

AGRICULTURE.

To find the Weight of Live Cattle.

Experienced drovers and butchers are in the habit of weighing cattle and estimating their weight on foot. From long observation and practice they are enabled to come very near the actual weight of the animal, but many of them would be most apt to err, if at all, on the right side; while the less experienced farmer always stands the greatest chance to go wrong. The following rule to ascertain the weight of cattle, which is said to approach very near the truth, is most of the animal fairs, where scales are erected, and at numerous other points in the country.

RULE.—Take a string, put it around the beast, stand square just behind the shoulder blade, measure on a rule the feet and inches the animal is in circumference; this is called the girth, then with a string, measure from the bone of the tail, which plunges the line with the hinder part of the buttock; direct the line along the back to the fore part of shoulder blade, take dimensions on the foot rule as before; which is the length, and work the figures in the following manner: Girth of animal, say six feet four inches; length five feet three inches, which multiplied together, makes thirty one square feet, and that multiplied by twenty-three the number of pounds allowed to each superficial foot of estate that measures less than seven or more than five feet in girth—makes seven hundred and thirteen pounds. When the animal less than nine and more than seven feet in girth, thirty one is the number of pounds to each superficial foot. Again, suppose a pig, or any other small animal should measure two feet in girth, and two along the back multiplied together make four square feet, that multiplied by eleven—the number of pounds allowed to each square foot of cattle measuring less than three feet in girth—makes forty four pounds. Again, suppose a calf, a sheep, &c., should measure four feet six inches in girth and three nine inches in length, which multiplied by fifteen—the number of pounds allowed to cattle measuring less than five feet and more than three in girth—makes two hundred and sixty five pounds. The dimensions of girth and length of the horned cattle, sheep, hogs, and calves may be exactly taken in this way, as it is all that is necessary for any computation, or any valuation of stock, and will answer exactly to the four quarters, striking off. The rule is so simple that any man with a bit of chalk can work it out. Much is lost to the farmers by mere guess work in the weight of their stock and this plain rule is well worth their attention.—Ed.

Charcoal for Hogs and Other Animals.

One of the most excellent and simple medicines for any derangement of the stomach of human beings, is finely pulverized, fresh-burned charcoal. For the purpose it should be close corked up in a bottle as soon as it has been burnt and ground; a teaspoonful taken in a wine glass of water once a day will frequently be found beneficial, and worth more than all the crutch nostrums with which the country is flooded.

But our object was to speak of the value of charcoal to domestic animals, particularly to fattening hogs. A half-pint of it finely pulverized and mixed with corn meal and water to each animal once or twice a week, will be found extremely beneficial in aiding digestion and preventing any derangement from the stomach, arising from overfeeding, as it is liable to be the case with that hoggy animal. Besides serving as a medicine it is also extremely fattening, either in itself or rendered the food eaten more available by roasting and stimulating the digestive powers.

Charcoal has also been known to work wonders in fattening poultry, geese, ducks, &c., it may be given in the same way as recommended for swine. Fowls that have accidentally been confined for a long time where they had access to no food but charcoal, when discovered were found not to have injured themselves but to have actually fattened.—Valley Farmer.

How to Grow Radishes.

Thomas Jones, of Centre county, Michigan wants to tell others how to raise radishes without their being troubled with weeds or worms. It is simply trenching the earth two feet deep and reversing the soil—that from that depth below the surface being free from weeds and worms. If necessary enrich the ground with liquid manure. He says the idea occurred to him from seeing how well these plants grown upon dirt thrown out of a well.

What Evergreens shall I select?—We answer, the Norway Fir, generally. Take them together, they are the hardest and prettiest of all the evergreens. No change of temperature seems to affect them in the least. The colder the weather, indeed, the greener and handsomer they look. Our own native Hemlock Spruce is a beautiful tree, but it is not quite hardy out of its own native hills and forests. The winters of 1855-6 and 1856-7 destroyed the tops of many. Still they should be liberally grown; the winter in question being unusually severe. The American Arbor Vitae is by far the best of this family. It is entirely hardy, and makes a handsome tree than the Siberian. The Chinese is of late repudiated.

How thick shall we Sow Oats?

An experiment made on the State Farm at West-borough Mass., to determine the best quantity of oats to sow per acre, resulted as follows: Two bushels of seed per acre gave 25 1/2 bushels; three bushels 40 bushels per acre. Before the general introduction of un-derdrainage, and other improved methods of cultivation, five bushels of oats per acre was the usual quantity sown in England. Now, three to four bushels are sown. In this section, two bushels are considered sufficient; and in the Western States, one and a half bushels. Probably we sow too little.

To keep Hens Nice for Summer Use.

Tie them securely in a paper, cover close with ashes. This keeps them sweet, and protects from all insects.—Genesee Farmer

To Preserve Eggs.

Set them away in a dry cellar, standing on their ends, and turn the other end up, once a week. They will keep a year fresh.—Gen. Farmer.

LOGAN HOUSE.

CORPORAL JOHN KIEFFER, PROPRIETOR.

WOULD respectfully inform his old friends and the travelling public that he has leased the Logan House, Hollidaysburg, and is prepared to entertain all who may favor him with their patronage in unobjectionable style.

THE HOUSE has been newly furnished throughout in a style not surpassed by any establishment in the interior of the State. His TABLE will always be supplied with all the substantial and delicacies of the season, and attended by attentive servants. In a word, no pains will be spared to make the Logan a first class house, and nothing will be left undone to render its guests comfortable and happy.

THE STABLES, which are extensive, will be attended by honest and faithful hostlers.

RESTAURANT.—The basement is occupied as a restaurant, where meals will be served up all hours of the day, together with oysters, wild game, fish and all the delicacies and refreshments of the season. JOHN KIEFFER.

WALTON HOUSE.

THE UNDESIGNED RESPECTFULLY informs the public that he has leased for a term of years, the "WALTON HOUSE," situated on the Plank road, half way between Ebensburg and Jefferson. This is one of the most desirable places for a summer resort in the State. The forests adjoining are swarming with game, and the "fisherman" will find ample opportunity for gratifying his taste in the streams of the neighborhood. No pains will be spared to make my guests feel at home.
