Wox'r Rus .- There is, not a thousand miles from Indianapolis, a very consequential lawyer by the name of Smith, and whatever may be the value of his opinions in law, his opinion of himself is certainly a very en-larged and comprehensive one. His exceeding good nature makes amends, in a great measure, for this foible of his, and he is a preat favorite among the members of the bar. Smith visited Washington, just as other great men have done, and Smith was introeditor. duced to Mr. Buchauan. On his-return his friends gathered about him, and he related to them the following incident. Said he :

· 1 received an earnest invitation from the President to call upon him as soon as he learned I was in the city. I did so, of course. When I arrived at the White House the President was in consultation with the Cabinet; but the moment he received my name he dismissed the Cabinet, and invited me in. We had a long and confidential conversation in reference to public affairs; and I gave him my advise in relation to the Kansas difficulty. He was very much affected as he spoke of the trials and responsibilities of a man m his position; and when I had bid him farewell, he held my hand for some time affectionately in his, and said, 'Friend Smith, as you value your personal happiness and peace never do you accept the nomination for the presidency.' And on the impulse of the moment I told him I would not?

It is said that, on sober second thought, he regretted his impulsive promise. But he is a man of word, and future conventions will only waste time in nominating him. He won't accept.

------ADVICE .- Young man! keep your eyes open when you are after a woman. If you bite at the naked hook you are green. Is a pretty dress or form so attractive, or even a pretty face? Flounces, boy, are no sort of consevuence. A pretty face will grow old. Paint will wash off. The sweet smile of the firt will give way to the scowl of the termagant. The coquette will shine in the kitchen corner. and with the once sparkling eyes will look daggers at you. Beware ! If the dear is cross, and scolds at her mother in the back room, you may be sure you'll get particular fits all over the house. If she blushes when found at the wa-h-tab, with her sleeves rolled up, be sure she is of the dishrag aristocracy -little knowledge and a good deal less sense. If you marry a girl who knows acting but | to commit woman slaughter on the piano, you have got the poorest piece of music ever got some of the articles comprised in the assortmentup. Find one whose mind is right, then is annexed. Prices may be ascertained, and pitch in.

A HAY FIELD ANECDOTE, -There is a good story which may have been heard in more than one Yankee hay-field this summer. We heard it one day while on a visit in the country, we went out to show some men how to 'pitch.' We had failed, and wilted down under a hay-cock, and lay flushed and fanning the glow and sweat from our features in a comfortable position, when one of the hay-makers related the anecdote of the old man who was always bragging how folks worked in his young days, and challenged his two sons together to pitch on a load of hay as fast as he could load it.

The challenge was accepted, and the hay wagon driven round, and the trial commenced. For some time the old man held his own very creditably calling out tauntingly, " More hay !"

Thicker and faster it came, whole cock at a time, cloud after cloud overwhelmed him,

The old man, nearly covered, still kept crying, "More hay! more hay!" until struggling to keep on the top of the disordered and ill-arranged heap, it began first to roll, then slide, and at last off it went from the wagon, and the old man with it.

"What are you down here for?" cried the boys.

"I came down after hay," answered the old man stoutly.

after the wagon load, which had to be pitch- all kinds and quality for men and boys. Alsoed on again rather more deliberately.
