Remarks on Summer Pruning.

"Pinching" is a term often used in horticultural literature, and is one of those technical words that, although well understood among the initiated, has a very indefinite meaning to the general reader, at least in its horticultural application.

Pinching is a mode of summer pruning whereby robust shoots are checked, at an early stage of their growth, by removing their extreme points with a pinch between the thumb and finger; this retards, for a time, their extension, and induces growth in lower buds that would, in all probability have remained dormant. The process is applicable to all trees and plants, and is the best method of securing any desired form of growth or shape of plant, but it is now becoming more associated with the management of fruit and the production of fruits, than it has been heretofore, and its advantages are slowly being recognized.

The great tendency to growth in healthy trees is towards the extreme points of branches, and the prevalent mode of winter pruning, those of robust growth are put back more or less severely. This is done with a view to encourage side or lateral growths, but it is a very imperfect mode of gaining advantages which are more readily secured by judicious, and timely care in summer. A moment's reflection will convince any one that at best a negative practice to allow a tree to make a heavy growth of wood during summer and remove it with the pruning-knife in winter, thus sacrificing and throwing away as what has been the great aim of the cultivation to produce. There are exceptions where winter pruning will be absolutely a necessity; in young trees, for instance, it is evident that a healthy, vigorous and extended system of roots is of paramount importance. Sickly, or weak growing trees, will also be rendered more vigorous by cutting the branches well down in winter, but when the tree is well established, it is perfectly practicable to maintain its productiveness, and induce it to assume any desired form by pinching during the season of active growth, and we hesitate not to assert, that the highest point in the culture and management of fruit trees will not have been reached, until this principle has become fully recognized and generally acted upon.

Even in an economical point of view with reference to labor, it is obvious that a saving will be gained by rubbing off a bud in June instead of having to cut a branch in December. Indeed the amputating of large branches is altogether obnoxious, and the nutriment which would have been appropriated by such is absorbed by the branches retained.

Trees vary so much in their habits of growth and are so susceptible to the influences of soil and climate, that no definite practical rules can be given even by the most expert, that would form a safe guide to the novice in tree culture. It is a matter of individual experience and observation; no amount of explanatory information will convey more than the necessity for the recognition of the general principle, and that once firmly established in the mind, the theory thoroughly understood, the cultivator will readily acquire the discriminating knowledge which always follows practical experience and close observation.

One of the most common errors in summer pruning, and one that is also extremely injurious, is that of the delaying the operation until growth has made considerable advance, and then in order to secure the emission of shoots at certain points a severe diminution of active foliage is the consequence. We have seen grape vines thus treated, allowed to proceed unchecked until the middle of July, and then a foot or more taken from the end of each shoot, that were completely paralyzed and the crop a total failure, the berries remaining green until overtaken by frost.

It is such occurrences as the above that give rise to the many apparently conflicting statements that abound in our horticultural and agricultural literature. A course of practice is undertaken without a proper knowledge of the system or the principles upon which it is founded, and when failures occur they are seldom attributed to their proper source.

The perfection of summer pruning then, consists in checking the growth of particular shoots without diminishing the foliage; when the extreme point of a branch is bruised, growth will be checked with the removal of leaves. Nothing is more certain than this, that the welfare of the crop depends upon a full growth of healthy foliage.—Farmer and Gardener.

Pickling Walnuts.

A lady of great experience in such matters gives the following receipt for pickling walnuts:

"Gather them dry, prick them through with a large pin two or three times, put them into salt and water, shift them every three days for a fortnight, put them into a sieve, and let them stand a day in the air, and then put them into an earthen jar. Boil as much vinegar as will cover them well, pour it boiling hot over them, let them stand three days then put them into a sieve and let them stand in the air another day; then take to every quart of fresh vinegar that may be wanted, half an ounce of black mustard, and any other kind of spices you want to season to the taste and fancy."

HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS.

It is a fact that, at some period, every member of the human family is subject to disease or disturbance of the bodily functions; but, with the aid of a good tonic and the exercise of plain common sense, they may be able to regulate the system as to secure permanent health. In order to accomplish this desired object, the true course to pursue is certainly that which will produce a state of things at the least hazard of vital strength and life. For this purpose, Dr Hostetter has introduced to this country a preparation bearing his name, which is not a new medicine, but one that has been tried for years, giving satisfaction to all who have used it. The Bitters operate powerfully upon the stomach, bowels, and liver, restoring them to a healthy and vigorous action, and thus, by the simple process of strengthening nature, enable the system to triumph over disease.

For the cure of Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Nausea, Flatulency, Loss of Appetite, or any Bilious Complaints, arising from a morbid location of the Stomach or bowels, producing Cramps, Dysentery, Colic, Cholera Morbus, &c., these Bitters have no equal.

