

The Ring My Mother Wore.

The earth hath many treasures rare, In gems and golden ore, My heart hath one, more precious far— The ring my mother wore.

I saw it first, when I, a child, Was playing by her side; She told me then 'twas father's gift When she became his bride.

I saw it oft in sorrow's hours, Which marked the after years, When shining on the soft, white hand That wiped away my tears.

And, oh! I saw it once again, When on her dying bed, She lifted up her hand in prayer, And laid it on my head.

Beside that bed, where fell my tears, The ring to me was given; I placed it on my hand, and said, "We'll meet again in heaven!"

I kissed the cheek I oft had pressed, From which the roses had fled; And, bowed with grief, stood motherless, Alone, beside the dead.

Among the blest in realms above, Where sorrows are unknown, O, may I meet my mother dear, No more to weep alone.

Her dying words of love and faith I'll cherish evermore, Within the heart which holds so dear The ring my mother wore.

Mysterious Fire. The following marvelous statement is taken from the Oswego Press of March 7th:

The following most singular phenomenon has occurred at the residences of Wm. S. Stearnes and Richard Freeman, in the town of Rush, about five miles north of this city.

On Tuesday morning last, soon after making the fires, Mrs. Stearnes discovered the carpet burning near the stove, but to one side of it; she extinguished the fire, supposing it to have caught from the stove in some manner.

Soon after the carpet was found burning near the bed which stood in the room, but entirely away from the stove. Regarding the latter fire as very curious she extinguished it, and left the room to attend her work, and being attracted by the smell of fire returned to the front room and found the straw burning in the midst of her bed, under the clothes and feather bed.

She immediately carried the bed out of the house. When she returned the curtains in front of the bed were blazing up to the ceiling above. Being now thoroughly alarmed she sent her little girl, of about ten years, the only person with her, for Mr. Freeman, who came and removed the carpets, clothing and beds from the house, and extinguished the fires in the stoves; while doing this fire broke out in the pantry, burning the papers that were spread on shelves, also articles of cotton ignited in different parts of the chamber.

In this room a clothes rod, suspended by strings of cotton cloth tied to rafters, was heard to fall, and the strings were found burning.

During this time Mr. Stearnes was absent and Mrs. S. and the little girl went home with Mr. Freeman. When they arrived there, as a precaution, the garments of Mrs. S. and the little girl were placed by themselves, a cloak worn by the little girl being put on the bare floor of the bed room. In a half hour after this cloak was found blazing briskly. It was removed from the room, and an hour and a half afterwards the bed in the same room was on fire.

The day following, a pillow case lying in the back room ignited, also a cloth spread over a flour barrel, and a bag containing dried fruit. These articles were all at distances from each other and ignited at different times. A cloth which had been used to wash some bottles was wrung out and hung upon a nail and was found burning at the bottom, and was at the time frozen stiff. In the afternoon a small fire was discovered in the chamber, and was found to proceed from a small box in which a paper wrapping a parcel of sugar was entirely burned from around the sugar.

The box was covered with a lid which shut quite close. A lounge also took fire in a bed room.

On Thursday Mr. Stearnes returned to his house, built fires in the stoves, and soon after a fire broke out in a bed, and in a damp cloth lying on a pantry shelf. He extinguished his fires, and has not occupied the house since, except to watch it.

broke out in some papers in an out-house at Mr. Freeman's. On our return we saw the fresh charred boards which the fire had burned. The fire broke out in five different rooms at Mr. Freeman's house, in no one of which was there any stove or fire place. A watch has been constantly kept by those two families, and every article from their houses. They justly feel the greatest anxiety to have the mystery of these fires solved. Who can do it?

The Abolition Card. Thirty years ago the Abolitionists played their card—"no union with slaveholders." For sixteen years, says Wendell Phillips, "I fought against this Union, because it tolerated slavery."

Garrison and Smith and Abby Kelley and Fred Douglass all have fought openly against the Union with slaveholders. One step after another, steadily, perseveringly, have these destructives pursued their course. At first they were despised and mobbed. But finally the pulpit caught up the cry—"no union with slaveholders." Churches separated. Self-conceited christians refused to sit at the same communion table to partake of the emblem of the blood of the Saviour, with christian members who owned slaves.

