

AGRICULTURE

Stumps—How to Treat Them.
We have often seen plowed stumps, and have often seen others exercise their skill in stumpy fields. The plowman pulls his team of horses, or scolds or whips them, if oxen, inside, of one stump, outside of another, and perhaps both sides of the third, with an adroitness which makes one feel that stumps are not the worst things in the world after all.—With the exception of a grass patch by the stump, here and there an unplowed, and uncovered blank, serpentine furrows instead of straight, the work is passably done; and with considerable extra labor in cultivating the crop may be good.

Stumps nevertheless, are a hindrance to the best kind of husbandry. Not less than seven evils grow out of them, or cluster about them.
1st. They interrupt the crop over a space of three or four times their own size. 2d. By reason of the grass patch about their roots, they render a surrounding circle so cold, that the crop does not grow thrifflily, nor ripen uniformly with the rest of the field. 3d. The plowing is more difficult, requiring more exertion of the plowman, and worrying the team sooner, 4th. Stumps render it impossible to do the work of plowing with that niceness which affords the greatest satisfaction to the workmen. 5th. They diminish the crop in proportion to several times the ground they occupy, and they lower its quality by causing it to ripen unequally. 6th. They increase the labor of harvesting. It is easier to mow or reap over the ground from which a stump has been removed, than around a stump standing. 7th. Accidents are more liable to happen in a stumpy than in a clear field, such as laming of a horse or an ox in plowing, the breaking of a plow or the smashing of a valuable reaper or mower.

Add to all this, that the farmer takes, as well he may, a high degree of satisfaction in the fine appearance of his farm; that he is mortified at whatever is slovenly; and that makes his farm beautiful, gratifies the taste and enhances the pleasure of all who behold it, and we have more than seven reasons for opposing the too long endurance of stumps in cultivated fields.

We would not advise you to have the more important matters of crop growing and harvesting in their seasons. But there are portions of the year, which may well be devoted to a preparation of the soil for a more perfect cultivation. With a good stump machine at work a few days more after the fall sowing is over, you may work wonders in the appearance of a stumpy farm, and add considerably to its productivity.

A first rate stump machine, necessarily costs about $200, such is the weight and strength of material required; but, being immensely strong and in little or no danger of getting out of order, it is a fit implement to be held in partnership.

One machine would answer a good purpose for as many as twenty farmers living near each other, and this would bring the outlay to only $10 each.

Or what would be still better, would be, that some one person in a township, or school district, should own a machine and work it in behalf of his neighbors, on such reasonable terms, as would remunerate him and serve their purposes.

The cost of removing stumps, with a good stump puller, is less than one tenth of that of the old grubbing process; and it does the work far better, because it takes out all the roots, which the old process seldom or never does.

Now, although we would not advise farmers to leave the important business of summer, to wage war with the stumps, nor advise each one, on his own private account, to purchase such an expensive article, yet may not those who have stumpy fields declare the war, and be devising ways and means, and thus be ready to commence operations when the fitting season to conquer a peace with the stumps comes!

Less than $10, including the use of a machine, will clear off a hundred stumps and leave the ground in perfect order for the plow the harrow, the mower and the reaper. That, at most, would be ten cents for each, and that most assuredly will be repaid in the greatest ease of cultivation and the increase of crops therefrom.

White Clover in Pastures.
The growth of white clover on soils natural to its production, may be encouraged and promoted by a top-dressing of plaster and ash. Its chief value is for pasture, as it is of two dwarf a growth to give much of a hay crop. A writer in the Boston Cultivator says: "There is an advantage in pasturing white clover which does not strike every farmer. Each joint furnishes a fresh root, (and of course a fresh plant,) whenever such joint comes in close contact with the soil, consequently the more it is trodden the thicker it will spring up. Hence one reason why it grows most luxuriantly near the bars and gateways of our pastures, where cattle often congregate."

Many farmers have observed this last mentioned fact without getting hold of the reason thereof. The natural growth of various grasses, self-sown upon all our soils, is a matter of curious interest to the naturalist and the farmer observant of nature. Red clover is better for hay, and is very good pasturage, but we think white clover is far preferable for pasturage.

HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS.

