M. M. Mill

Bemocrat and Sentinel.

THE BLESSINGS OF GOVERNMENT, LIKE THE DEWS OF HEAVEN, SHOULD BE DISTRIBUTED ALIKE UPON THE HIGH AND THE LOW, THE BICH AND THE POOR

NEW SERIES

TERMS:

EMOCRAT & SENTINEL' IS PUBished every Wednesday Morning at DAS DOLLAR AND FIFTY CENTS per annum. vable in advance: ONE DOLLAR AND SEVENTY vs Caves if not paid within six months, and wo DOLGARS if not paid until the termination of the year.

No subscription will be taken for a shorter period than six months, and no subscriber will be at liberty to discontinue his paper until all arrearages are paid, except at the option of the editor.

Any person subscribing for six months will be charged ONE DOLLAR, unless the money is paid

dv	er	tisi	ing	Rates.
	100		10 Th 10 Th 10 Th	AND

	One is	isert'n	. Th	to de	). T	hree	do
1 square,	[12 lines]	$	50	$	75	$1	00
2 squares,	24 lines	. 1	00	1	.60	- 8	00
3 squares,	[36 lines]	1	50	2	00	$	06
	$ mon	6 do.		12 do
8 lines or la		$1	50	$3	00	$5	00
I square,	[12 lines]	2	50	.4	50	9	00
2 squares,		4	00	7	00	12	00
	36 lines	6	00	9	00	14	00
Half a colu	min.	10	00	12	00	20	00
One column		15	00	22	00	35	00
as-Alla	Isertiseme	ats mus	st be	m	urke	d w	ith he number	of insertion ntil forbid.	os desi	red,	or t	hey	will	be

HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS.

It is a fact that, at some period, every memor of the human family is subject to disease or disturbance of the bodily functions; but, with the aid of a good tonic and the exercise plain common sense, they may be able so to ulate the system as to secure permanent hth. In order to accomptish this desired ct, the true course to pursue is certainly which will produce a natural state of ags at the least hazard of vital strength and For this purpose, Dr Hostetter has inced to this country a preparation bearing me, which is not a new medicine, but one to all who have used it. The Bitters te powerfully upon the stomach, bowels, liver, restoring them to a healthy and rous action, and thus, by the simple proof strengthening nature, enable the sysen to triumph over disease. For the cure of Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Naua, Flatulency, Loss of Appetite, or any Bilious aplaints, arising from a morbid inaction the Stomach or Bowels, producing Cramps, ntery, Colic, Cholera Morbus, &c., these ers have no cousl. Diarrhosa, dysentery or flux, so generally conted by new settlers, and caused principally lange of water and diet, will be speedily lated by a brief use of this preparation. pepsia, a disease which is probably more ent, in all its various forms, than any er, and the cause of which may always itributed to derangements of the digestive ans, can be cured without fail by using STETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS, as per tions on the bottle. For this disease every sician will recommend Bitters of some kind; why not use an article known to be infal-All nations have their Bitters, as a prewe of disease and strengthener of the sysin general; and among them all there is be found a more healthy people than symans, from whom this preparation emabased upon scientific experiments which tended to prove the value of this great ration in the scale of medical science. VER AND AGUE .- This trying and provokease, which fixes its releatless grasp on dy of man, reducing him to a mere shaa short time, and rendering him phyand mentally useless, can be driven the body by the use of HOSTETTER'S WNED BITTERS. Further, none of the ated diseases can be contracted, even posed situations, if the Bitters are used directions. And as they neither create a nor offend the palate, and render unary any change of diet or interruption ary pursuits, but promote sound sleep lealthy digestion, the complaint is red as speedily as is consistent with the proon of a thorough and permanent cure. Persons in Advanced Years, who are g from an enfeebled constitution and ody, these Bitters are invaluable as a of strength and vigor, and need tried to be appreciated. And to a while nursing these Bitters are indise, especially where the mother's neurt is inadequate to the demands of the uently her strength must yield, it is where a good tonic, such as er's Stomach Bitters, is needed to impart ry strength and vigor to the system. hould by all means try this remedy cases of debility, and, before so doing, ask their physician, who, if he is ed with the virtue of the Bitters, will their use in all cases of wenkness. TION .- We caution the public against using in many imitations or counterfeits, but ask TER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS. hat each bottle has the words "Dr. J. Stomach Bitters" blown on the side ottle, and stamped on the metallic cap the cork, and observe that our autograph is on the label. pared and sold by HOSTETTER & Pittsburgh, Pa, and sold by all grocers, and dealers generally out the United States, Canada, South and Germany.

ch

60

00

ted lib-

sel-per-

120

and

UL

uth

the

New

iges,

hite

ases,

Ir-

niore

ray.

citin.

