Bedding for Cattle.

The importance of this is conceded for the horse, and most humane owners provide straw or refuse hay to put the nag at ease, when he lies down in his stable. It is quite as important for all the ruminant animals that we have domesticated. Instinct prompts them to seek the driest, warmest spot in the pasture for their repose, and Nature spreads for them the soft green turf, quite as much for their rest, as for their sustenance. The wise farmer will profit by Nature's hint, and when he stables his cattle for the winter, will provide dry warm beds.

Bedding favors the accumulation of fat and muscle, by helping to retain the animal heat and promoting quiet and comfort. It also promotes the secretion of milk in cows, for the same reasons. Any one can satisfy himself on this point, by experimenting with a cow a week in a well bedded stable, and a second upon the bare ground in the barn yard.—Cows in milk are kept much cleaner with a good bed, and this is an item of prime importance, with all who love clean milk. Quite a variety of substances are used for bedding. Straw and hay are the most convenient, especially to farmers who raise grain largely, or who have a good deal of swamp land, yielding poor hay.

In cities and villages, they are often too costly, and this has led to various substitutes, some of them quite as good as straw, and having this advantage, that they add very much to the manure heap. Dry saw-dust, from saw and shingle mills, and the fine chips and shavings from planing-mills, all make good bedding. Spent tan bark; when dried in the sun, also serves the same purpose, and makes a much more valuable manure. Eel-grass is also much used for this purpose, by the sea shore farmers, and answers well.—Leaves from the forest, especially those of hard wood trees, make a still better bed, and from one of the best composts for the garden or field.

Dried turf from a salt marsh is, on the whole the best bedding we have ever used in our stable. It is cut in summer, in blocks of about a cubic foot each dried in the sun a few weeks, and then stored under cover for use. It is very light, spongy, and absorbs urine better than anything we have ever tried. A layer of it under a horse will last about two weeks before it is saturated. It is then thrown into the barn cellar, to undergo fermentation.

One great advantage of this, and of the eel-grass and tan-bark is, that they put the animal heat of the stock to an economic use. It promotes the decomposition of the vegetable matter, and swells the manure heap very rapidly.

Any one, or all of these materials are exceedingly valuable in the stable, and the stock owner should use them as largely as possible, for the purpose of increasing his stock of fertilizers.—Am, Agr.

Recipe for Curing Hams.

To one gallon of water, add one and a half pounds of good salt, one half pound of sugar, and half an ounce saltpetre—to be increased in this ratio to any quantity required to cover the hams. As soon as your pork is cold, cut out the hams and pack them closely in your cask. Sprinkle each layer lightly with fine salt—put on a weight, and pour on the brine immediately, and before the juice of the ham has escaped. It requires from four to six weeks for the salt to strike through, according to the size of the hams. It will be necessary, perhaps, to add a little salt on top of the hams sometimes, if they are very large, they absorb so much of the salt as to leave the brine so weak it may sour. It would be well to take them up after they have been in a week or two, and examine them, and, if necessary, add a little more salt. Great care should be taken not to salt too much, as, by so doing, you lose the flavor of the ham; and add just enough to keep them. As the hams absorb the salt from the brine it should be fed by adding a little salt on the top, and the hams should be well struck through. When the hams are large, I take out the flat bone and cut off the round socket bone with a chisel, always leaving the large bone. With care, I have never failed to keep hams sweet for a long time.

Planting Potatoes in the Fall.

Mr. E. O. Bundy, of Oxford, Chenango county, N. Y., writes us that he plants his potatoes in the fall, and obtains larger crops, and larger, earlier, and better flavored potatoes than when planted in the spring. His method of planting is as follows:—Select a piece of dry ground, prepare it as for spring planting, any time in the fall when the ground is in good order, taking care to plant the potatoes a little deeper than in spring planting. Throw a shovelful of coarse manure upon, or still better into each hill; or better still, cover the surface of the ground with a coat of straw where mice were not too plenty. The straw helps to protect the potatoes during winter, and forms a mulch in summer, and checks the growth of weeds so much, that the potatoes scarcely need hoeing or plowing. Mr. B. says:—“I have raised my potatoes in this way for several years past, and they are invariably free from ‘the rot’ and at least two weeks earlier, and two or three sizes larger than in spring planting. The ground is frozen this winter unusually hard, and mice are unusually plentiful; and should I fail for once it will be owing to one or other of these causes. If I do not fail this year, there can be no doubt this way of raising potatoes is the best. I will write again and inform you whether the potatoes were frozen or eaten with mice during the cold winter of 1859.” We hope Mr. B. will do so; and we shall be glad to hear from others who have had the same experience in this matter.—Genesee Farmer.

