They will throw out lateral shoots and bear more abundantly.

Strawberry Beds-may be planted out .-Old ones may be manured, the grass cleaned out of them and coarse litter or straw put over thom to keep grass down, and preserve moisture.

Sweet Potatoes .- By all means have a crop of these in the garden.

Melons .- Early in this month lay off the ground for your crops. Haul out well prepared composts, and place sufficient quantity (and it must be large) on the spot where the hill is to be made, and draw the earth over it. Let it lie until it is nearly time to plant, when the earth and compost should be thoroughly chopped and intermingled. About the first of May is the time to plant, but the sooner the manure is placed on the ground the better.

To Prevent the Worm in Peach Trees .-Clear away the dirt in April, from about the roots of the tree then take a small sheaf of straw-the size of the tree-wheat straw will answer, but rye is better-place it neatly around the body of the tree, with a small cord-adjust the straw then evenly around the base of the trunk, and throw the dirt back upon the lower ends of the sheaf. This prevents the earth from coming in contact with the bark of the trees when the moth deposits egg, and will always effectually prevent the depredations of the peach tree worm The straw leaves the bark of the tree in a very clean and swathy condition, while the