York

year

medi-

107 for a

G. In

tfuliy

CER-

Made

Glass',

d for

NN.

Pa.

11 50

14

Select Poetry. [From the Missouri Democrat.]

DVING IN THE DARK.

BY CORNIE WILLIAMS LAWS.

See, the lamplight on the window Flutters down in golden lines, Penciling up the rambling hedges, Pinning jewels on the pines, Painting now upon my pillow, Resting from its ribald route. Falling fainter, fainter, fainter, God! O! God! the light is out! Pulsing through the dreary darkness. Comes the wild and winging wind, And its restless, woird fingers, Quick the curtains white unbind, O! 'tis fearful to be lying With these eyes so glazed and stark, And to feel that I am dying, Dying, dying in the dark.

I can hear the rushing river, And I know that shadowed light, Weaveth golden gateway over, Each soft wavelet in its flight, Ah! could but one gleam now reach me But one little, tangled gleam, That has sifted through the lillies. And is wasting on the stream. O! in sound of humming voices, O! in sound of drumming feet. While each lamplit casement slanteth, Burnished bars across the street, To be drifting, to be drifting, In a shrinking, fragile bark.

Towards that gloomy "shoreless ocean," Drifting, drifting in the dark. There's a time-worn way-side cottage, Hark! ther's sobbing at the pane. Little Daughter! see I'm coming! Through these shifting sheets of rain, Weeping on thy little apron, Sending but thy shadow out, Over daisy beds to meet me. In my weary, homeward route. But my limbs grow numb and trembling And I hear a rushing stream, Is there none to bear me over? Pity me, O! God!-I dream-Ah! the tide is going, going, Ere the trilling of the lark. Will the silken moorings loosen, And a boat drift in the dark.

EBENSBURG, PA. WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 29, 1860.

Miscellancous.

BY JACK DOWNING.

Seth Woodsum's Wife.

As Mr. Seth Woodsum was mowing one morning in the lower baying field, and his eldest son, Obediah, a smart boy of thirteen opening the mown grass to the sun, Mr. Woodsum looked up towards the house, and beheld his little daughter Harriet, ten years of age, rushing towards him with the greatest speed. As she came up he perceived that she was greatly agitated; tears were running down her cheeks, and she had scarcely breath eilough to speak.

"Oh father, she faintly articulated, mother is dreadful sick; she's on the bed, and she shall die before you get there."

Mr. Woodsum was a man of sober, sound mind and calm nerves; but he had, what sometimes happens in this cold and loveless world of ours, a tender attachment for his wife, which made the message of the little girl fall on his heart like a dart. He dropped his scythe, and ran with great haste to the house. Obediah who was at the other end of the field, seeing, the unusual movement of his father dropped his fork, and ran with all his might, and the two entered the house almost the same time. Mr. Woodsum hastened to the bedside, and took wife's hand "My dear Sally said he what is the matter with you?"

"What is the matter?, echoed Mrs Woodsum, with a plaintive groan. "I shouldn't think you need to ask what is the matter, Mr Woodsum. Don't you see I'm dying.' "Why, no, Sally, you don't look as if you were dying. What is the matter? How do you feel? Woodsum, without waiting to make further inquiries, told Obediah to run and jump on

Mr. Woodsum was driving the team, and his neighbor holding the plow, and things went on to their mind, till about ten o'clock in the ferencon, when little Harriet came runmother was 'dreadful sick.' and wanted him his wife as he had so often found her before, only waited to exchange a few words with her beloved husband. Mr. Woodsum ap-proached her bedside and took her hand ten-bonds of conjugal love. derly as he had ever been wont to do, but he could not perceive any symptoms of approaching dissolution, different from what he had witnessed on a dozen former occasions.

"Now my dear," said Mrs. Woodsum, faintly, the time has come at last. I feel that I am on my death-bed, and have but a one of those old fashioned winters which were short time to stay with you. But I hope we so cold. The old lady put on an extra shall shall feel resigned to the will of heaven. I as she hugged her shivering frame, she said would go cheerfully, dear, if it was not for to her faithful negro servant: "It's terrible my anxiety about you and the children. Now cold to night, Seip. I am afraid my poor don't you thick my dear,' she continued with neighbor, widow Green, must be suffering.