The Steam Plow.

The great scientific achievement of the age is likely to be the steam-plow. That of Mr. Joseph W. Fawkes, of Lancaster county, Pa. which took the gold medal of honor, and other awards, at the late National Fair at Chicago, plows but little short of four acres in an hour. That of John W. Fowler, Jr., of London, which took the Royal Society's grand prize in England, plows less than one acre an hour. Mr. Fawkes' machine is moved by a driving roller of wood, instead of wheels the boiler is composed of two hundred and twenty-one and-a-half inch tubes; and the plows, which are attached at the rear, and are governed by the fireman in front, are eight in number. The engine is of thirty horse power, and the entire length of the apparatus about eighteen feet. It is as manageable as a common wagon.

DR. MORSE'S INDIAN ROOT PILLS.

Above we present you with a likeness of DR. MORSE—the inventor of MORSE'S INDIAN ROOT PILLS. This philanthropist has spent the greater part of his life in traveling, having visited Europe, Asia, and Africa, as well as North America—has spent three years among the Indians of our Western country—it was in this way that the Indian Root Pills were first discovered. Dr. Morse was the first man to establish the fact that all diseases arise from IMPURITY OF THE BLOOD—that impurity, which health and life depended upon this vital fluid.

When the various passages become clogged, and do not act in perfect harmony with the different functions of the body, the blood loses its action, becomes thick, corrupted, and diseased; thus causing all pains, sickness and distress of every part of the skin; thus, encumbered, and health we are deprived of, and if nature is not assisted in throwing off the stagnant humors, the blood will become choked and cease to act, and thus our light of life will forever be blown out. How important then that we should keep the various passages of the body free and open. And how essential we have it in our power to put medicine in the blood, through the medium of the Indian Root Pills, manufactured from plants and roots which grow around the mountainous cliffs in Nature's Garden, for the health and recovery of diseased man. One of the roots from which these Pills are made is a Sauricite, which opens the pores of the skin, and assists Nature in throwing out the finer parts of the corruption within. The second is a plant which is an expectorant, that opens and unclogs the passage to the lungs, and thus, in a soothing manner, performs its duty in throwing off phlegm, and other humors from the lungs by copious spitting. The third is a Diuretic, which gives double ease and strength to the kidneys; thus, encouraged, they draw large amounts of impurity from the blood, which is then thrown out abundantly by the urinary or water passage, and which could not have been discharged in any other way. The fourth is a Cathartic, and accompanies the other properties of the Pills while engaged in purifying the blood; the coarser particles of impurity, which cannot pass by the other outlets, are thus taken up and conveyed off in great quantities by the bowels.

From the above, it is shown that Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills not only enter the stomach, but become mixed with the blood, and they find way to every part, and completely put out and cleanse the system from all impurity, and the life of the body, which is the blood, becomes perfectly healthy; consequently all sickness and pain is driven from the system, for they cannot remain when the body becomes so pure and clear.

The reason why people are so distressed when sick, and why so many die, is because they do not get a medicine which will pass to the afflicted parts, and which will open the natural passage for the disease to be cast out; hence, a large quantity of food and other matter is lodged in, and the stomach and intestines are literally overflowing with the corrupted mass; thus undergoing a disagreeable fermentation, constantly mixing with the blood, which throws the corrupted matter through every vein and artery, until life is taken from the body by disease. Dr. Morse's PILLS, when administered, immediately act upon victory, by restoring vitality, and inducing health and happiness. Yes, thousands who have been racked or tormented with sickness, pain and anguish, and whose feeble frames have been scorched by the burning elements of raging fever, and who have been brought, as it were, with a step of the silent grave, are now ready to testify that they would have been numbered with the dead, had it not been for this great and wonderful medicine, Morse's Indian Root Pills. After one or two doses had been taken, they were astonished, and absolutely surprised, in witnessing their charming effects. Not only do they give immediate ease and strength, and take away all sickness, pain and anguish, but they at once go to work at the foundation of the disease, which is the blood.—Therefore, it will be shown, especially by those who use these Pills, that they will cleanse and purify, in a measure, that medicine cannot take its flight, and the flush of youth and beauty will again return, and the prospect of a long and happy life will cherish and brighten your days.

Sold by Thomas Devine, Ebensburg, and by Medicine Dealers generally throughout the County. L. S. Palmer, successor to A. J. White & Co., No. 50 Leonard, N. Y., Proprietors; William Magie & Co., (Proprietors of Dr. A. Traak's Magnetic Ointment.) Earlville, Madison county, N. Y., General Agents. August 8, 1859:ly.
