Generalship in bringing his army to the line of the Rappahannock.—When the enemy made his feint of moving up the valley, Meade also made a show of following him in force to attack him in the rear, massing his troops at Kelly's Ford for that purpose.

This drew back Lee's army, so that Meade's intended flanking movement was frustrated.

Meade has brought off every wagon and all his stores to his new line.

From Chattanooga.

CHATTANOOGA, Oct. 12.—Things are unchanged, with the exception that the enemy have removed their artillery from Lookout Mountain, where they had about seven in position, and appear to have withdrawn their forces. It is believed they will concentrate their force on Missionary Ridge. Some of the enemy's pickets are heavy, and all seem to carry arms. They hold both Lookout Mountain and Missionary Ridge, from which they fired shells on both the 4th and 5th inst. On the latter day 150 shells were thrown by the enemy. They, however, caused no damage beyond wounding one horse and killing one horse.

We have several lines of intrenchments and extensive earthworks are still going on. The plan of the enemy appears to be not to make an attack in front, but to send us to abandon Chattanooga by simply holding us in our present position, with their army in our front, annoying us with their artillery, and breaking our lines of communication by cavalry raids in our rear. The last part of this programme is now being carried out by the rebel cavalry, which managed to cross the Tennessee at Cotton Port Ferry, near Sevierville.

After crossing, the main body moved off in a Northern direction. A part of Wheeler fell in with the train of the Fourth corps, near Anderson, in the Sequatchey Valley, stampeded off the horses, and destroyed between two hundred and three hundred wagons, about one-half of which were loaded with ammunition and the balance with clothing and supplies.

The mules they could not run off they shot, to the number of several hundred, as they were leaving the scene of destruction. Colonel ——, commanding a cavalry division, came up with a part of his command, consisting of the Second Indiana, First Wisconsin, and First East Tennessee cavalry, attacked them at once and had a running fight with them to Dunlap, in which 120 rebels were killed and wounded, and sixty of our men, including nine officers, were killed and wounded. Our men used their sabres alone.

The army is still well supplied with everything but clothing and blankets, the want of which, in the unusually cool weather, causes considerable suffering.

All the wounded able to bear removal have been sent North. The casualties in the late battle will not be less than fifteen hundred.

On Thursday the Rebels from the opposite shore of the river fired into our wagons and ambulance trains passing over the Valley road, wounding two men and killing and wounding several mules. They seem determined on embarrassing our transportation in every possible way.

The forces of Wheeler, after burning a portion of Shelbyville, were attacked by Colonel Cook, not far from that place, on Wednesday. We killed 120 of the enemy, took 300 prisoners, and three pieces of artillery.

The rebels were pursued by our forces in the direction of Fayetteville, overtaken, and three hundred more prisoners lost by them. At last accounts they were making their way into the interior, closely pursued by our cavalry, which is regarded as sufficient to take care of them.

Bragg has crossed the Tennessee with a thousand men. He passed through Chattanooga on the Memphis and Charleston Railroad on Thursday, and made off in the direction of Winchester. On Friday night they drove in our pickets at the Tunnel, this side of Cowan. Some damage was done by throwing down stones, but to no great extent, and the damage has been removed. General Hooker sent a force last night to that place, but the rebels did not venture to attack.

The Recent Movement.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—Parties who arrived from the front this morning, say there was considerable skirmishing yesterday, between the cavalry on either side, and smart musketry fireing was heard yesterday afternoon in the vicinity of Rappahannock Station. It is here presumed by persons generally well informed that the movement of Meade was, in fact, one previously decided upon in case of certain contingencies, as indicated by sending to the rear, some time since, certain articles of a cumbrous nature.

One hundred wounded from Kilpatrick's cavalry division reached here this morning. One hundred and thirty sick from the same army corps (2d), also arrived. They were distributed among several of the hospitals. A number of prisoners captured near Raccoon Ford, on the 10th instant, reached here from the Army of the Potomac. It is represented that the fighting has been purely on our side, at least, by cavalry and artillery supports of cavalry, the main army not having been engaged at all. Last night, at Waterton Junction, some rebels set fire to a train of cars containing hay and grain, doing some little damage.

Passengers who arrived here from the front this afternoon, state that yesterday a reconnoitering party of the 6th Corps crossed the Rappahannock to a short distance beyond, and returned towards night to near Bealton. Another reconnoitering party skirted up the right bank of the Rappahannock yesterday afternoon, and returned to the vicinity of Rappahannock Station last night.