Be Gentle at Home.

There are few families, we imagine, anywhere in which love is not abused for furnishing a license for impoliteness. A husband, ning to the field, and told her father that her father or brother, will speak harsh words to those whom he loves the best, and to those to come as quick as he could for she was cer- who love him the best, simply because the tainly dying now. Mr Woodsum without security of love and family pride keeps him saying a word, drove the team to the end of from getting his head broken. It is a shame the furrow; but he looked thoughtful and per- that a man will speak more impolitely, at plexed. Although he feit persuaded that the times, to his wife or sister, than he would danger was imaginary, as it had always proved dare to any other female. except a low and before, still the idea of the bare possibility that this sickness might be unto death, pres-sed upon him with such power, that he laid down big road stick, and telling his neighbor to let the cattle breache awhile, walked de-before still the idea of the bare possibility that this sickness might be unto death, pres-sed upon him with such power, that he laid down big road stick, and telling his neighbor to let the cattle breache awhile, walked deliberately towards the house. Before he had of life to those not belonging to their own accomplished the whole distance, however, household. Things out not to be so. his own imagination had added such wings man who, because it will not be resented, into his speed that he found himself moving at flicts his spleen and bad temper upon those very mean man. Kind words are the cirin her own estimation almost ready to breathe | culating medium between true gentlemen and her last. Her voice was faint and low, and true ladies at home, and no polish exhibited her pillow was wet with tears. She had al- in society can atone for the harsh language ready taken leave of her dear children, and and disrespectful treatment too often indulged

Human Nature .- An Eastern paper tells a good anecdote of an opulent widow lady, who once afforded a queer illustration of that cold compound of incompatibles called "hu-man nature." It was on a Christmas Eve of increasing tenderness, 'don'tyou think it would Take the wheelbarrow, fill it full of wood. The borrower remenstrated and at last asked be best for you to be married again to some pile on a good load, and tell the poor woman

Woman's Advantages. Some of the advantages of women over men are as follows: A woman can say what she chooses without being knecked down for it.

She can take a spooze after dinner while her husband goes to work.

She can go into the street without being asked to treat at every saloon.

She can paint her face if it is too pale, and powder it is too red.

She can stay at home in time of war, and can get married again if her husband is kil-

She can wear corsets if too thick-other fixins if teo thin.

She can eat, drink and be merry, without costing her a cent.

She can get divorced from her husband The whenever she sees one she likes better.

She can get her husband in debt all over a quick ran. He entered the house and found of his hearthstone, is a small coward, and a until he warns the public by advertising not to trust her on his account.

> The New York Journal of Commerce, in copying the address of the National Union party of New York, containing sentiments worthy of general approbation, says very admirably:

"We wish this new party entire success, as against the Republicans, or any other sectional party, but not against the Democrats, who are the only true National Union party of the country, and have earned their charac-ter by years of fidelity to the constitution and the Union under the most discouraging circumstances -often preferring defeat in a just cause, to victory at the expense of principle and patriolism.

Tom Hood mentions the case of an old Jew, who had let a large sum of money and charged interest upon it at nine per cent .-the usurer, if he did believe in a God; and where he expected to go to when he died? "Ab," said the old Hebrew with a pleased twinkle of the eye and a grin, "I have tho't of that too-but when God looks down upon it from above, the 9 will appear to him like a

S .- Davis & Jones. Ebensburg; J. A. ammitville; Wm. Litzinger, Loretto; ley, Munster. 1 81, 1859.-ly

GS DRUGS DRUGS! PENED AND FOR SALE BY R. S .-N. M. D., A general assortment of

RUGS. MEDICINES. pices, Oils, Paints, Dye-Stuffs.

-Miss Tucker says it is with old bachelors as with old wood; it is hard to get them started, but when they do flame, they burn prodigiously.

A Token of Good .- Those who ought to kn iw, says that there has been less finery and ornamental gew-gaws sold during the present seasen, that during the same period of any year since the great panie of 1836. We have been an over dressed and over decorated people, but we are from past reverses beginning now to cut our coat according to our no appearance of a dying person; but still cloth.

TTIt is the part of wisdom to do great through his veins, and a sinking to his heart things without a fuss. When Solomon, the that no language had power to describe. Mr. wisest of men, built his wondous temple, no Woodsum was as ignorant of medicine as a sound of saw or hammer was heard therein. child; he therefore did not attempt to do any -An Irishman being in church where the collection apparatus resembled ballot-boxes on its being handed to him, whispered in the carrier's ear, that he was not naturalized and could not vote.

