INDIANAPOLIS, Dec, 14 1861. that effect, I will now proceed to gively on description of our situation &c. We arwed here some six weeks since and have sen quartered in a large hall, which affords commodious and comfortable lodgings for our company. We have good mats to been on, and each soldier has two good cavy blankets which serve to keep out the cold that has come across the prairies. We get an abundance to eat, served up at the Batty House. All we have to do is to march down that way at the sound of the bagle, and pitch in. Our Captain leaves nothing undone, that will tend to the comfort and happiness of his men. He confidence and respect of those under his command. Our lieutenants-Snyder and Havs-are kind, active and efficient officers Our Orderly Sergeat, Thomas Davis is well known in Cambria and is worthy of the position he holds. He is kind to the men and attentive to his duties, which have alrealy won for him the respect of the mon and the confidence of his superior officers. The other Sergeants are and gentlemanly officers, to all who come in contact with tiem. If good officers insure the success of a cempany, then company C., 19th regiment, U. S.