There was some skirmishing along the lines yesterday, but all was quiet through the night up to an early hour this morning.

The loss in Gregg's division of cavalry is said to be severe. The 14th and 13th Pennsylvania and 10th New York are suffering most.

On Sunday night our forces crossed the Rappahannock, and on Monday morning two corps recrossed and drove the enemy to Brandy station, with a severe loss in killed, wounded and prisoners on the rebel side.

They then received an order to fall back, which they did in good order, Gen. Buford with his cavalry on the left, Kilpatrick in the centre, and Gregg on the right. Gregg and Buford succeeded in holding the enemy in check on the right and left until nine o'clock, when, acting under orders, they fell back on our main body, the purpose of the movement having been effected. The crossing by Meade to the north side of the Rappahannock was made mainly at Kelly's Ford, and it was effected in admirable order. Captain Rhodes and Lieutenant Prentiss, of the 1st Rhode Island Cavalry, were seriously wounded.

The Evening Star says the skillful manner by which Meade checkmated his astute adversary, and without loss of any sort to any great extent, placed himself on the other side of Jordan, and in a position where he preferred to accept battle, seems to have considerably bothered the rebels, who do not seem inclined to fight unless with the Indian-like advantages of a surprise and ambuscade. The change of position made by our army was effected without the slightest confusion, and the amount of stores destroyed or left behind beyond Culpepper would not make a car load all told.

The following officers, wounded in the engagement on Sunday, arrived this morning from the Army of the Potomac:—Lieut. Col. Crocker, of Gen. Pleasanton's staff; Dr. Forwood, U. S. A.; Lieut. Chaffie; 6th U. S. Cavalry; and Capt. W. F. Aiken, 6th N. Y. Cavalry.

Later from Charleston.

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—The Steamer continental, from Hilton Head on the 8th inst., arrived here this morning. She makes the following report.

On the night of the 6th inst. the rebels sent down a torpedo attached to a raft, from Charleston to the Ironsides, off Fort Moultrie, which exploded under the bow of the Ironsides, throwing a great volume of water on board of her putting out all the fires, killing Ensign Howard and wounding two seamen, but doing no damage to the vessel.

The rebel who had charge of the torpedo was captured.

The Ironsides remains anchored off Moultrie House.

The Monitors are doing picket duty off Fort Sumpter.

General Gilmore is still erecting batteries on Morris Island.

The Continental towed the brig Young Republic, of Portland, out of Hilton Head, intending to take her to New York, but was obliged to cast her loose during a gale, the brig bearing up for Beaufort.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct 12.—Greathouse, Harpending and Rabbey, three of the leaders among the captured in this harbor last winter, when putting to sea aboard the privateer Chapman, were to-day found guilty to the charge laid in the indictment, after a patient trial, lasting some ten days. The extreme penalty is ten years imprisonment and $10,000 fine.

DIED.—At Okeana, Ohio, on Wednesday, the 30th September, 1863, ELIZA, wife of Samuel Lloyd Esq., and daughter of Maj David Evans, of Cambria county, aged 42 years.

The deceased was well known to many of our citizens as a lady of great worth, possessing an active intellect, and endowed with a fair share of poetic talent. She leaves a husband and three children to mourne the loss of a devoted wife, and affectionate parent.

From Rev. J. Newton Brown, D. D. Editor of the Encyclopedia of Religious Knowledge.

Although not disposed to favor or recommend Patent Medicines in general, through distrust of their ingredients and effects, I yet know of no sufficient reasons why a man may not testify to the benefits he believes himself to have received from any simple preparation, in the hope that he may thus contribute to the benefit of others.

I do this the more readily in regard to Hoofland's German Bitters, prepared by Dr. C. M. Jackson of this city, because I was prejudiced against them for many years, under the impression that they were chiefly an alcoholic mixture. I am indebted to my friend Robert Shoemaker, Esq., for the removal of this prejudice by proper tests, and for encouragement to try them, when suffering from great and long continued debility. The use of three bottles of these Bitters, at the beginning of the present year, was followed by evident relief, and restoration to a degree of bodily and mental vigor which I had not felt for six months before, and had almost despaired of regaining. I therefore thank God and my friend for directing me to the use of them. J. NEWTON BROWN.

We have no hesitation in stating that, if these Bitters were freely used among our soldiers, hundreds of lives might be saved that otherwise would be lost.