-Mrs. Swisshelm, the strong minded editress of the St. Cloud (Min.) Democrat has received the legislative appointment of Surveyor of Logs and Lumber, which some persons are disposed to regard as a good joke. The lady says nobody can insult her by the offer of west that will bring honest wages

IT A poor fellow says .- "In an evil hour I became addicted to drink From that moment I have been going down, until I have become an outcast-a loafer-a thing of no account; fit for nothing else on earth but to be a member of Congress.

10 Toil and time are grim school-masters but a flash of hope can make them beautiful even as a sanbeam on the rude mountain hill side.

13" "Mr. Conductor. does the rail-road stop here?"

"No Marm, the cars stop here, but the railroad goes right on to Albany." The scene closes with a green parasol pat-ting a blue covered book on the back.

13 l'ashionable circles were never so numerous as now. Almost every lady that appears in the street, is the center of one.

159. The steamer from Europe brought the intelligence that crinoline is at an end. We would like to know where the end is the horse, and ride after Dr. Fairfield, and get him to come over as quick as he can come. Tell him I am afraid your mother is dying. If the doctors horse is away off in the pasture, ask him to take our horse and come right over, whilst you go and catch his." Obediah with tears in his eyes, and his heart in his mouth, flew as though he had wings added to his feet, and in three minutes time he mounted upon "Old Gray," and was galloping with full speed towards Dr. Fairfield's

10-1-2-5

"My dear," said Mr. Woodsum, leaning his head upon the pillow, how do you feel? what makes you think you are dying? And he tenderly kissed her forehead as he spoke; and pressed her hand to his bosom. "O Samuel," for she generally called his Christian name, when under the influence of tender emotions; "I have pains darting thro' my head, and most all over me; and I feel dizy, and can't hardly see; and my heart beats as though it would come through my side ----And besides, I felt as though I was dying, I'm sure I can't live till night; and what will become of my poor children? and she sobed heavily, and burst in a flood of tears. Mr. Woodsum was affected. He could not bring himself to believe that his wife was in such immediate danger of dissolution as she seemed to apprehend. He thought she had her earnest and positive declaration that she should not live through the day, sent a thrill thing to relieve his wife, except to try and soothe her feelings by kind and encouraging words, till the doctor arrived. The halfbour which elapsed, from the time Obediah left till the doctor came seemed to Mr. Woodsum almost an age. He repeatedly went from the bedside to the door, to look and see if the doctor was anywhere near, and as often returned to hear his wife groan, and say she was sinking fast, and could not stand it very many minutes longer.

At length Dr. Fairfield rode up to the door on Mr. Woodsums "Old Gray," and with saddle bags in hand, hastened into the house. A brief examination of the patient convinced.

that it was a decided case of hypocondria, and he soon spoke encouraging words to her; although she was considerably unwell, he did not doubt she would be better in a little while.

"Oh Doctor, how can you say so?" said Mrs Woodsum, "don't you see I'm dying? I can't possibly live till night; I'm sinking very fast, Doctor, and I shall never see the sun rise again My heart sometimes almost stops its beatingnow, and my feet and hands are growing cold. But I must see my dear children once more; do let them come in and bid me farewell." Here she was so overwhelmed with tears and sobs as to prevent her saying more The doctor having administered the drugs in such cases made and provided, is followed out by Mr. Woodsum, all anxiety to learn the real danger of the case. He is assured that it is only an attack of hypochondria; and the good lady herself ere long recovers.

Again and again, however, is our friend Seth summoned from the plow, and the doctor from pills, to administer consolation and kind, good woman, that would be a mother to to keep herself comfortable. But before you our dear little ones, and make your home go, Scip, put some more wood on the fire, and pleasant to all of you?'

4 .

She paused and looked earnestly in his face. orders were duly obeyed, and the old lady "Well, I've sometimes thought of late, it was thoroughly warmed both inside and out might be best," said Mr. Woodsnm, with a And now the trusty old Scip was about to very solemn air.

"Then you have been thinking about it?" said Mrs. Woodsum, with a slight contraction of the muscles of the face.

Why, yes, said Mr. Woodsum, "I have sometime thought about it since you have had spells of being very sick. It makes me fell dreadfully to think of it, I don't know but it might be my duty."

