

DEMOCRAT AND SENTINEL.

Ode to Mr. Bullock.

As sung by the Democratic Club of Phila'd.

AIR—WIDOW MACREE.

Och! Mister Bullock it's no wonder you're down,

Och, home! Mr. Bullock.

But the fault is your own ye may wager a crown,

Och, home! Mr. Bullock.

Ah, how altered you air
By your States Prison fare,

And we're toold ye did sware

To be loyal and true,
You no longer the boy

That we wish to employ—

Och, home! Mister Bullock.

Had you staid in the jail without askin for bail,

Och, home! Mr. Bullock,

You'd a had all the Martyrs of Fox by the tail,

Och, home! Mr. Bullock.

Legislatures an all,
We were raisin a squeal,

An ye cant guess at all

What we mint for to do;
Sure we owe you a rap.

For our dreadful mishap,

Och, home! Mr. Bullock.

Oh, why did you fret, for sure Fort Lafayette,

Och, home! Mr. Bullock.

It's a jolly old place for a patriot to get.

Och, home! Mr. Bullock.

Wid the rations so fine,
The cigars and the wine,

And breakfast and dinne,

With the "French Lady" too—
Sure you're hard sir to plaze

Or you're wake in the knass,

Och, home! Mr. Bullock.

Letter from Fernando Wood.

To the Editors of the N. Y. Eve. Post:

At a meeting held at Stamford, Connecticut, on Thursday evening last, I said "that propositions for an armistice or peace had been submitted to the President on the 12th December last, which, had they been accepted, would have terminated the war by the first of April, upon a basis satisfactory to the people North and South."

In referring to this statement you ask;

"Who made these 'proposition for an armistice or peace,' the adoption of which

Mr. Wood pretends to believe, 'would have settled the matter' by All-fool's-day?"

Were they made by Davis and his fellow rebels? If so, how does Mr. Wood know anything about them? Has he been in secret correspondence with the enemy? Or were they made by some of the anti-war men here? If so, who authorized them? And what are the terms of the propositions from which Mr. Wood hopes so much? If they were honorable to the nation—they are such as patriotic Americans ought to favor—why not make them public at once?"

To which I say in reply, that the statement referred to was made by me deliberately, with a full and personal knowledge of the facts, and that I am constrained from the publicity of them only by the request of one of the principal officers of the government. When this interdiction shall be withdrawn, I shall cheerfully satisfy your curiosity.

Very respectfully, &c.,

FERNANDO WOOD.

The Adams Express Robbery.

In addition to the notice of the Safe-robbing which we gave last week, the Baltimore Sun of Tuesday says that the robbery of Adams Express, on Wednesday night last on the Northern Central railway, between Cockeysville and Parkton, was one of the most brazenly managed that has occurred in this neighborhood for some time. On the following morning the robbery was known in this city, and immediately some of the most expert detectives went in search of the safe which had been stolen from the train, and the large reward offered made it an object of considerable interest to those who were engaged in the search. On Sunday some of the people residing in the vicinity of Kroh's paper mill, between Whitehall and Parkton joined in the search, and Mr. J. Burns, with one of his neighbors, while walking on the bank of the race of that mill, discovered an impression on the ground, which had the appearance of having been made by some heavy object. They followed the marks but a short distance when they found the bank scratched as if the object had fallen into the race, and a short search discovered the safe at the bottom. Assistance was obtained, and it was soon taken on the bank. When taken out of the race it had a large white pocket handkerchief tied around it, on removing which it was discovered that the door had been blown open with gunpowder, and a part of the fuse still remained in the lock. The government bonds, certificates and checks were all there, saturated with water, but the money, some fifty thousand dollars in Treasury notes were gone.

The safe was brought to the city yesterday and received by Captain Williams, the travelling agent of the Express Company for the Philadelphia district, which includes the Northern Central railway. The safe was found but a short distance from the railroad track, and a sledge hammer and cold chisel on the bank of the race near by, though they were not used in the work of opening the strong box. There was also found a carpet bag and a suit of old clothing in the immediate vicinity. Thus far no clue has been obtained to the guilty parties. The railway track crossed the mill race in question, and before reaching it the speed of the train is reduced to the rate of three or four miles per hour. After crossing the race there is a curve, and then comes the bridge over the head waters of the Gunpowder river; and the speed is not increased until that bridge is passed, the whole making a distance of some two miles. At the Gunpowder bridge there are workmen employed day and night, and the guards are thrown out for a considerable distance on each side, so that it is supposed the safe was thrown from the train immediately after it passed over the mill race bridge. The safe has been found and returned to the company, but the matter is still shrouded in mystery, though no effort is relaxed to trace the authors of the robbery.
