What is a Wheat Soil.
Were the reader to be asked the above question, what would be the answer? We ask this question with the hope that some of our readers will stop right here, take their pens and write out their answers; and that others will, for the first time, perhaps, although they may have grown wheat all their lives, investigate this question.

It is a soil that contains all the elements, necessary to the perfect development of the plant and the maturity of the grain. This is found to be an argillaceous soil—a rich clay soil, or a soil in which clay predominates.—Loamy soils—stiff loams often produce stiff crops; but soils, containing over fifty or sixty per cent of sand, may generally be more profitably cultivated in other crops.

When we define wheat soil, we do not assert that other soils from those included in the above definition, will not produce wheat under peculiar circumstances, a soil, in which silica predominates, has produced a good crop—especially in a wet season, or a wet soil of this character, and one which had received too little manure.

If lime be substituted for sand in a clayey soil, it is acceptable to the wheat plant. It is important that wheat soil should constitutionally or mechanically fitted for the seed. There must not be any free acid in the soil intended for wheat. Even light sandy soils, on which clover has been grown and plowed under, will produce good crops of wheat. On heavy, clay soils it is a good mechanical preparation to grow clover on them before seeding with wheat—it is sometimes almost equivalent to summer following it.

There must be lime in the soil intended for wheat. The nature of the plant requires it. An analysis shows this; and it is often the case that soils, that were once wheat-producing soils, fail from want of this element. It should never be forgotten that wheat is an exhausting crop—that there is, perhaps, no other cereal that requires more nourishment from the soil—that its demands are imperative, and supplies must be furnished or it fails to yield. Or, if it does yield wheat, it is of an inferior quality. We often condemn varieties of wheat because of the quality of flour produced, when the fault is not with the variety, but in the soil. Calcareous soils produce better wheat of the same varieties than other soils—and, although there is a greater difference in the product of the same variety on different soils.

Managing & Feeding Work Oxen.
Oxen, working on a stone-drag, on the foot of a plow, on the sled-tongue, cart spire or twitching stones or timber, should carry their heads up, as this enables them to do this work much easier; those that work as leaders, forward of other oxen, should carry their heads low, and have the yoke the right length, let the bows suit the neck; the yoke and bows to the leaders should set a little sauger than the hind oxen. Never use the whip but from necessity. When about to strike the young steer or ox ask yourself, "Will he know what I strike him for? Let each ox have a name, and be sure he knows his name. Never speak a word to an ox without meaning, have a particular word to start your team by, that all may pull together. Never hurry your team while riding behind them, lest they learn to haul apart.—Oxen should be shod with a broad shoe, to travel on hard roads; the shoe on the fore-foot should set back at the heel, nearly half an inch further than the hoof bears upon it. Oxen are frequently lame by reason of short chas. The best feed for oxen at hard work, is to give to each two quarts of meal, wet, mixed with good chopped hay, three times a day, and as much hay as he will eat; this is the highest feed work oxen ought to have, and on this they will work every day.—Farmer's Farmer.

Seed Corn.

A correspondent writing to the New York Tribune, says:
Of late, some attention has been paid to the improvement of seed corn—it is believed with decided profit. It is held that the King Philip Corn, for example, has been made to produce longer ears, and thus more bushels per acre, by means of these efforts. Agricultural authorities seem to be agreed that the earliest and ripest ear should be selected for seed before the corn is harvested—that the best ear should be taken from stalks bearing two or more ears—and so on. My suggestion is this: Let each farmer plant, expressly for seed, from ten to a hundred hills six feet apart, and allowing not more than three stalks to stand in each hill, so as to encourage each to develop three or four ears if possible. Let some of these hills be planted in the midst of potatoes, melons, cabbages or other low plants, so as to secure them abundant air and sunshine. I do not know that it will be practicable thus to obtain seed which will insure five or ten bushels more of corn next season; but I hope it may.

Delicious Corn Bread.