"Well, I do think it would," said Mrs. Woodsum, "if you can get the right sort of a person. Everything depends upon that my dear, and I hope you will be very particular about whom you get, very." "I certainly shall," said Mr. Woodsum; 'don't you give yourself any uneasiness about that, my dear, for I assure you I shall be very particular. The person I shall probably have is one of the kindest and best tempered women in the word."

"But have you been thinking of any one in particular, my dear?" said Mrs Woodsum, with a manifest look of uneasiness.

"Why, yes, said Mr Woodsum, "there is one I have thought for some time past I should probably, marry, if it should be the will of Heaven to take yon from us."

"And prey, Mr. Woodsum who can it be?" said the wife, with an expression more of earth than heaven, returning to her eyes. "Who is it, Mrs. Woodsum? You haven't

"Oh, no, by no means," said Mr. Woodsum; "but, my dear, we had better drop the subject; it agitates you too much."

"But, Mr. Woodsum, you must tell me who it is. I never could die in peace until you do."

"It is a subject too painful to think about, and it don't appear to me that it would be best to call names," said Mr. Woodsum. "But I insist upon it." said Mrs Woodsum, who had by this time raised herself up with great carnestness, and was leacing on her elbow, while her searching glauce was reading every muscle in her husban's face,

'Mr. Woodsum, I insist upon it." "Well," said Mr. Woodsum with a sigh 'if you insist upon it, my dear, I have thought that should it be the will of Providence to remove you from us, to be here no more, I have thought I would marry for my second wife, Hannah Lovejoy."

An early fire once more flashed from Mrs. Woodsum's eyes-she leaped from the bed like a cat, walked across the room and seated herself in a chair.

"What?" she exclaimed in a trembling voice, almost choked by agitation - "what! marry that idle, sleepy slut of a Hannah Lovejoy! Mr. Woodsum that is too much for flesh and blood to bear. I can't endure that, and I won't. Hanuah Lovejoy to be the mother of my children. No! that's what the never shall. So you may go to your plowing, Mr. Woodsum, and set your heart at rest. Susan," she continued, "make up more fire under that dinner pot."

Mr. Woodsum went to the field and pursued his work, and when he returned at noon. found dinner well prepared and his wife ready to do the honors of the table.

States.

. .

make me a nice mug of flip." These last depart on his errand of mercy, when his considerate mistress interposed again: "Stop, Scip. You need not go now. The weather has moderated!"

Gen. Washington and Washington Irving -Mr. Irving himself once saw Gen. Washington. He said there was some celebration coing on in new York, and the General was thera to participate in the coremony. "My" Scotchwoman, was very anxious for me to see him, and held me up in her arms as he to satisfy her; so the next day, when walking nal sin, when they were first planted." with me in Broadway, she espied him in a shop; she seized my hand, and darting in, exclaimed in her bland Scoth, "Please your Excellency, here's a bairn that's called after you!" General Washington then turned his me his blessing, which," added Mr. Irving "It is realy unaccountable, Miss S., how a carnestly, "I have reason to believe has attended me through life I was but five years old, yet I feel that hand even now."

How to Open Oysters.

"Talk of opening oysters," said old Hurricane, "why nothing's easier, if you only know how

"And how's how?" inquired Straight. "Scotch snuff," answered old Hurricane very sententionsly. "Stotch souff. Bring a little of it ever so near their noses, and they'll sneeze their lids off."

"I know a genius," observed another, who bas a better plan. He sprends the bivalves in a circle, seats himself in the centre, and gins spinning a yara. Sometimes it's en adventure in Mexico-sometimes a legend of love-sometimes a marvellous stock transaction. As he proceeds the 'natives' get interested-one by one they gape with astonishment at the tremendous and direfal whoppers which are poured forth, and as they gape, my friend whips 'em out, peppers 'em and swallows 'em. "That'll do," said Straight, with a long sigh-"I wish we had a bushel of the bival-

Miss Calling-Senox.

ves here now-they'd open easy."

Conductor, who is that imperious, disdain ful, and highly-ornamental young lady, who wears golden manaeles, and glories in a golden cross? The skirts of her charity covered several adjacent sinners, and, at her egress, she created a vacuus, if not a seusation, and was fallowed by a whirlwind. Con.-Miss D. Meanor, Sir.

SEN .- The other, who? The one that giggled, and with a sneer, nudged the first to look at the poor woman holding in her arms the sick baby.

Cox.-Her cousin, Sir, Miss B. Haviour. SEN .- But, that neat, comely, tasteful girl who imitiated the movement to make room for the poor woman; and then looked so kindly at the mother that both she and her babe smiled-who is she?

