We have your arms like a ripe apple. Oh! I do so love to run away !- Won't it be delightful?' The speakers were Joe Clavers and Mary Miller. I need not mention that they were lovers. Mary's father was a presperous farmer of Connecticut, and Mary herself was made after the 'almost divine' model of mother Eve. Joe was a generous, impulsive youth, whose parents had once seen flattering days, but had of late been unfortunate.

Farmer Milter, as he grew rich, grew ambitious. Mary wes his only child. He looked selected in his mind's eye a suitable match for her. Of course, Joe's attention, therefore, did not meet with his approval; and We ask nobody to send their money till they while he was unwilling to be thought sordid enought to reject Jee openly for his lack of
