

Are Potatoes Wholesome Food?

A subscriber sends for this journal (the Agriculturist) a long essay, in which he attempts to prove that potatoes are an unwholesome article of food. Many of the reasons given, would apply to most other kinds of food, and we do not see how the writer, if he believes all he writes, can avoid following the advice of the colored man at Charleston during the prevalence of the cholera. After condemning various articles of food as dangerous, to the direct question, "what shall I eat, then?" he replied:—"Why, de best way is to eat nuffin' at all, and den you no 'spose yerself." In regard to potatoes, there is no doubt that good, mealy potatoes, cooked through, are as healthful as any article of food consumed. They abound in starch, and do not, alone, furnish muscle-making material enough. They may be eaten more freely in cold weather when carbonaceous, or heat-producing food is most required; with a due quantity of lean meat, bread, cabbage, and other nitrogenous kinds of food, they are always good. But to be easily digested, they should always be baked or boiled dry, and mashed. The mashing is not essential for adults who have good molar teeth or grinders, and who will take time in eating, to masticate them well. Children, and careless or rapid eaters, are likely to swallow unmashed potatoes in small lumps. These lumps are dissolved slowly, and irritate the stomach, producing a dull, heavy feeling, if not absolute pain. The fact that bits of potatoes are vomited whole, or passed off in the excrements, when there is any irritation of the stomach or bowels, is proof that such lumps should never go into the stomach.

Potatoes should not be mixed with butter or gravies in mashing, as such a compound is not easily dissolved by the gastric juice. A better plan is to mash them dry, or with a little milk, and let whatever salt and butter, or gravy, is used, be put upon the outside of each mouthful. (This remark applies to all kinds of food.) The butter, gravies, spices, etc., applied to food, are designed to come in contact with the salivary glands, and promote a flow of saliva, and this end is better secured by putting these substances upon the outside of the food.

A dry, mealy potato, baked or boiled through, and mashed finely so that it would dissolve in water stirred up with it, is just as good a food, for a sick person even, as boiled rice. We repeat that sick or well persons, young or old, should never swallow a piece of potato larger than a small pea, and to ensure this, we advise, as a general rule, to wash potatoes before bringing them to the table. We agree with our correspondent, that every potato having a black spot or lump in it, is diseased, and the whole potato should be unceremoniously rejected. There is no saving in consuming any part of such a potato. Mere cracks or openings in large potatoes, if unaccompanied with dark-colored hard matter, are not indicative of disease.—Agriculturist.

Fattening Turkeys.

Much has been published of late in our agricultural journals, in relation to the alimentary properties of charcoal. It has been repeatedly asserted, that domestic fowls may be fattened on it without any other food, and that too, in a shorter time than on the most nutritive grains. I made an experiment, and must say that the result surprised me, as I had always been rather skeptical. Four turkeys were confined in a pen and fed on meal, boiled potatoes and oats. Four others of the same breed, were also at the same time confined in another pen, and fed daily on the same articles, but with one pint of finely pulverized charcoal mixed with their meal and potatoes. They also had a plentiful supply of broken charcoal in their pen. The eight were killed on the same day, and there was a difference of one and a half pounds each in favor of the fowls which had been supplied with the charcoal, they being much the fattest, and the meat greatly superior in point of tenderness and flavor.—Cor. Ger. Tel.

Vegetable Oyster, or Salsify.

This excellent plant grows like a parsnip, and is in flavor very much like fresh oysters. Scrape them, and cut them round in thin slices; boil them tender in milk and water, season them well with pepper, butter and salt make a nice toast, moistened with the gravy laid in the bottom of the dish, and pour the whole over it. You can scarcely detect the difference. There should be but a suitable quantity of the gravy; too much lessens the flavor. It is sometimes cut up and parboiled, chopped fine and fried in butter. The roots may be first cooked tender, then fried whole in butter [This is the very best mode in which to cook this fine vegetable.] We have raised it constantly for a dozen years, but never use it until about the end of October. They preserve best left in the ground, like the carrot, to be used whenever the frost will admit of their exhaustion.—Gen. Tel.

Working Butter—Practical Suggestion.—After the butter is removed from the churn, put water in the working bowl, to rinse off the buttermilk. In another dish have cold water and a linen cloth free from lint. Wring the cloth out dry, spread the butter out with lade and press the cloth gently on the butter and remove all the drops of moisture. Continue this process until the butter is ready for salting—keep the water clean for rinsing the cloth often. Any one trying this will be surprised to find how much it facilitates the preparation of butter to salt.—Mrs. H. Jessup.

D. MOTT'S CHALYBEATE RESTORATIVE PILLS OF IRON.

An aperient and stomachic preparation of IRON, purified and Oxygen and Carbon by combination in Hydrogen. Sanctified by the highest Medical Authorities, both in Europe and the United States, and prescribed in their practice. The experience of thousands daily proves that no preparation of Iron can be compared with it. Impurities of the blood, depression of vital energy, pale and hectic complexion, indicate its necessity in almost every conceivable case.

Innocuous in all maladies in which it has been tried, it has proved absolutely curative in each of the following complaints, viz: In Debility, Nervous Affections, Emaciation, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Catarrhs, Pyrexia, Involuntary Consumption, Scrophulous Tendencies, Salt Rheum, Menstruation, Whites, Chlorosis, Liver Complaints, Chronic Headaches, Rheumatism, Intermittent Fevers, Pimples on the Face, &c.

