English Horses.

A writer in the London Review calls the attention of the lovers of the horse to the fact that the noble breed of English horses is becoming ruined. .. We are every year deteriorating the qualities of our saddle horses and troopers, by the reckless mixture of breed with our racers, under the idea that we are infusing blood and staying qualities into their veins Blood is all very well when allied to a compact, useful form, able to carry men a reasonable distance; but when it is produced by "in and in breeding" from shallow forms on long tettering legs, it ceases to be worth the name of "blood," in the common acceptation of the term. Those qualities in our race horses which are decreasing every year more and more, are the most useful and natural ones -- namely, constitutional vigor, freedom from hereditary disease, strength of bone largeness of muscle, and great endurance under severe exertion. These are the qualities which we require for use; for very few of us would buy a horse for his single quality of speed-indeed none but turfmen would care to own such a one. The general public do not require such horses, because they have no use for them in the daily routine of life. There are thousands of race horses bred, and reared to the age of two years, which, after trial, are found worthless, for the purpose they were bred for, and these are expelled from the racing studs in disgrace, and they are sold for little or nothing; some of them are given away, and are much too dear even at that price Thus our country once famed for the best breed of saddle horses in the world, is becoming overrun with a lot of worthless, weedy, refuse racing stock, which by many experienced farmers and breeders are gradually being crossed with, and thus deteriorating the breed of our short-legged, deep-bodied, wide-hipped, strong-loined saddle horses, the lieneage of which, in a few instances, we can still trace, by their compact forms, to the breed of race horses encouraged by our forefathers, who bred horses for useful purposes, to carry men long distances, and not the spindle-shanked velocipedes bred by our turfmen of the present day, that break down after running a few furlengs with a baby on their backs."

A Plea for the Cauliflower.

· Of all the flowers that grow give me the cauliflower," so said Sam Johnson, the stern old English moralist, and he knew. The fact is, that no vegetable is eaten in Paris, Viena, or Veron, (and all three of these cities, especially the last, are famous for good eating,) more prized by the gourmands, and more indispensible to a good dinner, than the cauliflower. The Covent Garden market in London is supplied with them, at one price or another, all the year round; and it makes a man's mouth water to see the stock of good things in those great reservoirs of eatables in

We have heard complaint from some gardners this year, that their cauliflowers did not head up well; and I saw the other day several hundred of them in a garden, and not decent head in the lot; but other gardens have succeeded well this year. The vegetable must have the sun, the whole day, from sunrise till sunset, and must have the full benefit of the night dew, in order to thrive, and the soil must be just right, neither too rich nor too poor, neither too dry or too moist, in order to bring this delicious species of cabbage to perfection. Boil it a long time, just like cabbage, until it is perfectly tender in all its parts, slice it into quarters, serve with hot drawn butter, and you will like it with boiled or roast meat, but more properly when boiled The vegetable is often seen in our markets, and ought to be more steadily kept on hand than it is. It is bound to grow into the public favor, as a more delicate substitute for cabbage. - Hartford Courant.

Protection of Birds.

If our agricultural friends would read Audubon's account of the number of insects he has found in the craw of a single wren, a robin, or a thrush ate, they would fool convinced that small birds should be protected and encouraged. They are cheaper than insect To be given to the purchasers. For full partipowders, and should not be destroyed. There can be no excuse at any time for shooting ci- 1 cash ther of the following: The night or mosqito | I cash hawk, chimney swallow, martin or swift, 1 cash whipporwill, king bird or bee martin, mead- I cash ow or brown thresher, dove, fire bird or sum- I cash mer red bird, hanging bird, ground bird or chewink, bobolink, or rice bird, snow or chip ping bird, blue jay or small owl. The legal penalty for shooting either of the above, or for the destruction of their eggs, is five dollars for each offence. We should like to see a hundred of these who shoot them, spending a few days in the county jail, by why of retribution for their folly .- Working Farmer.

