

OUR RECKLESSNESS.

The following remarks, by the Lancaster Intelligencer, upon this subject are both true and sad:

"We have learned to hear of the slaughter of hundreds and thousands of men without so much as a shudder. The daily announcement of skirmishes, in which from ten to a hundred men, full of lusty life, are hurried out of existence, is disposed of in a brief sentence, a short telegram, read by millions, and forgotten almost as soon as read. Scenes of horror, the recital of which, if occurring in India or Ethiopia, would have made our very blood curdle before we had become imbruted by this horrible civil war, now moves us no longer. We have become as blood-thirsty as the voracious painted devil of an Indian who once scoured the forests which grew where our cities now stand. Our preaches are no more ministers of the gospel of the God of peace. The churches of the land reek with the sickening odors of slaughter, and the occupants of many of the sacred desks bawl from Sabbath to Sabbath, like howling devils, for blood.

"We are bloodthirsty, thoughtless, reckless. Our cities were never gayer than they are now. The theatres are crowded nightly, and all the haunts of gilded crime are filled to overflowing. Extravagance is the order of the day, gaudy equipages, 'turn out' of vulgar aristocrats, whose purses have grown plenteous from unlimited public plunder, crowd every avenue; jewelry glitters on red fingers and arms unused to such adornments; brown-stone fronts and marble palaces spring up, at enormous cost, and if by the stroke of an enchanter's wand they are filled with gorgeous upholstery, and the occupants revel in luxury.

"We are running a wild race of bloody deeds, of national and social extravagance, of folly and of crime, which is the wonder of the world. The nations of the earth look on in utter amazement, while they predict a disastrous end to this mad career. Is there not good reason to fear they are right? There must come a day of reckoning. That it will be a very sad one no thinking man can doubt.

FEARFUL EXPLOITS OF CAPT. MONTJOY.

The following is taken from the Richmond Sentinel, of December 6th: Captain Montjoy, of Mosby's command, at the head of some men fell in with a party of Yankee troops, on Monday last, between Leesburg and the Point of Rocks. In the fight which ensued, Montjoy killed or captured two lieutenants and thirty-one privates. While pursuing the fugitives, one of them fired a random shot over his shoulder, which unhappily took effect upon Captain Montjoy just below the eye, killing him upon the spot. He was the only one of his command that was touched. Besides the federals who were captured, two confederates, who had been taken by the party of Yankees at Leesburg, were recaptured by Montjoy's men. They were Captain Frederick W. Smith (son of Governor Smith) and Mr. Coleman. Captain R. F. Montjoy, who has closed in the manner above stated, a career crowded with deeds of successful personal gallantry, and full of hair-breadth escapes and exciting incidents, was a citizen of Mississippi, and in the beginning of the war did service in a Louisiana regiment. Promoted to a captaincy in Mosby's command, his achievements have formed the theme of many a story, which the people among whom his operations lay, loved to dwell upon. At one time he was attacked by five mounted men, with whom he kept up a running fight, and severely wounded three of them, when the remaining two went back for reinforcements! They expressed their admiration for Montjoy, and called him a "little shooting machine." Very small of stature, he was of great activity and endurance, and no soldier ever exhibited in conflict more of that serene and inspiring enthusiasm which has been called the "joy of battle."

LIME AND ANIMAL LIFE. A moorman caught a young alligator in his fishing kraal in the Matura river, and I went to see it. It was alive, and to all appearance there was no reason why, if left alone, it should not grow up to alligator's estate. Its length was about three and a half feet. Thinking that this would be a good opportunity for testing the correctness of what I had heard in the north of the island about the remarkable effect of lime upon the alligator, I asked a man to bring me some, on which he procured from a neighboring house a lump of chunamb, or lime prepared from shells, which the natives are in the habit of chewing along with the nut of the areca palm, and the leaves of the betel creeper. The lime had previously been moistened with water. Having opened the jaws of our unfortunate victim—an operation to which it submitted with exemplary resignation (when it found it could not prevent it)—we inserted, as far back as the opening into the throat, a lump of chunamb about as large as a pigeon's egg, after which we put the animal into the water. Immediately it turned over on its sides and then on its back, and appeared paralyzed; soon its eyes closed, and I thought it was dead. After about five minutes it revived a little. I could not remain longer to watch it, but

U. S. 7-30 LOAN!

The Secretary of the Treasurer gives notice that subscriptions will be received for Coupon Treasury Notes, payable three years from August 15th, 1864, with semi-annual interest at the rate of seven and three-tenths per cent. per annum—principal and interest both to be paid in lawful money.

These notes will be convertible at the option of the holder at maturity, into six per cent. gold bearing bonds, payable not less than five nor more than twenty years from their date, as the Government may elect. They will be issued in denominations of $50, $100, $500 $1,000 and $5,000, and all subscriptions must be for fifty dollars or some multiple of fifty dollars.

The notes will be transmitted to the owners free of transportation charges as soon after the receipt of the original Certificates of Deposit as they can be prepared.

As the notes draw interest from August 15, persons making deposits subsequent to that date must pay the interest accrued from date of note to date of deposit.

Parties depositing twenty-five thousand dollars and upwards for these notes at any time will be allowed a commission of one-quarter of one per cent., which will be paid by the Treasury Department upon the receipt of a bill for the amount, certified to by the officer with whom it was made—No delinquency for commissions must be made from the deposits.

SPECIAL ADVANTAGE OF THIS LOAN. It is a National Savings Bank, offering a higher rate of interest than any other, and the best security. Any Savings Bank which pays its depositors in U. S. Notes, considers that it is paying in the best circulating medium of the country, and it cannot pay in anything better, for its own assets are either in government securities or in notes or bonds payable in government paper.

It is equally convenient as a temporary or permanent investment. The notes can always be sold for within a fraction of their face and accumulated interest, and are the best security with banks as collaterals for discounts.

CONVERTIBLE INTO A SIX PER CENT 5-20 GOLD BOND. In addition to the very liberal interest on the notes for three years, this privilege of conversion is now worth about three per cent. per annum, for the current rate for 5-20 Bonds is not less than nine per cent. premium and before the war the premium on the six per cent. U. S. Stocks was over twenty per cent. It will be seen that the actual profit on this loan, at the present market rate, is not less than ten per cent. per annum.

ITS EXEMPTION FROM STATE OR MUNICIPAL TAXATION. But aside from all the advantages we have enumerated, a special Act of Congress exempts all bonds and Treasury notes from local taxation. On the average, this exemption is worth about two per cent per annum, according to the rate of taxation in various parts of the country.

It is believed that no securities offer so great inducements to the lenders as those issued by the government. In all other forms of indebtedness, the faith or ability of private parties, or stock companies, or separate communities, only, is pledged for payment, while the whole property of the country is held to secure the discharge of all the obligations of the United States.

While the government offers the most liberal terms for its loans, it believes that the very strongest appeal will be to the loyalty and patriotism of the people.

Duplicate certificates will be issued for all deposits. The party depositing must endorse upon the original certificate the denomination of notes required, and whether they are to be issued in blank, or payable to order. When so endorsed it must be left with the officer receiving the deposit, to be forwarded to the Treasury Department.

Subscriptions will be received by the Treasurer of the United States, at Washington, the several assistant Treasurers and designated Depositaries, and by the and by all National Banks which are depositaries of public money, and RESPECTABLE BANKS AND BANKERS throughout the country will give further information, and AFFORD EVERY FACILITY TO SUBSCRIBERS. August 10, 1864. 3m.
