LO RAPIDLITY OF THOUGHT IN DREAMING .treme rapidity with which the mental operaions are formed, or rather with which the material changes on which the ideas depend re excited in hemispherical ganglia. It sould appear as if a whole series of acts, that would really occupy a long lapse of time, pass predily through the mind in one instant .-We have in dreams no true perception of the apse of time-a strange property when; entered into the eternal disembodied state, time so that almost while an eternity is compressed into a moment, infinite space is traversed more swiftly than by real thought. There are numerous illustrations of this on record. A gentleman dreamed that he had collisted as a soldier, joined his regiment, deserted, was apprehended, carried back, tried, condemned to be shot, and at last led out for execution. After the usual preparations, a gun was fired. he awoke with the report, and found that a noise in the adjoining room had, at the same moment, produced the dream and awakened A friend of Dr. Abercombie dreamt that he crossed the Atlantic, and spent a fortnight in America. The Passage.

MANY a year is in its grave, Since I crossed this restless wave; And the evening, fair as ever, Shines on ruin, rock, and river.

Then, in this same boat, beside, Sat two comrades, old and tried, -One with all a father's truth,

One with all the fire of youth. One on earth in silence wrought, And his grave in silence sought ; But the younger, brighter form

Passed in battle and in storm.

So whene'er I turn my eye Back upon the days gone by, Saddening thoughts of friends com o'er me, Friends that closed their course before me.

But what binds us friend to friend, But that soul with soul can blend? Soul-like were those hours of yore Let us walk in soul once more.

Take, O boatman, thrice thy fee, -Take; I give it willingly; For, invisible to thee, Spirits twain have crossed with me.