The religious sentiment of the country was divided, and Abolitionism exulted. Their infernal work was then half accomplished. Religious books and tracts could not be printed in book houses owned in common by slave and non-slaveholders—the religious business transactions were Sundered. Then a fiendish yell of triumphant exultation went up from the Abolition camp.—The work, already half done, was steadily pushed into political parties, and the Republican party was organized on the "one idea" doctrine, an "irrepressible conflict" between the North and South. The triumphs of this party was hailed with further demonstrations and joy by the same mad set, who had so long defied the Constitution, and worked to break it down.

"It is a great step in advance," said Phillips. "I fought the Union now, because it wars upon slaveholders—it will no longer be a Union with them." He feels that he has triumphed. Gaily, the leader of the fanatics the past ten years or more, it is quite evident, now feels that the Abolition card of thirty years ago has won at last—"no union with slaveholders."

The words printed in his newspaper leave no room to doubt that he is ready for a separation of the free from the slave States. Sad indeed it is for the Union and the people, that the warnings of the Democracy have not been heeded upon this same Abolition crusade against the Union.—Hartford Times.

No DEMOCRAT TO BE ALLOWED TO TAKE THE COMMUNION.—As another instance of the malignant bigotry of a part of the clergy, we mention an occurrence that took place, if we are not mistaken, in Blacklie township, Indiana County, a few Sabbaths ago. A clergyman of the "Seceder" church in inviting communicants to come forward and partake of the sacred emblems of christianity, remarked that all were invited to participate "except full-blooded Democrats!" These he politely invited to stay away, as not being partakers of the blessed atonement of our Saviour.

We do not know the name of this clergyman, but if we did would not hesitate to publish it to the world and give him an immortality of infamy! Such bigots are totally unfit to minister in holy things—are certainly in league with hell, and deserve the contempt of all honest, upright men.—Indiana Democrat.

JOB WORK OF ALL KINDS DONE AT THIS OFFICE ON SHORT NOTICE AND AT REASONABLE PRICES.

Circular from the Cash Store: The subscriber would respectfully announce to the public that he has just returned from the East with his stock of FALL AND WINTER GOODS, which he will sell, as usual, at a very small advance on cost, FOR CASH ONLY. He is anxious to give a price list owing to the daily fluctuations in the market.

His stock is the heaviest and most complete ever brought to the place, and having been purchased at the very lowest prices, will be sold at prices which make it to the interest of cash buyers to call and examine his stock and be convinced that he can and does sell a little cheaper than any credit establishment.

He would call particular attention to his large stock of DRY GOODS, embracing all the latest and MOST DESIRABLE STYLES OF LADIES' DRESS GOODS to be found in the Eastern market. A full assortment of fancy and plain Flannels and Shirtings, large and excellent supply of Linen and Muslins, dozens of patterns of Ladies' Gent's Gloves, all styles of Hosiery, with the most complete selection of Shawls ever exhibited in this market; any amount of Nubias, Opera Hoop Skirts, Patent Hats, and a tremendous pile of American, King & Co.'s Patent Hoop Skirts, ranging from 25 to fifty springs, which will be sold at 25 per cent. under present market value.

Our stock of GROCERIES is complete, and selling a few cents below other establishments.—Our Syrups range from 70 cents per gallon. We would invite particular attention to our large stock of premium Coffee, brought below all other heavy advances, which we sell at 20 cents per lb. It is far superior to any of the varieties lately imported. We have also a heavy stock of TEAS, ranging from 60 cents per pound upwards. We have also a large stock of CHINA, GLASS & BELLE WARE in the latest, most varied and ever offered to the people of this market. It is really beautiful. An examination of our "Show Window" must convince you to stop to view it that we are not "puffing" our wares. The China Ware embraces Sets ranging in price from $10 to $100. Flower Vases, Mugs, and other articles. The Glass Ware embraces everything of every style of manufacture. Our prices are low, and we cannot see how we could better advertised. Wedges and Iron Stone Tea Sets, less than $4.75 per set, which is $1.25 below the selling price elsewhere.

I am now fully convinced that the COFFIN SYSTEM is the best for both the body and soul, enabling one to sell cheaper, without loss, and giving my customers a better article, and more of it, for the same money, than they get at any other establishment. But argument on this point is superfluous. The reason why I can sell cheaper than the credit establishments must be apparent to all, and that I do sell cheaper, I can only convince all who give me a call. A full stock of boots and shoes, All Wool, Ingrain, Hair, Ring and Horse carpets.
