Congressional.

As this is the last paper you will get previous to the October election, our readers will excuse us for saying a few words to them on the Congressional canvass. The Abolition candidate has been playing a bold game with regard to the draft in Cambria county. For his own benefit he had near 300 more men drafted than the quota of the county, this was done for the purpose of frightening them away from the election lest these men should swell up the majority against him. Harr is his creature and the balance of the board are his partisans, and he therefore can do what he chooses with them. So much for what yankee ignorance and impudence with cunning can do. He has about capacity enough to keep an entire animal for the benefit of agriculture. Indeed he would be admirably suited for that occupation, being a man of good bodily strength he could keep the animal under perfect control, and being of sober and regular habits he would be always found at his post. Had he turned his attention to this business instead of Congress, he would deserve the thanks of the community instead of trying to disgrace himself and them by running for Congress, he deserves their execration.

We can hardly blame him for this, it is a kind of disease incident to the people of New England, we are not Physician enough to describe it. It is a moderate type of hydrocephalus incited by ignorance and impudence, and breaks out in no section of America except in New England. When it lingers in the Constitution of a man and breaks out on him he is not only to be pitied himself but he becomes troublesome to his neighbors. When this disease becomes chronic, the patient thinks he is a greater man than any other of the same grade of society, and would stop at nothing to make the people think so. Benedict Arnold was the first Yankee that this disease broke out on to an alarming extent, you all know his history and we need not repeat it. The members of the Hartford Convention were all diseased with this malady. Summer is one of those, he can scarcely now be satiated with blood, although he himself is as great a coward as ever trod the green earth. When Brooks undertook to cowhide him, with a small ratan he held up his hands and implored for mercy declaring that he was a non-combatant and could not protect himself, and was so frightened that he had to travel over Europe for nearly a year to get the scare off. Although many boys of ten or twelve years of age got as much as he got once or twice a week from their parents or teachers.

This disease never attacks the Democrats of New England, they are as patriotic and noble hearted a people as we ever met with. It is entirely confined to Abolitionists or Reformers as they call themselves sometimes. They are always hurrying the work of the Lord and trying to assist him with the morals of the community. Whether this melancholy disease incident to the Yankee Abolitionists came over in the Mayflower, or whether it is indigenous to the soil we cannot say, but of one thing we are certain that there are no people in these disunited States, so devoid of patriotism or so intermeddling in human affairs as these Abolition Yankees who are affected with this disease. They all pretend to love God and hate their neighbor, though the Scripture says "he who says he loveth God and hateth his neighbor is a liar and the truth is not in him." They are all therefore liars from the bloodthirsty preachers, down to this man Barker, if there be any truth in Scripture.

That this disease has become chronic with Barker we are well aware; when he came here on an exploring expedition, hot from the "Maine Liquor Law," some year or two before he discovered his slave localities, he took it into his head that he could reform this County from its evil habits and drive the infamous intoxicating cup from the land, as the Lord was slow in doing it. This was previous to the negro Laying absorbed his sole attention.

He came to Johnstown and got privilege to hold forth in a shed or some waste house in that town, on the benches of the "Maine Liquor Law." In making his tour of observation through the village, (for it was a village then) in the evening he passed by a large grocery where he saw a great many barrels of Monongahela. He entered into conversation with the owner. Asked him if these barrels were all full. Having received an answer in the affirmative from the gentlemanly proprietor, and also other answers to queries with regard to the amount sold weekly, he retired with some capital for his lecture. The lecture came on, and a good many people gathered in to hear what the big Yankee had to say on the liquor question. He floundered away as if his mouth was full of fire, until he came to relate the incident about the whiskey barrels. He described the scene as awful about the whiskey barrels and the proprietor as entirely gone up, "that his head was more like a beef head than that of a human being." "You are a liar," said Jacob Froehner, "that was me and your head is more like a beef head as mine." This brought down the shed, and in the turmoil the orator vomited the ranch, and never was heard of as a temperance lecturer since. He now has turned his sole attention to the negro and politics and it has been said and also verified on oath, that he has promised after he gets through with the negro to assist the Lord in getting rid of another branch of Godless ethics as important as any of the former. We have no personal feeling against Mr. Barker, we would do him a kindness as soon as we would to any other neighbor, a feeling of duty to the Democratic party would not permit us to let him slip through unnoticed. We might have said things, and said them truly, that would make Mr. Barker wince if his hide was as thick as an elephant's, but we forbear. We set nothing down in malice, we only introduce him to the voters of the County in a spirit of kindness. We have always been grateful to Providence for two inestimable favors conferred on us, the first is that we have been born of the masculine gender instead of the feminine, because it is as much as we can do to sustain the character of a gentleman, and we would never be able to sustain the character of a lady, with our present natural gifts. The second is that we have not been born a Yankee Abolitionist, because we might then be subject to the same infirmity that lingers in the constitution of our friend Barker. That disease which hardens the face, softens the head, and blunts the intellect.

