The Feeling in New Jersey.
The following resolutions were read in the Senate of New Jersey last week, which foreshadow the popular sentiment of the people of that State. The restoration of peace, is a popular theme, not only in New Jersey, but in many other States it is the subject of daily discussion.

Be it resolved by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey. First. That it is the sense of the Legislature, and of the people of New Jersey, that the civil war, in which the nation is unhappy involved, ought not to be protracted one moment longer than is necessary to test the power of the government, within the limits which the Constitution has imposed, and that so soon as the conduct of the war requires or involves the sacrifice of rights which the Constitution secures, it ought to cease.

Second. That the people of New Jersey, their representatives here assembled, and the gallant soldiers who without compulsion, have rushed to arms to maintain the Constitution, believe that the time for honorable pacification has arrived, and that every effort ought to be made to effect it and avert the consequences which must ensue from a continuance of war at the expense of Constitutional freedom.

Third. That the recent proclamation of emancipation; the division of a sovereign State without the consent of its people and Legislature; the appointment of military governors, and the attempt on the part of the Executive to control the popular branch of Congress by fraudulent military elections of representatives, are gross violations of the Constitution, and merit and deserve the condemnation of this Legislature.

Fourth. That to the same category belongs the system of arbitrary arrests—the infringement of the freedom of the press—the executive suspension of the writ of habeas corpus—the confiscation and seizure of property without judicial process, and the establishment of military authority beyond the lines of the army, and all attest the evil tendency of civil war.

Fifth. That in view of the possibility of greater evils in the dark future before us, it is the duty of the Legislature and the Executive of the State to conciliate and cultivate its credit and resources, maintain and improve its military organization, and to take all necessary and proper means to assert the integrity, the dignity, and sovereignty of the State.

Sixth. That as in the heat of passion, excited by civil war, it is impossible to approach the difficulties of measures of peace with that calmness which is requisite, an armistice of six months should be established between the contending States.

Seventh. That in the third month after the armistice has been agreed to, one delegate should be elected in each congressional district in each State, which delegates should on the second Monday of the ensuing month assemble in convention in the city of Lexington, in the State of Kentucky, to discuss such measures of amicable settlement as shall be presented.

Rapise of the Enemy on the Blackwater.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—The following despatch has been received at the headquarters of the army:

Fortress Monroe, Jan. 16.—To Major-General H. W. Hallock, General-in-Chief.—The Richmond papers are boasting that Gen. Poyer repulsed our troops near Providence Church, on the 9th.

The following despatch, of the 10th, from Gen. Peck, gives the true version of the affair. His attack was repulsed by our mounted riders under Major Wheeler.

It is due to the latter and to our troops that the truth should be known, and if you see no objection I will be glad to have the despatch published.

(Signed) JOHN A. DIX,
Major-General.

Scranton, Jan. 10th.—Major-General Dix, Fortress Monroe:—The enemy crossed the Blackwater in considerable force, and attempted yesterday to drive in our right, at Providence Church. Infantry, cavalry and artillery were employed by the Rebels, but they were repulsed by Major Wheeler, of the New York Mounted Rifles, at dusk.

The enemy's advance was checked, and driven back upon his support. At intervals during the night shell were thrown from the Rebel batteries.

(Signed) JOHN J. PECK,
Maj. General Commanding.

Important from Cairo.

CAIRO, Jan. 18.—The ram Switzerland arrived here this evening from the squadron. She brings news of the taking of Arkansas Post, on the Arkansas river, one hundred miles from the mouth, by the land and naval forces under McClellan and Porter. The surrender occurred on Sunday, with all the guns, stores and ammunition.

The full particulars have not been received. The Rebel loss is said to have been five hundred and fifty killed and wounded, and from five to seven thousand taken prisoners. These results may be modified by fuller and more authentic accounts.

The County Commissioners and auditors are now busily engaged in setting and auditing the accounts of the County. As soon as the report is made we will lay it before our readers.

E. J. Mills & Co. have again increased their stock, and their counters are thronged with customers. An establishment of this kind has long been in this place, with low and uniform prices, which favor the poor man as well as those who have wealth. They have stuck to the motto "quick sales small profits."