It is a fact that, at some period, every member of the human family is subject to disease or disturbance of the bodily functions; but, with the aid of a good tonic and the exercise of plain common sense, they may be able so to regulate the system as to secure permanent health. In order to accomplish this desired object, the true course to pursue is certainly that which will produce a natural state of things at the least hazard of vital strength and life. For this purpose, Dr. Hostetter has introduced into our country a preparation bearing his name, which is not a new medicine, but one that has been tried for years, giving satisfaction to all who have used it. The Bitters operate powerfully upon the stomach, bowels, and liver, restoring them to a healthy and vigorous action, and thus, by the simple process of strengthening nature, enable the system to triumph over disease.

For the cure of Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Nausea, Flatulency, Loss of Appetite, or any Bilious Complaints, arising from a morbid inaction of the Stomach or Bowels, producing Cramps, Dysentery, Colic, Cholera Morbus, &c., these Bitters have no equal.

Diarrhoea, dysentery or flux, so generally contracted by new settlers, and caused principally by the change of water and diet, will be speedily regulated by a brief use of this preparation. Dyspepsia, a disease which is probably more prevalent, in all its various forms, than any other, and the cause of which may always be attributed to derangement of the digestive organs, can be cured without fail by using HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS, as per directions on the bottle. For this disease every physician will recommend Bitters of some kind; then why not use an article known to be infallible. All nations have their Bitters, as a preventive of disease and strengthener of the system in general; and among them all there is not to be found a more healthy preparation than the German, from whom this preparation emanated, based upon scientific experiments which have tended to prove the value of this great preparation in the scale of medical science.

FEVER AND AGUE.—This trying and protracting disease, which fires its relentless grasp on the body of man, reducing him to a mere shadow in a short time, and rendering him physically and mentally useless, can be driven from the body by the use of HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS. Further, none of the above-stated diseases can be contracted, even in exposed situations, if the Bitters are used as per directions. And as they neither create nausea nor offend the palate, and render unnecessary any change of diet or interruption of ordinary pursuits, but promote sound sleep and healthy digestion, the complaint is reduced to a thorough and permanent cure.

For Persons in Advanced Years, who are suffering from an enfeebled constitution and infirm body, these Bitters are invaluable as a restorative of strength and vigor, and need not be to be appreciated. And to a mother while nursing these Bitters are indispensable, especially where the mother's nourishment is inadequate to the wants of the infant, consequently her strength must yield, child, and here it is where a good tonic, such as Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, is needed to impart temporary strength and vigor to the system. Ladies should by all means use these Bitters for all cases of debility, and, before so doing, should ask their physician, who, if he is acquainted with the virtue of the Bitters, will recommend their use in all cases of weakness.

CAUTION.—We caution the public against using any of the many imitations or counterfeits, but ask for Hostetter's Celebrated Stomach Bitters, and see that each bottle has the words "Dr. J. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters" blown on the side of the bottle, and stamped on the metallic cap covering the cork, and observe that our autograph signature is on the label.

Above we present you with a likeness of DR. MORSE, the inventor of MORSE'S INDIAN ROOT PILLS. This philanthropist has spent the greater part of his life in traveling, having visited Europe, Asia, and Africa, as well as North America—has spent three years among the Indians of our Western country—it was in this way that the Indian Root Pills were first discovered. Dr. Morse was the first man to establish the fact that all diseases arise from IMPURITY OF THE BLOOD—that our strength, health and life depended upon this vital fluid. When the various passages become clogged, and do not act in perfect harmony with the different functions of the body, the blood loses its action, becomes thick, corrupted, and diseased; thus causing all pain, sickness and distress of every name; our strength is exhausted, our health we are deprived of, and if nature is not assisted in throwing off the stagnant humors, the blood will become choked and cease to act, and thus our life will forever be blown out. How important then that we should keep the various passages of the body free and open. And how pleasant to us that we have it in our power to put a medicine in your reach, namely, Morse's Indian Root Pills, manufactured from plants and roots which grow around the mountainous cliffs in Nature's garden, for the health and recovery of diseased men. One of the roots from which these Pills are made is a Sudorific, which opens the pores of the skin, and assists Nature in throwing out the finer parts of the corruption within. The second is a plant which is an Expectoant, that opens and unclogs the passage to the lungs, and thus, in a soothing manner, prevents its duty in throwing off phlegm, and other humors from the lungs by copious spitting. The third is a Diuretic, which gives double ease and strength to the kidneys; thus encouraged, they draw large amounts of impurity from the blood, which is then thrown out beautifully by the urinary or water passage, and which could not have been discharged in any other way. The fourth is a Cathartic, and accompanies the other properties of the Pills while engaged in purifying the blood; the coarser particles of impurity which cannot pass by the other outlets, are thus taken up and conveyed off in great quantities by the bowels.