"To Your Tents, O Israel!"

"RALLY ROUND THE FLAG, BOYS!" Are you determined to come to the election all you Democrats of Cambria county? This may be the last free general election ever you will have in Pennsylvania; for be assured if Lincoln will be elected this time, he will see that he never will be put in jeopardy again for want of votes.

You aged men who lived so long here under a prosperous and flourishing commonwealth, try and redeem the country for your offspring before you leave it.

You men of vigor and activity of life give this day cheerfully to your country, in not only voting yourselves, but affording every facility to your aged infirm neighbors to go the polls.

You young men who have just arrived at manhood, see that you exert yourselves on this important occasion. There is no election but what is important, but this is the most important since the days of Thomas Jefferson. Let every Democratic voter be present and vote the whole ticket, from Congress down to the County Auditor.

See that your tickets are all right, read them yourself or if you can't read show them to some reliable Democrat to read them for you, and then don't let them out of your hand, to you give them to the inspector of the election.

Every gun must be opened upon the enemy. That enemy that wishes to enslave the white man, and with a false philanthropy for the black man, will ruin him for the sake of power for themselves. Wait not for leaders the work devolves on yourselves. In your honesty of purpose you waited to the thieves broke into your houses and has robbed you of your best property and are now about to tie you neck and heel and cast you into a pit from which it will be impossible for you to extricate yourselves. While your hands and feet are loose, meet these cowardly foes of human liberty at the ballot-box, and they will shrink from you, as a common thief would from a detective. Listen to no talk from them until after the election. They will tell you nothing but lies; Abe Lincoln tells lies, Stanton's dispatches are nearly all lies, and of course the small fry are indoctrinated in the science of lying. Believe them not.

Do your work clean and well, leave bribery and corruption to that party whose very essence is corruption. Then will you be prepared to finish your work up in November by the election of George B. McClellan, a gentleman, a soldier and patriot. This must be done by exertion. The Lincoln party will not be easily driven from their plunder. They will stick to the plunder as a tiger would stick to blood, regardless of honesty, decency or patriotism. But the honest Democracy have the power to do it, and it will be done. "We must not put our hand to the plow and look back. Let there be no such word in our vocabulary as fail. The American Democracy never failed when they were united, and they never were better united nor could they be than at the present time. Then as we said above, "To your tents O Israel," and success will crown our efforts.

Roman Pliester, a watchman from Gallitzen to Cresson on the Pennsylvania Railroad, was killed on Wednesday night, by sitting down on the track and falling asleep. Many have lost their lives in this manner, and it seems strange to us watchman will venture to sit down on the track at all.

Notice to the Drafted.

At the earnest and repeated solicitation of Hon. Edgar Cowan, U. S. Senator, the Secretary of War has decided that men who paid the three hundred dollars commutation are not liable to the present draft. Men who paid said commutation will therefore be exempted upon the presentation of their certificates to the Board at Hollidaysburg, on the day they are notified to appear. The following is the order of the Provost Marshal:

PROVOST MARCHAL'S OFFICE, 17th DISTRICT, PENNA. HOLLIDAYSBURG, Sept. 28, 1864.