Cos .- That, Sir, is Ann D. Corum. SEX .- Truly she is not mire passed. But hold up, Conductor; I'll step off here.

It is better to love a person you cannot marry, than to marry a person you cannot love. This is a short text to a long sermon, which human experience will continue to preach "until the last sylable of recorded time."

05 "Tough, maiam; tough, did you say?" said an irascible boarder, to the landlady, as nurse," continued Mr Irving, "a good old he was trying to carve what was ostensibly chicken. "Yes'm; and were I to give my opinion on the fowl, I should say it was old rode past. This, however, did not appear enough to have scrathed up the seads of origi-

A Bangor paper relates that a violent party politician was, the other evening in the company of ladies and gentlemen, banter ing an old maid on her state of single blessbenevolent face upon me, smiled, and gave edness. In the course of his remarks he said young lady of your virtues and accomplishments could never get married." "It is by no means unaccountable," she replied. 'Un like you sir,' (he is notorious for his political tergiversations.) 'unlike you, sir, I go for principles-not men.'

> 257 "Are you a skilful mechanic?" "Yes. sir." "What can you make?" "Ob, almost anything in my line." "Can you make a devil?" "Certainly, just put up your foot and I will split in three seconds. I never saw a chap in my life that required less preperation.

IF A wag says that in journeying lately, he was put in an ominbus with a dozen persons, of whom he did not know a single one. Turning a corner shortly after, the empibus was upset. "And then," said he, "I found thom all out."

-An exchange paper says, the best cure for pelpitation of the heart, is to leave off hug ging and kissing the girls. If this is the only remedy that can be procured. "we for one say, let 'er palpitatel'

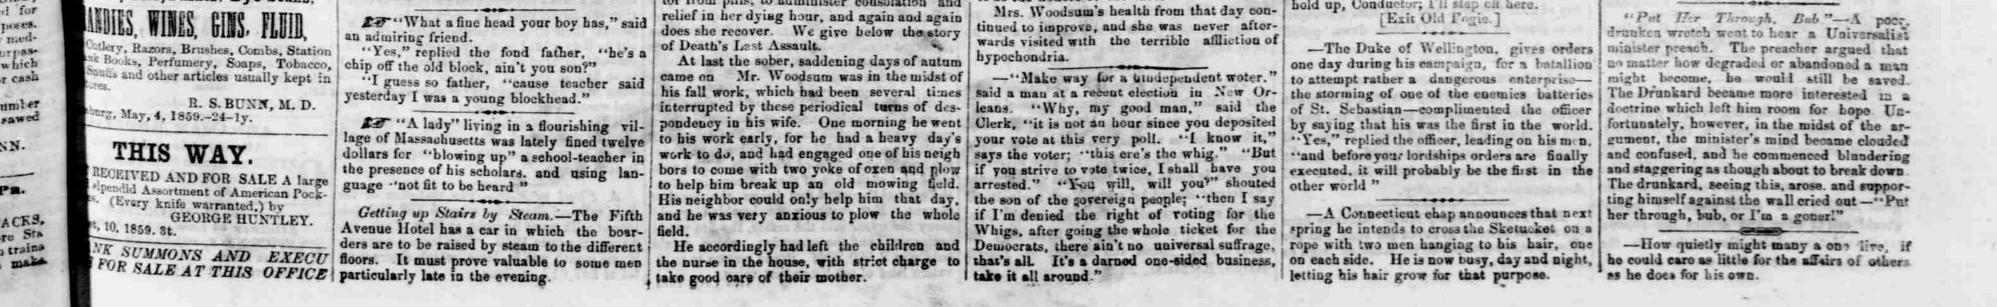

-The Debuke Herald reports the arrest of Adam Rounder for attempting to kill August Farber by letting bim drop to the bottom of a thirty-foot well, and throwing rocks on him.

A Young Lawyer, whose ambition did not stop short of the seat of Chief Justice, was undergoing an examination, and was asked what penalty he would attach to the crisic of arson. He replied with profound gravity and deliberation: "Arson; arson; I would make the fellow pay a hundred dollars and marry the girl?"

The Allentown Democrat says there "will be siz colipses this year-two of the sun; two of the moon, and two of the Republican or Opposition party. The two latter will occur in October and November-one of which will be visible in Pennsylvania, and the other all over the Union."

"Put Her Through, Bub "-A poo mentioned it to her, have you?"

• •