To keep Cabbage. - Dig shallow trenches in a dry part of the garden—say two feet OFFERS to the Merchants and others buying TIN, COPPER OR SHEET IRON WARE, apart-in which plant the cabbages, which must be carefully taken from the bed with all Manufactory West of the Alleghenies. All the roots, pack closely, then erect over them a low scaffolding, the posts being two feet from the ground let be a little high in the middle to carry off the water, and cover with STOVES, Convey PUMPS, LEAD PIPE, straw or corn fodder, buts down. An aperient and stomachic preparation of IRON purified of Oxygen and Carbon by comoustion in Hydrogen. Sanctified by the highest Medical Authorities, both in Europe and the Inited States, and prescribed in their practice. The experience of thousands daily proves that no preparation of Iron can be compared with it.

Impurities of the blood, depression of vital enrgy, pale and otherwise sickly complexions indicate its necessity in almost every conceivable Innoxious in all malladies in which it has

each of the following complaints, viz: In Debility, Nervous Affections, Emaciation, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Diarrhoxa, Dysentery. Incipient Consumption, Scrofulous Tuberculosis, Salt Rheum, Mismenstruction, Whites, Chlorosis, Liver Complaints, Chronic Headaches, Rheumatism, Intermittent Fevers, Pimples on the Face, been tried, it has proved absolutely curative in

In cases of General Debility, whether the result of acute direase, or of the continued diminution of nervous and muscular energy from Chronic complaints one trial of this restorative has proved successful to an extent which no lescription nor written attestation would render eredible. Invalids so long bed-ridden as to have become forgotton in their own neighborhoods, have suddenly re-appeared in the busy world as if just returned from a protracted travel in a distant land. Some very signal instances of this kind are attested of female Sufferers, emaciated victims of apparent marasmus, sanguineous exhaustion, critical changes, and that complication of nervous and dyspeptic aversion to air and exercise for which the physician has no name. In Nervous Affections of all kinds, and for reasons familiar to Medical men, the operation f this preparation of Iron must necessarily be alutary, for, unlike the old oxides, it is vigorusly tonic, without being exciting and overcating, and gently, regularly aperient, even in he most obstinate cases of costiveness without ever being a gastric purgative or inflicting a dis-

It is this latter property, among others which nakes it so remarkably effectual and permanent a remedy for Piles, upon which it also appears exert a distinct and specific action, by disersing the local tendency which forms them. In Dyspepsia innumerable as are its causes. a single box of these Chalybeate Pills has often is annexed. Prices may be ascertained, and ufficed for the most habitual cases, including the attendant costiveness.

In unchecked Diarrhoea, even when advanced o Dysentary, confirmed emaciating and appaently malignent, the effects have been equally sive and astonishing.

In the local pains, loss of flesh and strength. debiliating cough, and remittent hectic, which generally indicates Incipient Consumption, this emedy has allayed the alarm of friends and hysicians, in several very gratifying and inresting instances.

In Scrofulous Tuberculsis, this medicated iron as had far more than the good effect of the nost cautiously balanced preparations of idione, without any of their well known liabillities. The attention of females cannot be too confilently invited to this remedy and restorative, in he cases peculiarly affecting them.

In Rheumatism, both Chronic and inflamatory in the latter, however, more decidedly-it has been invariably well reported, both as alleviating pain and reducing the swellings and stifness of the joints and muscles.

In Intermittent fevers it must necessarily be a great remedy and energetic restorative, and its progress in the new settlements of the West will probably be one of high renown and use-

No remedy has ever been discovered in the whole his tory of medicine, which exerts such prompt, happy and fully restorative effects. Good appetitee, complete digestion, rapid acquisition of strength, with an unusual disposition for active and cheerful exercise, immediatevfollow its use.

Put up in neat flat mettal boxes containing 50 pills, price 50 cents per box; for sale by druggists and dealers. Will be sent free to any adiress on receipt of the price. All letters, orders, ect., should be addressed to
