accept the pastership of their church. They were informed that he would undertake the laborious task for the very moderate sum of forty-five dollars per annum; but insignificant as the price may seem, his fock thought it exhorbitant, and peremptorily refused to give it. Two or three weeks passed, and being unable to get another preacher, it was finally agreed to pay the stipend, and on the ensuing Sabbath the following took place:

Brudder Pearce, we's 'cluded to gin you forty-five dollars to preach to us,' said a benevolent colored individual; whereupon our clerical friend arose and responded:

'Breddern I can't preach for that price.' 'Why you only axed forty-five,' cried half

A HIT AT THE TIMES. -The Boston Herald has the following:

. Mr. Grabkins was a miserly hunk who had accumulated much wealth by shaving notes, and last week Mr. Grabkins was called on to pay the debt of nature, principal and interest. He was holding an interview with a Lawrenceburg Bank, Lawrenceburg Tenu. neighbor, while on his death-bed, and that Bank of Trenton, Trenton, Tenn. neighbor pretended to sympathize with Grab-

"Very hard to be obleeged to die, Mr. Grabkins," said he.

"Yes," replied Grabkins, "hard! I should Bank of Nebraska, Omaha City, N. T. think it was hard-to be obliged-to diewhen money-money-brings three or four per cent. a month on State Street!" And Grabkin's countenance were anything but a look of pious resignation as he marked a few figures with his emaciated fingers on the threadbare coverlet of his bed, and then kicked the bucket.

Nor so BAD OFF AS WE SEEM .- In the inflation of prices produced by the abuse of pletely had industry been diverted from labor to speculation, that we were actually obliged Jones, who was pretty successful in bantering an Irishman, when the latter asked him 'how the devil he came to lose his leg."

to import grain from Europe, a fact unexampled in our history before or since. Now, however, the case is different. Bountiful crops have everywhere blessed labor with a grain, we have plenty of it to export to Europe, and would do so more largely if the inflated prices did not prevent it.