In cases of General Debility, whether the result of acute disease, or of the continued diminution of nervous and muscular energy from Chronic complaints, or of a trial of this restorative has proved successful to an extent which no description nor written attestation would render credible. Invalids so long bed-ridden as to have become forgotten in their own neighborhoods, have suddenly re-appeared in the busy world as if by magic, and have returned to their homes at a distant land. Some very signal instances of this kind are attested of female Sufferers, emaciated victims of apparent marasmus, sanguinous exhaustion, critical changes, and that complication of nervous and dyspeptic aversion to air and exercise for which the physician has no name.

In Nervous Affections of all kinds, and for reasons familiar to Medical men, the operation of this preparation of Iron must necessarily be salutary, for, unlike the old oxides, it is vigorously tonic, without being exciting and over-heating, and gently, regularly aperient, even in the most obstinate cases of costiveness without ever being gastric purgative or inducing a disagreeable sensation.

It is this latter property, among others which makes it so remarkably effectual and permanent a remedy for Piles, upon which it also appears to exert a distinct and specific action, by dispersing the local tendency which forms them. In Dysentery, however, more than in any other single case of these Chalybeate Pills has often sufficed for the most habitual cases, including the attendant costiveness.

In unchecked Diarrhoea, even when advanced to Dysentery, confirmed emaciation and apparently malignant, the effects have been equally decisive and permanent.

In the local pains, loss of flesh and strength, debilitating cough, and remittent hectic, which generally indicate Incipient Consumption, this remedy has allayed the alarm of friends and physicians, in several very gratifying and interesting instances.

In Scrophulous Tuberculosis, this medicated iron has been more than the good effect of the most cautiously balanced preparations of iodine, without any of their well known liabilities. The attention of females cannot be too confidently invited to this remedy and restorative, in the cases peculiarly affecting them.

In Rheumatism, both Chronic and inflammatory—In Sciatica, however, more than in any other, has been invariably well reported, both as alleviating pain and reducing the swellings and stiffness of the joints and muscles.

In Intermittent fevers it must necessarily be a great remedy and energetic restorative, and its progress in the new settlements of the West will probably be one of high renown and usefulness.

No remedy has ever been discovered in the whole history of medicine, which exerts such prompt, happy and fully restorative effects. Good appetite, complete digestion, rapid acquisition of strength, with an unusual disposition to active and cheerful exercise, immediately follow.

Put up in neat flat metal boxes containing 50 pills, price 50 cents per box; for sale by druggists and dealers. Will be sent free to any address on receipt of the price. All letters, orders, etc., should be addressed to R. B. LAKE, & Co., General Agents, 20 Cedar St., N. Y. May, 30, 1860.—ly.

DOCTORS' INDIAN ROOT PILLS

Above we present you with a discovery of DR. MORSE'S INDIAN ROOT PILLS. This valuable medicine has been the greater part of his life in traveling, having visited Europe, Asia, and Africa, as well as North America—has spent three years among the Indians of our Western country—it was this way that the Indian Root Pills were discovered. Dr. Morse was the first man to establish the Pills, but at present we have the PURITY OF THE BLOOD—that our strength, health and life depended upon this vital fluid.

When the various passages become clogged, and do not act in perfect harmony with the different functions of the body, the blood becomes thick, corrupted, and diseased, thus causing the pain, sickness and distress of every name; our strength is exhausted, our health we are deprived of, and if nature is not assisted in throwing off the stagnant humors, the blood will become choked and cease to act, thus our light of life will forever be blown out. How important then that we should keep the various passages of the body free and open. The Indian Root Pills, manufactured from the roots which grow around the mountainsides in Nature's Garden, for the health and recovery of diseased man. One of the roots from which these Pills are made is a Salsifia, which acts upon the pores of the skin, and causes it to throw out the finer parts of the circulation within. The second is a plant which is an expectorant, that opens and unclogs the passages of the lungs, and thus, in a soothing manner, performs its duty in throwing off phlegm, and other humors from the lungs by copious spitting. The third is a plant which engages in purifying the blood; the coarser particles of it, which cannot pass by the other outlets, are thus drawn large amounts of impurity from the blood, which is then thrown out beautifully by the urinary or water passage, and which could not be discharged in any other way. The fourth is a Cathartic, and accompanies the other purgatives in the stomach and intestines, and cleanses the system from all impurity, and the life of the body, which is the blood, becomes perfectly healthy; consequently all sickness and pain is driven from the system, for they can remain when the body becomes so pure as this.

The reason why people are so distressed, sick, and why so many die, is because they do not get a medicine which will pass to the affected parts, and which will open the natural passage for the disease to be cast out; hence a large quantity of food and other matter is piled up, and the stomach and intestines are overloaded with the corrupted matter, and are discharging a disagreeable fermentation, causing mixing with the blood, which throws the corrupted matter through every vein and artery until life is taken from the body by disease. Dr. Morse's PILLS have added to themselves various other medicines, which are of the sick, and blooming health and happiness, and those who have been racked or tormented with sickness, pain and anguish, and whose feeble frames have been scorched by the burning elements of raging fever, and who have been brought, as were, within a step of the silent grave, now stand ready to testify that they would have numbered with the dead, had it not been for this great and wonderful medicine, Morse's Indian Root Pills. After one or two doses he has been taken. They were astonished, and almost surprised, in witnessing their charming effects. Not only do they give immediate ease and strength, and take away all sickness, pain and anguish, but they cause you to work at the foundation of the disease, which is the blood. Therefore, it will be shown, especially by those who use these Pills, that they will cleanse the purity, that disease—that deadly enemy—take its flight, and the flush of youth and health will be returned, and the prospect of a long and happy life will be secured.

Sold by Thomas Devine, Ebensburg, Pa. by Medicine Dealers generally throughout the County; B. Lake Johnson, successor to A. White & Co., No. 60 Leonard st., N.
