

Send the State from invasion, and while the Governor was tickling them with honeyed words, his minions and followers were permitted, like harpies to deprive them of food and to compel them to make long and weary marches, without even the poor luxury of crackers and pork.

We take the following extract from a speech made by Gov. Curtin, in Bellefonte, in 1860, a few days after the election.—Hear him: "BEHOLD YOUR CONQUERER! I have you under my feet, I will fight you for three years, and the odds will be on my side."

This truthful prophecy has been fully realized by the tax-payers of Pennsylvania. We have been under the Governor's "feet" and the "fight" has progressed favorably, but it has not yet been definitely settled on whose "side the odds will be." The idea of October will finally settle that question.

AN IMPORTANT DECISION.—In the Supreme Court at Boston, some days ago, a verdict of five thousand seven hundred and fifty dollars was given against the Fitchburg Railroad Company in favor of Mr. Johnston Warren, for damages sustained by him. The Boston Traveller says: "The Court ruled in this case that it was careless on the part of the corporation to run a train at full speed over the track between the depot and another train standing on the outer track waiting for passengers to get on board. It was also ruled that the corporation having sold a ticket to the plaintiff, was liable to damages for injuries while he was going to the train as much as after he got into a car."

Louis Napoleon has discovered how to keep Mexico straight; he sends her a new ruler. What the Emperor of France does when weary with State cares. Takes his little Nap. Cannonizing a man appears to signify making a BIG GUN of him.