Boil a tea-cup of rice. While scalding hot mix it with a little less than a quart of corn meal, four eggs well beaten, a tablespoonful of lard, a teaspoonful of soda, a little salt, and enough sour milk to make a thin batter. Bake with a quick fire.

Spring has come once more, and we would advise our friends to attend to their farms and gardens.

DR. MORSE'S INDIAN ROOT PILLS.

Above we present you with a likeness of DR. MORSE—the inventor of MORSE'S INDIAN ROOT PILLS. This philanthropist has spent the greater part of his life in traveling, having visited Europe, Asia, and Africa, as well as North America—has spent three years among the Indians of our Western country—it was in this way that the Indian Root Pills were first discovered. Dr. Morse was the first man to establish the fact that all diseases arise from IMPURITY OF THE BLOOD—that our strength, health and life depended upon this vital fluid.

When the various passages become clogged, and do not act in perfect harmony with the different functions of the body, the blood loses its action, becomes thick, corrupted, and diseased; thus causing all pains, sickness and distress of every name; our strength is exhausted, our health we are deprived of, and if nature is not assisted in throwing off the stagnant humors, the blood will become choked and cease to act, and thus our light of life will forever be blown out. How important then that we should keep the various passages of the body free and open. And the best means to us that we have in our power to put a medicine in your reach, namely, Morse's Indian Root Pills, manufactured from plants and roots which grow around the mountainous cliffs in Nature's Garden, for the health and recovery of diseased man. One of the roots from which these Pills are made is a Sarsaparilla, which opens the pores of the skin, and assists Nature in throwing out the impurities of the corruption within. The second is a plant which is an Emetic, and thus encourages, and helps the passage to the lungs, and thus, in a soothing manner, performs its duty in throwing off phlegm, and other humors from the lungs by copious spitting. The third is a Diuretic, which gives double ease and strength to the kidneys; thus encouraged, they draw large amounts of impurity from the blood, which is then thrown out plentifully by the urinary or water passage, and which could not have been discharged in any other way. The fourth is a Cathartic, and accompanies the other properties of the Pills while engaged in purifying the blood; the coarser particles of impurity which cannot pass by the other outlets, are thus taken up and conveyed off in great quantities by the bowels.

From the above, it is shown that Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills not only enter the stomach, but become united with the blood, for they find way to every part, and completely root out and cleanse the system from all impurity, and the life of the body, which is the blood, becomes perfect and healthy; consequently all sickness and pain is driven from the system, for they cannot remain when the body becomes so pure and clear.

The reason why people are so distressed when sick, and why so many die, is because they do not get a medicine which will pass to the affected parts, and which will open the natural passage for the disease to be cast out; hence, a large quantity of food and other matter is lodged, and the stomach and intestines are literally overloading with the corrupted mass; thus undergoing a disagreeable fermentation, constantly mixing with the blood, which throws the corrupted matter through every artery and vein, until life is taken from the body by disease. Dr. Morse's PILLS have added to themselves victory upon victory, by restoring millions of the sick to blooming health and happiness. Yes, thousands who have been racked or tormented with sickness, pain and anguish, and whose beds have been kept by burning fevers, burning chills, and ague fever, and who have been brought, as it were, within a step of the silent grave, now stand ready to testify that they would have been numbered with the dead, had it not been for this great and wonderful medicine, Morse's Indian Root Pills. After one or two courses, they have been astonished, and absolutely surprised, in witnessing their charming effects. Not only do they give immediate ease and strength, and take away all sickness, pain and anguish, but they at once go to work at the foundation of the disease, which is the blood—Therefore, it will be shown, especially those who have been racked with disease, that they will purify, that disease—that deadly enemy—will take its flight, and the flush of youth and beauty will again return, and the prospect of a long and happy life will cheer and brighten your days.

Sold by Thomas Devine, Ebensburg, and by Medicine Dealers generally throughout the County. Each bottle, 25 cents. To be had of A. J. White & Co., No. 59 Leonard St., N. Y., Proprietors; William Mudge & Co., (Proprietors of Dr. A. Trask's Magnetic Ointment.) Earville, Madison County, N. Y., General Agents.