Diarrhoea, dysentery or flux, so generally contracted by new settlers, and caused principally by the change of water and diet, will be speedily regulated by a brief use of this preparation. Dyspepsia, a disease which is probably more prevalent, in all its forms, than any other, is the cause of which many ways are attributed to derangements of the digestive organs, can be cured without fail by using HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS, as per directions on the bottle. For this disease every physician will recommend Bitters of some kind; but why not use an article known to be infallible? All nations have their Bitters, as a preventive of disease, and a restorative in general, and among them all there is not to be found a more healthy people than the Germans, from whom this preparation emanated, based upon scientific experiments which have tended to prove the value of this great preparation in the scale of medical science.

FEVER AND AGUE.—This trying and provoking disease, which fixes its relentless grasp on the body of man, reducing him to a mere shadow, and rendering his existence physically and mentally useless, can be driven from the body by the use of HOSTETTER'S RENOWNED BITTERS. Further, none of the above-stated diseases can be contracted, even in those situations, if the Bitters be used as per directions. And as they neither create nausea nor offend the palate, and render unnecessary any change of diet or interruption of ordinary pursuits, but promote sound sleep and hearty appetites, the complaint is removed as speedily as is consistent with the production of a thorough and permanent cure.

For Persons in Advanced Years, who are afflicted with those morbid conditions and infirm body, these Bitters are invaluable as a restorative of strength and vigor, and need only be tried to be appreciated. And to a mother while nursing these Bitters are indispensable, as they not only restore the nourishment is inadequate to the demands of the child, consequently her strength must yield, and here it is where a good tonic, such as Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, is needed to impart strength and vigor to the system. Ladies should by all means try this remedy for all cases of debility, and, before so doing, should ask their physician, who, if he is acquainted with the virtues of these Bitters, will recommend their use in all cases of weakness.

CAUTION.—We caution the public against using any of the many imitations or counterfeits, but ask for HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS, and see that each bottle has the words "Dr. J. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters" blown on the side of the bottle, and stamped on the metallic cap covering the cork, and observe that our autograph signature is on the label.

Prepared and sold by HOSTETTER & SMITH, Pittsburg, Pa. and sold by all druggists, grocers, and dealers generally throughout the United States, Canada, South America, and Germany.

MOISE'S INDIAN ROOT PILLS

Above we present you with a MOISE'S INDIAN ROOT PILLS—the inventor of MOISE'S INDIAN ROOT PILLS—the greater part of his life in traveling, visited Europe, Asia, and Africa, and North America—has spent three years in this way that the Indian Root Pills were discovered. Dr. Moise was the first to establish the fact that all diseases arise from the impurity of the BLOOD—that one source of health and life depended upon this vital fluid. When the various passages become clogged and do not act in perfect harmony with the functions of the body, the blood is thus causing all pains, sickness and death; every name; our strength is exhausted, and health we are deprived of, and if allowed to persist in its course, the system will become clogged and our life will forever be shortened. How important then that we should know the various passages of the body free and open, and how pleasant to us that we have it in our power to procure a medicine in your reach, and assist in the various passages of the blood, to draw large amounts of impurity from the system, which is then thrown out of the body by the urinary or water passage, and which could not have been discharged in any other way. The pills are a Cathartic, and accompanies the other series of the Pills while engaged in purifying the blood; the coarser particles of impurity cannot pass by the other outlets, are thus up and conveyed off in great quantities in the bowels.

From the above, it is shown that the Indian Root Pills not only enter the system, but become united with the blood, for the way to every part, and completely purify and cleanse the system from all impurity, and life of the body, which is the blood, becomes purified; consequently all diseases remain in the system, for they do not remain when the body becomes so pure.

The reason why people are so distressed, sick, and why so many die, is because they do not get a medicine which will purify the blood, and which will open the urinary passage for the disease to be cast out; and a large quantity of food and other matter will be taken into the system, and will be overflowing with the corrupted matter, and deranging a disagreeable fermentation, some mixing with the blood, which through the ruptured matter through every vein and artery, until life is taken from the body by disease. MOISE'S PILLS have been tried thousands of times upon victory, by restoring millions of ailing, blooming health and happiness. Yes, they have been tried upon the sick, and those who have been racked or tormented with pain, and anguish, and whose feelings have been scorched by the burning disease, have been purified, that disease has been removed, within a step of the patient's stand ready to testify that they would be numbered with the dead, had it not been for this great and wonderful medicine. MOISE'S INDIAN ROOT PILLS. After one or two courses, the patient will be surprised, and surprised, in witnessing their remarkable strength, and take away all sickness, and anguish, but they at once go to work on the foundation of the disease, which is the blood. Therefore, it will be shown, especially by those who use the Pills, that they will purify the blood, that disease that they cannot take its flight, and the flush of youth will be again returned, and the prospect of a happy life will be bright and pure.

Sold by Thomas Devine, Ebersburg, by Medicine Dealers generally throughout the County; B. Lake, Johnstown, N. E. White & Co., No. 50 Leonard st., N. Y.; Dr. A. Trask's Magnetic Oriental Balm, Madison county, N. Y., General Agents.
