

AGRICULTURE

To Renovate an Old Orchard.
From the Rural New Yorker.
In plain view of where I am now writing, is an old orchard of some sixty trees which was planted more than forty years ago. The trees were allowed to follow the dictates of nature. The ground had been plowed & cropped a few times but most of the time it has lain in pasture, and no manure of any kind has ever been applied. Some twenty five years ago, more than half the trees were grafted, mostly with winter fruit, but the branches of the old stock were suffered to remain, to the great damage of the grafted fruit. There still remained 24 trees which had never been grafted, and having fallen into other hands, the proprietor, in the spring of 1855, employed two young men to graft them with winter russets which they accomplished in a little more than one day. In four year's time, Oct. 1859 the owner gathered eighteen barrels of as handsome winter russets as I ever saw, besides what windfalls were devoured by cattle, hogs and horses. The good fruit he sold for $1.22 per barrel, (the barrels were furnished,) amounting to $22.50, which was sufficient to pay for the labor of grafting several times over, and I see not why these twenty-four trees, if well cared for, may not produce the same good fruit for forty years to come.

Soaking Seeds Before Sowing.
This practice, says the Country Gentleman is not so extensively adopted in this country as it might be, with advantage both for the farm and garden. In this respect, we are far behind a people whom we are apt to regard with feelings nearly approaching to contempt. There are few probably, either in England or this country, who are disposed to think them selves much superior to the Chinese and yet in one respect at least, we think they are much in advance of most farmers in either England or America. Liebig, states in his "Letters on Modern Agriculture," that no Chinese farmer sows a seed before it has been soaked in liquid manure, diluted with water and has been to germinate; and the experience has taught him that this operation tends not only to promote rapid and vigorous growth and development of the plant but also to protect the seed from the ravages of worms and insects. There would not only be some trouble, but some inconvenience also in the adoption of this practice on an extensive scale; but we are pretty confident notwithstanding, that those who commence it on a small scale, will find it productive of advantage enough to induce them to extend their operations.—we may suggest that on more than one occasion, been informed by one of our correspondents, that he makes much use of hen manure in water, as a soak for his seeds.

How to Raise Grape Vines.
Rev. D. J. Weller, in the month of last March, presented the Editor of this Journal, with a bundle of some twenty-five cuttings of the "Bloom Grape." We made a trench in our garden, about ten feet long a foot wide near six inches deep, into which we planted the cuttings, two abreast, some six inches apart, leaving one eye or sprout above ground. Now, we have the satisfaction of owning about twenty beautiful growing Grape Vines, (out of the twenty-five sent,) in good order for transplanting, and only state the fact, that others wishing a supply of these valuable fruits, may emulate our example with similar success.—Columbia (Pa.) Democrat.

Protecting Young Trees with Blood
With regard to the protection of young trees against the attacks of rabbits, mice, and other animals obnoxious to the vitality of vegetation, a Missionary correspondent (Dr. J. Dinkley,) says:—"I will give you a much better remedy than any previously proposed.—Rub the trees from the ground upward to about 18 inches, with a piece of raw or bloody meat—liver is the most convenient thing; or blood may be put on with a brush. If this be done late in the fall or beginning of winter no animal will touch the bark during that season. I have tried this plan for thirty years, and have never known it to fail. Let horticulturists try it!"—Scientific American.

Transparent Ivory.
The process of making ivory transparent and flexible is simply an immersion in liquid phosphoric acid, and the change it undergoes is owing to a partial neutralization of the basic phosphate of lime of which it principally consists. The ivory is cut in pieces not thicker than the twentieth part of an inch and placed in phosphoric acid of a specific gravity of 1.131, until it has become transparent, when it is taken from the bath, washed in water and dried with a clean linen cloth. It becomes dry in the air without the application of heat, and softens again under warm water.—Druggists Circular.

DR. MORSE'S INDIAN ROOT PILLS.

Above we present you with a likeness of DR. MORSE—the inventor of MORSE'S INDIAN ROOT PILLS. This philanthropist has spent the greater part of his life in traveling, having visited Europe, Asia, and Africa, as well as North America—has spent three years among the Indians of our Western country—has in this way discovered the Indian Root Pills were first discovered. Dr. Morse was the first man to establish the fact that all diseases arise from IMPURITY OF THE BLOOD—that our strength, health and life depended upon this vital fluid. When the various passages become clogged, and do not act in perfect harmony with the different functions of the body, the blood loses its action, becomes thick, corrupted, and diseased; thus causing all pains, sickness and distress of every name; our strength is exhausted, our health we are deprived of, and if nature is not assisted in throwing off the stagnant humors, the blood will become choked and cease to act, and thus our life will be forfeited. It is of the utmost importance then that we should keep the various passages of the body free and open. And how pleasant to us that we have it in our power to put a medicine in your reach, namely, Morse's Indian Root Pills, manufactured from plants and roots which grow around the mountainous cliffs and in the deep woods of the Indian country of a diseased man. One of the roots from which these Pills are made is a Sulfuric, which opens the pores of the skin, and assists Nature in throwing out the finer parts of the corruption within. The second is a plant which is an Expectant, that opens and unclogs the passage to the lungs and in throwing off phlegm, and other humors from the lungs by copious spitting. The third is a Diuretic, which gives double ease and strength to the kidneys; thus encouraged, they draw large amounts of impurity from the blood, which is then thrown out abundantly by the urinary or water passage, and which could not have been discharged in any other way. The fourth is a Cathartic, and accompanies the other properties of the Pills which engaged in purifying the blood; the coarser particles of impurity which cannot pass by the other outlets, are thus taken up and conveyed off in great quantities by the bowels.

From the above, it is shown that Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills not only enter the stomach, but become united with the blood, for they find way to every part, and completely root out and cleanse the system from all impurity, and the life of the body, which is the blood, becomes perfectly healthy; consequently, sickness and pain is driven from the system, for they cannot remain when the body becomes so pure and clear. The reason why people are so distressed when sick, and why so many die, is because they do not get a medicine which will pass to the affected parts, and which will open the natural passage for the disease to be cast out; hence, a large quantity of food and other matter is lodged, and the stomach and intestines are literally overflowing with the corrupted mass; thus undergoing a disagreeable fermentation, constantly mixing with the blood, which throws the corrupted matter through every vein and artery, until life is taken from the body by disease. Dr. Morse's PILLS have added to themselves victory upon victory, by restoring millions of the sick to blooming health and happiness. Yes, thousands who have been racked or tormented with sickness, pain and anguish, and whose frames have been scorched by the burning elements of raging fever, and who have been brought, as it were, within a step of the silent grave, now stand ready to testify that they would have been numbered with the dead, had it not been for this great and wonderful medicine, Morse's Indian Root Pills. After one or two doses had been taken, they were astonished, and absolutely surprised, in witnessing their charming effects. Not only do they give immediate ease and strength, and take away all sickness, pain and anguish, but they at once go to work at the foundation of the disease, which is the blood.—Therefore, it will be shown, especially by those who use these Pills, that they will cleanse and purify, that disease—that deadly enemy—will take its flight, and the flush of youth and beauty will again return, and the prospect of a long and happy life will cheer and brighten your days.