The Secretary of War orders that if any person drafted shall claim exemption on the ground of having paid three hundred dollars commutation money to procure a substitute under the acts approved March 3d, 1863, and February 24, 1864, upon due proof of such payment having been made, he will be entitled to exemption from the draft.

The names of the following persons drawn in the last draft have been stricken from the list, and they are, of course, exempt; and they are not required to report to the Board. Why this excess was drawn in this county, it is not for us to say at the present time. The correction was made in ample time to prevent this excess from being drawn, but still this Board with Barker as their outside man, gave them a bonus of twenty-five per cent. beyond any other county in the District, and beyond what they were entitled to. We trust this scheme has not frightened any of the following names away from their homes as was evidently the intention. You are yet free from this blood-sucking triumvirate.

From the Southern Papers.

Governor Brown reported to General Sherman on his proposition for peace, that their negotiations could lead to no practical results, as Sherman was only a general of one of the Federal armies and he was only Governor of one of the Confederate States.

A correspondent says that Hood is in cheerful spirits, and before many months the Confederates will hear from him through quite a novel and unexpected channel.

The Montgomery Advertiser says that M'Gruder has gone into Arkansas as with a very heavy force.

Jefferson Davis on his way to Georgia, made a speech at Salisbury, North Carolina, he said although reverse had befallen them, the spirit of the Confederacy was unbroken. It would yet bring peace and independence from a hated foe. He called on all to enter the army, and urged the women to marry no man who shirked the duties of a soldier.

A correspondent of the Charleston Courier, says, an agreement has been effected by the rebel Government, and a Commissioner by which 30,000 soldiers of approved valor will be added to their armies. They are to receive a grant of land from the Confederacy. The correspondent intimates these soldiers are to come from Poland. It is reported that Sherman's army are coming North, by thousands.

DESOLATION.—Georgia, from Chattanooga to Marietta, about one hundred and fifty miles, is totally swept of its male inhabitants. "In the still standing cottages near the depots, selling pies and fruit around the cars you see the lean, lank, yellow-skinned women of the lower classes, with their tow-headed children, but never an able-bodied man. Every able-bodied man wears the Federal uniform, every able-bodied negro is in the service of the army." Here, how different the scene! Here able-bodied men out of the army are abundant, and nine cases out of ten, should you ask them where they buy their clothing, they will answer at E. J. Mills & Co.'s cheap store, who always have on hand a large and complete assortment of all kinds of goods. Call and see them.

Victory.

About next Saturday or Monday at the furthest, look out for the most brilliant victories of the season. Stanton will issue it out as coming from a reliable source or from an intelligent contraband, that Richmond is taken and also Charleston. That Lee's army is bagged and Lee himself mortally wounded. Jefferson Davis will be dangerously ill with the yellow fever. Not only the backbone of the rebellion will be crushed, but its neck will be broken. This is all for electioneering purposes. Whereas if all these things would happen, the rebellion would still be in full life and vigor and will last as long as Lincoln and his shifty contractors will last.

We see by the Alleghenians, that Francis Flaigan has retired from the canvass as Abolition candidate for Sheriff, and that George Englebaugh has got into the Union League, and takes his place.

We are of the humble opinion that it makes no particular difference which of the two men will run. But we are satisfied to adopt the sentiment uttered by the greatest of philosophers and statesmen, Abraham, "That it is no time to swap horses."

The National Intelligencer, the old and able organ of the Whig party; the Louisville Journal, one of the most influential papers in the country; the New London Chronicle, Connecticut, which supported Lincoln and Johnson for weeks after the Baltimore Convention; the Ann Arbor Journal, Michigan, formerly Republican; the Suffolk Herald, one of the most influential Republican papers in Long Island, N. Y.; the Samoset Mt. Herald, Rep.; and the St. Louis Journal, the Cincinnati Volksfreund, and the Iowa Democrat, are among the journals that are now supporting M'Cellan, Pendleton, and the UNION.
