Thus Pennsylvania goes on steadily in the work of reducing the burden of debt under which she has so long labored. The old canal system, with its succession of political canal Commissioners, obliged to feed hundreds of greedy office holders, oreated and increased the State debt. The sale of the Carols and the abolition of the canal board have been the means of saving the State | Every year now witnesses a reduction of the debt. The revenue of the State, from sources other than canal and railroad tolls, is abundant, and the rapid reduction of the debt makes it reasonable to expect before a great while, a decided reduction in the rate of State texation.

The Progress of Fushion - Most of our lady readers, we suppose, have smiled over the pictures of the first Freuch Empire; of the high bred dames of Napoleon's Court in digot sleeves, monstrous head pieces, waists under their arm pits, short chaging skirts, and elaborately wrought stockings. Few of them, perhaps are aware that they are seemingly destined to wear this very costume before they are many years old. Fashion moves ina circle; the past always returns afterter an intervel of greater or less duration. The indications of a r turn of fashions of 1804 and 1810 at the present time are too decided to admit of any doubt, and we are informed that the shrewdest tailors and milliners are already on the chase of old engavings of that

Neat Retort .- An Israelite lady, sitting in the same box at an opera with a French physician, and was much troubled with ennui happened to gape.

"Excuse me, madam," said the doctor, "I am glad you did not swallow me." "Give yourself no uneasiness," replied the
